MONASTIR FALLS, LONDON HEARS

DOCTOR-JURY AGREES BABY WAS DEFECTIVE

AUTOPSY PROVES CASE

Dr. Harry J. Halselden was put on trial by a jury of his peers yesterday.

Late in the afternoon six of the foremost physicians in Chicago went to the German-American hospital, were sworn by Coroner Hoffman as a coroner's jury, and ranged themselves silently about the body of Allen Bollinger Jr., the defective baby whom Dr. Halselden had permitted to die because of its deformities.

At the request of the doctor-jurors a second autopsy was performed in their presence by Dr. H. G. W. Reinhardt, chief coroner's physician. These men wanted no hearsay evidence. They were to pass on the integrity of a fellow physician and on a problem of human ethics which, in forty-eight hours, had stirred the indignation or approval of a divided nation.

What of the Verdict?

They wanted to see with their own eyes. And the verdict?

No official announcement was made. The inquest was continued until this afternoon and the members of the jury, behind closed doors, made a solemn agreement not to discuss their findings.

But the physicians had seen the evidence and were satisfied. And on the best of authority it may be stated that their conclusion was this:

Dr. Halselden was right.

Proven a Defective.

"Dr. Reinhardt went farther in this autopsy," the coroner said. "He made some discoveries that had not been made before, and we found the child was even more defective than was indicated last night—far more defective even than Dr. Halselden said."

Dr. John F. Golden, a member of the jury, told THE TRIBUNE that he was in honor bound not to discuss the inquest, but he added significantly:

"I will tell you this much: Nothing that I could say about that post-mortem would make a story. If you understand what I mean by that, all right."

Inasmuch as the "story" would lie in a plea to recommend that Dr. Halselden be prosecuted, the inference was clear. So far as the coroner's jury is concerned, there will be no condemnation.

These Compose Jury.

The physicians who compose the jury are:

Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, professor of pathology at the Rush Medical college of the University of Chicago, foreman.

Dr. John F. Golden, surgeon at Mercy hospital, sent as a substitute for Dr. John B. Murphy, who was summoned, but was unable to serve.

Dr. Arthur Rankin, professor of anatomy at Loyola university.

Dr. Howard Chislett, dean of the Hahnemann Medical college.

Dr. D. A. K. Steele, dean of physiology at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Illinois.

Dr. Henry F. Lewis, obstetrician at the Cook county hospital.

Not Fault Finding.

Coroner Hoffman ordered the inquest as soon as he reached his office in the morning and announced that it would be composed of "the best medical authorities he could find." He telephoned the physicians

LET DEFECTIVE BABIES DIE, PLEA OF MOTHER WHO KNOWS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—While physicians, preachers, and others have been discussing whether it is better to let defective babies die or to seek to prolong their lives, Mrs. Ada Ohl, wife of Lewis Ohl, a butcher living at 2136 Washington avenue, the Bronx, has been finding, through fifteen years of misery, what an actual experience of this problem means. She told her story to a reporter today.

"If Mrs. Alice Bollinger and Dr. Halselden have been guilty of committing a great wrong in letting this defective child die," Mrs. Ohl said, her eyes filling with tears, "then I am equally guilty. For fifteen years I have been praying, night and day, for my little crippled boy to find rest in death.

"Only one who has had the great sorrow of being the parent of a defective child can talk about this.

"What right have Jane Addams and other women who have never been mothers to upbraid Dr. Halselden for delivering that deformed body from torture? I only wish more doctors had his courage.

"My story is only one of a hundred. When I married my husband was a prosperous butcher. He owned his own shop and several apartment houses. Today he is working in another man's shop and the house we are living in is mortgaged heavily and we fear foreclosure. And with all our sacrifices we could not keep our boy out of an institution.

"Frederick was born two years after my marriage. From the day of his birth he was a weakling. The first time I gave him his bath I realized my baby was a cripple. He could not support his head. My doctor again told me my fears were groundless.

"When Frederick was 3 months old another doctor told me it would be impossible to decide the child's condition until he was a year old. By that time I was nearly frantic. I went to another physician, who had the courage to tell me that my baby was an incurable defective.

"My husband and I neglected everything for the child. I consulted every prominent physician I heard of and went all over the country with the baby. He was down in the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore and they gave up the case as incurable.

"Thus began our life of hell. I vowed that I would never again become a mother. Two years later I found myself again approaching motherhood. I nearly went insane.

"Even after the second child's birth the fear that he, too, might be a defective haunted me. The strain was too much and I fell ill. My husband had to leave his business in the care of others and devote himself to his family. Soon he found himself a bankrupt.

"I tried to teach my son, who was growing rapidly, but it took twelve years to get him to say 'papa,' 'mamma,' 'hello,' and 'good-by.' As he grew older the struggle became worse.

"Last July I collapsed after fourteen years of caring for him and the doctors told me that I had permanently injured myself by carrying the boy around and must undergo a serious operation. What was I to do? I did not even have the money for an operation, having spent every cent we had on doctors for the boy. I had to go to the charities commissioner and beg him to take my boy. My baby for whom I had given up health and every happiness, I had to put in an institution."

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Suffering from four mortal diseases, an infant is being kept alive in New Haven General hospital. The child has pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria, and syphilis.

The case is regarded as hopeless yet $600 already has been spent by the city of New Haven in the care of the child because physicians at the hospital believe they have no right under medical ethics to refuse to try to save life where they find it.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 18.—Dr. J. R. Brown, former president of the Washington State Medical society, said that in a case involving closure of the intestines, identical with the Bollinger case in Chicago, he and other physicians recommended operating, but the mother and father refused. "The Lord didn't make the baby right; it's no use trying to save it," he quoted the mother as saying. The infant was allowed to die.

HEROIC IS THE PICTURE OF THIS MATERNITY SCENE.

But Undertaker Alleges That Little Mite by the Pale, Frail Wife Was Bought, Not Born to Her.

In a west side hospital the little wife lay, waiting with the courage of women for the new life to come and snuggle in the hollow of her arm.

James Gordon, the husband, was a man who knew the frailty of human life better than most men. He was an undertaker. Sometimes he knew that a mother gave the new breath with her own last. And every day he was at the bedside, watching with the motherly old midwife. And then, one day, the midwife pulled back the cover and showed him the tiny human bit that nestled by his wife's side. His son!

That was five years ago. Yesterday in a cross bill to his wife's divorce, Mr. Gordon, whose place of business is at 3603 West Twenty-second street, alleged that little Robert is not his son at all. The affidavit of a midwife is filed which declares that Mrs. Gordon purchased the baby and arranged the little maternity scene for the husband's benefit.

ITALIAN SHIPS CANCEL TRIPS

New York, Nov. 18.—Sailings of all vessels of the Italian and allied lines from New York for foreign ports have been canceled until further notice. This was announced today by Hartfield, Solari & Co., agents of the Italian line. The sinking of the Ancona, which belonged to the Italian line, and the submarine menace to other ships are believed to have caused the cancellation of the sailings.

WILL SCRAMBLE CHICAGO WITH AVALANCHE OF EGGS.

Humpty Dumpty Had Mild Fall Compared with Drop Predicted in Market Here.

Housewives, here's your chance! A Philadelphia man is out for revenge and is going to try to break the egg market. Beginning Monday morning he says he will dump 240,000 dozen eggs on the Chicago retail market daily at 25 cents a dozen. He says he will guarantee the quality to equal that of eggs retailing at 35 and 40 cents. The bargain shower of ovoids will last thirty days, or as long as the egg supply lasts.

The egg magnate went to Texas last May and bought 150 carloads of eggs for 18 and 20 cents a dozen, intending to put them in cold storage here and in the east and hold them for winter prices, but he found the meat packers had gobbled up all the storage space. Now, to get revenge, he says, he's going to flood the market with cheap eggs at the rate of 8,000 cases a day.

The egg man took part in the sensational egg sale by the Housekeepers' league in Philadelphia several years ago.

CHIEF OGALLALA FIRE DYING.

Survivor of Custer's Fight Says He'll Be Seen No More in Circus Regalia.

Chief Ogallala Fire, 87 years old, a survivor of Custer's last fight, will be seen no more in the circuses and museums. He is telling his beads in bed at the home of his friend, Chief Littlebear, at 1926 Cleveland avenue.

Last evening Mrs. Littlebear phoned THE TRIBUNE that the chief was dying. When a reporter arrived Chief Ogallala said he wanted his friends to know he would not live long and wanted to see them before he died.

Chief Ogallala Fire has been featured in nearly every circus in the country. Leaving the reservation in Idaho nearly forty years ago, the chief has served with many medicine shows, museums, and moving picture companies.

HAVE IT PULLED INSIDE.

Healey Says Dental Shops on Vacant Lots Are Against the Law.

Don't have any dental work done on a street corner or vacant lot. Chief Healey says it is against the laws and ordinances of the city.

If your teeth need attention it is better, the chief thinks, to go to a dentist who has an office in a building. You can choose your own dentist.

The following order was yesterday sent to commanding officers:

"I am in receipt of a communication from the commissioner of health, to which is attached an opinion from the corporation counsel, stating that the performance of dental work on street corners or in vacant lots is in violation of the laws and ordinances. You are therefore directed to suppress the same."

DEMANDS PROOF 350 GIRLS FALL IN CITY SCHOOLS

"PASS BUCK" ALONG.

The school management committee of the board of education yesterday afternoon heard from Ella Flagg Young, the superintendent, a denial and denunciation of charges that there is wholesale immorality in the city's high schools.

Previous to the committee's consideration of these charges, Mrs. Young had traced them to three sources. The school board members asked the board's attorney, Angus Roy Shannon, to take such action as will force the three persons to prove their statements or retract them.

Three Sources of Story.

The three persons to whom Mrs. Young traced the allegations against the morality of the high school girls and boys are:

MRS. LEONORA Z. MEDER, former Chicago commissioner of public welfare.

DR. JANE SHERZER, president of Oxford College for Women, Oxford, O.

Dr. Sherzer is the first person from whom the charges emanated, so far as Mrs. Young has learned. Mrs. Young some time ago wrote to Dr. Sherzer, but thus far has received no reply.

Mrs. Meder's Charge.

Mrs. Meder, when asked for her authority for the recent written statement that "there were 350 cases of ruined girls in the high schools of Chicago last year," referred to Mr. Sercombe. He in turn "passed the buck" to a woman physician, unnamed.

Mr. Sercombe appeared before the committee yesterday in much embarrassment and said he gave the figures as a private citizen and not as the statistician of the board.

Would Discredit Schools.

Mrs. Young, who brought the case to the attention of the committee, said she believed it was an effort to discredit the public high schools.

She declared she had written to every principal and instructed them to inquire of every teacher as to whether or not conditions such as those described by Dr. Sherzer and Mrs. Meder existed. The teachers and principals were unanimous that such conditions did not exist.

Loeb Admits Some Basis.

Trustee Jacob M. Loeb said he knew there was some immorality among high school students, but condemned the indiscriminate use of figures by persons talking or writing for the public. No investigation of conditions was ordered, but Harry A. Lipsky said he expects to ask for an investigation, probably by the new morals commission, as soon as Attorney Shannon reports at the next meeting.

Mrs. Meder's offense to the board came in an article under her signature in one of the morning papers which devotes much space on its editorial page to describing the lures and the pitfalls that beset young people.

"I know," writes Mrs. Meder, "there were as many as 350 cases of ruined girls in the high schools of Chicago last year."

Article Cited in Letter.

Mrs. Young did not see the article until it was called to her attention by a letter from Ernest H. Bell to John D. Shoop. Then she wrote as follows to Mrs. Meder, after consulting with Mr. Shannon as to the legal phases of the case:

"In the latter part of September my attention was called to a statement similar in intent, although different in detailed statement, to yours, made by the president of a college for women in Ohio. I immediately sent out to the principal of each high school in Chicago a circular containing the statement of that woman.

"Answers were received to the circular from each principal and from all the teachers in each high school denying that the statement attributed to her had originated with or even been communicated by them and denying that any such conditions ever existed in the respective high schools under their supervision or in which they teach.

Very Near Libel.

"To a woman lawyer [Mrs. Meder is a lawyer] it would seem utterly needless to particularize on the seriousness of the accusations made by you. Any lay woman would realize that, if untrue, they closely

Wife, 24, Would Adopt Girl, 20, Just for Company

Mrs. M. W. Taggart Seeks 'Big' Daughter Because Lonely.

HUSBAND OFTEN AWAY

M. W. Taggart, nephew of Tom Taggart of Indiana, wants to adopt a "grown-up" daughter for his 24 year old wife. The principal reason advanced for desiring a "big daughter is that Mrs. Taggart wants somebody to talk to.

Mr. Taggart's business keeps him away from home on occasions. The Taggarts have been married almost two years, and they have a baby daughter, but during the absence of Mr. Taggart conversation in the home is extremely one-sided from the young wife's point of view.

Here's Their Want Ad.

To solve the difficulty the following advertisement was placed in THE TRIBUNE:

> PERSONAL—CHICAGO FAMILY WILL adopt girl between ages 16 and 20; must be of Protestant birth; one whose character can be investigated; good chance for right party; references exchanged; write full particulars.

At the Taggart home at 2450 South Springfield avenue last night Mrs. Taggart was preparing dinner and talking to the baby, when a TRIBUNE reporter, who after ringing the front door bell for five minutes without being heard, rapped on the back door. Mrs. Taggart explained that she became lonely at times for the want of some one to talk to.

Good Home Promised.

"I dont like to talk to strangers," she said, "and it is simply fierce at times. We talked it over and decided that we ought to adopt a girl old enough to appreciate a good home and who will be a regular companion and helpmate for me when my husband is away. You know we haven't been married long and I've always been used to having girl friends to talk things over with. The girl we select will be given a good home for life and will be given every advantage."

REV. THOMAS CRAVEN, 71, TAKES BRIDE WHO IS 45.

Veteran Methodist Preacher Weds Mrs. Susan Donaldson, but Refuses to Talk of It.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to the Rev. Thomas Craven of Evanston and Mrs. Susan Donaldson of 6930 Dorchester avenue.

Dr. Craven, who is 71 years old, became the first regular pastor of the Halsted Street Methodist church shortly after it was founded fifty years ago, and was one of the speakers at the church's semi-centennial celebration last October. After leaving the Chicago pastorate he went to India as a missionary and became widely known as a pioneer in Sunday school work there.

A TRIBUNE reporter called on Dr. Craven in Evanston last night to ask about the wedding. The clergyman opened the door wide enough to reveal an attractive woman of middle age peering interestedly over his shoulder and then closed it again hastily.

"I can't talk to you tonight at all," he said. "Come around tomorrow."

ALLIES PLAN FOR CAMPAIGN IN NEAR EAST

BULLETIN.

ROME, Nov. 18.—The correspondent has received information to the effect that the allies have demanded that Greece demobilize. Permission to divulge the nature of the coercive measures to be adopted in case of Greece's refusal to comply with the demand of the allies had been withheld, but it is known that one of the steps that will be taken will be Italian occupation of the most important Hellenic islands.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The attitude of the entente allies toward Greece, from which country they are trying to get a definite guarantee for the safety of the French, British, and Serbian troops and the whole military policy in the near east, including the Dardanelles, will, it is expected, be made clear before the end of the week.

The council at Paris, in which British and French cabinet ministers took part, came to important decisions, and Earl Kitchener, looking over the ground both in Gallipoli and the Balkans, is to report on the best means of dealing with the situation arising out of the Austro-German and Bulgarian successes in Serbia and Greece's leanings toward the central powers.

As to Greece, it is reported in dispatches from Rome that immediate action will be taken and no delay will be tolerated. It is said that Italy will take an important part in the forthcoming developments.

Ready to Quit Straits?

It transpired today during the course of the debate in the house of lords that Gen. Sir Charles Monro, the recently appointed commander in chief in the Dardanelles, has given his opinion as to what should be the future policy with regard to the Gallipoli campaign, and Lord Ribblesdale, who introduced the subject, said he understood that the report of the general favored withdrawal.

The Marquis of Lansdowne replied that the report and the evidence accompanying it was not considered sufficient to enable the government to come to a conclusion.

Andrew Bonar Law, the colonial secretary, assured the house of commons that the decision would be left to the military experts and the question of loss of prestige would have no weight.

Tells of Allied Gains.

The allies have resumed their offensive at the Dardanelles, according to an official statement issued by the war office. The statement said:

In the Dardanelles the Fifty-second division carried out a successful attack on the Turkish trenches on the 13th, for which careful preparations had been in progress for a considerable time.

Three mines were exploded successfully under the enemy's trenches in the neighborhood of the Krithia Nullah and the infantry captured about 100 yards of trenches on the east of the Nullah and 120 yards on its west. The captured trenches were at once consolidated and bombing parties pushed on up to the communication trenches and erected barricades.

Simultaneously our artillery opened on the enemy's reserve support trenches, two fourteen inch monitors and H. M. S. Edgar (cruiser) cooperating, and maintained their fire until the position was reported consolidated. The Turks were caught by machine gun and rifle fire and bombs and suffered considerably.

Near an Important Hill.

Krithia is five miles northeast of the tip of the Gallipoli peninsula. The advance to the points eastward means progress toward Achi-Baba hill, a dominating position which, in Turkish possession, has proved one of the chief barriers to successful land operations by the British and French.

Serbians Are Facing Utter Rout

LONDON, Nov. 19, 5 a. m.—A report extant here last night that the Bulgarians have taken Monastir is not confirmed, but everything indicates that it is likely.

The Serbian legation at Athens is reported to have admitted on Wednesday that the Serbian situation was almost desperate.

According to official statements almost four-fifths of Serbia already is overrun by the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians, whose advance into the mountain kingdom has been very rapid.

The Austro-German advance from the northwest approaches the Sanjak of Novipazar, having reached to the north of Raska. Thence it passes through Kursumlya and Baden, ending at a point between Leskovatz and Vranya. The occupation of Kursumlya brings the invaders close to Metrovitza and gives them the key to one of the few great crossroads cutting Serbia from west to east.

The Serbian army is being forced between the limits of two narrow frontiers, Mitrovitza and Pristina, in the center and Prilep and Monastir on the south. The Serbians have the alternative of giving battle where they stand or retiring in the center through Prizrend into Albania and in the south if the road into Albania is barred.

There appears to be no hope that the British and French forces landed at Saloniki can give the Serbs any assistance in their difficult retreat.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Gustave Herve in an editorial in his paper, the Guerre Sociale, headed "Everybody to Saloniki," advocates the immediate occupation of Saloniki at all costs, even though it may necessitate war with Greece. The editor wants all available troops in Egypt, at the Dardanelles, and on the Gallipoli peninsula to be rushed to Saloniki. He also demands that Gen. Sarrail's army and the English forces be withdrawn to Saloniki in order to secure it.

GREECE AND BULGARIA NEARING AN AGREEMENT

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 19, 2:30 a. m.—An agreement between Greece and Bulgaria concerning their future relations and sphere of interest and annexation, it is learned from authoritative sources here, is considered highly probable. Although, so far as can be ascertained, no such agreement has yet been formally concluded, negotiations to that end, it is declared, would have the active help of the German government.

From the German point of view, as expressed in Berlin, an agreement of this nature would relieve Greece of any apprehensions of an attack by Bulgaria and assure her of a growth which would enable Greece to retain her place in the Balkan balance of power.

It is understood here that Greece, as the result of an informal interchange of views with Bulgaria, is already confident that she will not suffer from Bulgarian aggression or undergo any diminution of influence as a result of the present Balkan campaign; nor is any German resentment evident because Greece allowed her territory to be used as a base of operations by the Anglo-French expedition, the Berlin statesmen realizing that she yielded in this matter to a stronger force and should not be punished therefor.

GREAT BATTLE ON AT GORITZ; MAY ALTER WAR

BULLETIN.

GENEVA, via Paris, Nov. 18.—The Italians are preparing for a formidable attack on Goritz, according to the Milan correspondent of the Zurich Gazette. Five hundred thousand men are to be employed.

BY KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

[Copyright: 1915: By Press Publishing Company (New York World).]

With the Austrian army on the Isonzo-Doberdo plateau—Corps headquarters of Archduke Joseph, Nov. 15.—[Courier to Vienna and via Amsterdam, Nov. 18.]—The fourth great battle for Goritz and the commanding heights of the Doberdo plateau, still in the hands of the Austro-Hungarian army under Gen. Boroevic, began two days ago and is now on in full force and under weather conditions probably unexampled in any others of the numerous theaters of war.

The day and night cannonade of the concentrated Italian artillery, splendidly served, surpasses anything I have seen during the June and September offensives on the western front.

Directs Attack at One Point.

With the third battle on the Isonzo river lasting more than three weeks of almost uninterrupted fighting from Monfalcone on the Adriatic to Tolmein above Goritz, having brought the Italians no appreciable results, Count Cadorna, the Italian generalissimo, two days ago began a fourth attack against the Doberdo plateau and Goritz.

This time, instead of a general attack upon Gen. Boroevic's front of forty miles along the Isonzo from the Adriatic to Tolmein, Gen. Cadorna is concentrating the greater portion of his [estimated] 1,500 guns and throwing the full weight of his army against the Doberdo plateau and the heights around Goritz on a front not exceeding ten or twelve miles.

Fight in Terrible Weather.

For two weeks it has rained in torrents. It has rained with only brief interruptions for the three days I have been on this front. The men of the Austro-Hungarian army are fighting in water and mud that at times reaches the hips.

The bravery and unbelievable endurance of the troops under the indescribable conditions, as I have seen them here, are almost incredible. If the Austrians and Hungarians have not received their just share of the credit and glory and prestige of their sacrifices, bravery and contribution to the situation of the central powers they have only themselves to blame.

May Upset War Plans.

The importance of the Austrian-Italian conflict appears to be greatly underestimated generally, especially the possible developments and bearing on the general situation of the central powers should Gen. Cadorna succeed in breaking through the Austrian front and take Goritz and Trieste.

If Gen. Cadorna succeeds in making a way through the Isonzo front its political and moral effect in Italy will be tremendous. It will not be without moral effect in Austria-Hungary, and it may necessitate the drawing of reinforcements from the Serbian or Russian fronts, weakening be forces there, retarding the successes on these fronts proportionately, and may perhaps affect to some extent the general situation.

Battle Line Along Isonzo.

Roughly, the present Isonzo front begins at the Adriatic south of Monfalcone, runs east of that town, which is in the hands of the Italians, along the edge of the Doberdo plateau to near Sagrado, thence along the eastern bank of the Isonzo to above Gradisca, which is also in Italian possession, crosses the Isonzo half way between Gradisca and Goritz, touching within 200 yards of the southern outskirts of Goritz, thence along the southwestern slope of Mont Podgora, the steep hill of 800 feet which commands Goritz, thence at varying altitudes of 350 to 200 feet easterly to St. Florian and the west slope of Mont Sabotino, the second key to Goritz, thence on the west bank of the Isonzo to Plava, where the Italian line crosses the river to the east side of that town, and along the general line of the Isonzo to Tolmein, which is still in the hands of the Austrians and Hungarians.

Doberic Plateau the Key.

The key to the Austro-Hungarian line is the Doberic plateau, rising varyingly from 325 to 650 feet above the Isonzo valley. The plateau forms a sharp semicircle in the line. The key not only to the plateau, but to Goritz and to the entire Austrian Isonzo front is Mont San Michele, a long, ridgelike height with three knobs, the highest of which is about 900 feet.

The Italians have secured a firm footing on the edge of the Doberdo plateau and at some places advanced their trenches. The most desperate fighting is on the slopes of San Michele, Podgora, and Sabotina, which, if the Italians should succeed in taking, would mean the loss of Goritz for the Austrians, and the probable untenability of the entire present line.

Especially has Cadorna been directing his attacks in the last two days for the possession of San Michele, which he appears intent on having at whatever cost.

Heaps of Italian Dead.

The trenches of San Michele have been taken and retaken repeatedly. Today again a terrific conflict was waged there all day. The southwestern knob of San Michele is known as the "Mountain of Corpses" from the heaps of Italian dead there in front of the Austrian and Hungarian trenches, into which a veritable hail of shells at times is throwing fragments of the long dead in all directions. The picture is declared to be beyond imagination in ghastliness.

Austrian Task Hard One.

The archduke received me in his working room at corps headquarters, where I was presented to his imperial highness by his general staff chief.

"The Dukla pass was terrible during those months, but it was no more difficult than our task here for several months against great odds, and in the last weeks under fearful weather conditions," remarked the archduke.

"Do the Italians fight well?" I asked.

"At first they were inclined to be shy, but now they fight well, and daily better," the archduke replied. "The Italians come on with tremendous elan. The shock is much greater than in Russian charges, but the first shock once withstood the Italians quickly flow back while the Russian comes slowly but steadily on until shot down.

"The Italian temperament and impulsiveness manifests itself in his fighting. Charges are nearly always made by fresh troops. When they have made one charge and have been repulsed, they are taken to the rear and given a long rest, which Gen. Cadorna, with probably more than three times as many troops as I have, can do, but I cannot."

Describe Visit to Front.

Slushing along through mud and water, we came to the top of the steep slopes of San Michele, some of which were fairly carpeted with bodies in various stages of decomposition.

At one place the Italian and Austro-Hungarian trenches were within a hundred yards of one another. The trenches on Mont San Michele, San Martino, and other heights are unlike those on any other front. In many places they are cut and drilled into what is practically solid rock, a slow process, often under a galling fire. Sapping and mining, as on the western front, is extremely difficult, practically impossible except with boring machines.

Fight with Desperation.

The desperation with which Gen. Boroevic and his army, which is much smaller in numbers than I had credited, is holding the Isonzo line, is indicative of the vital importance attributed to this front, and does not correspond with the views often heard, that the Austro-Italian war is of small consequence.

The thousands of dead which dot the slopes here, fallen in repeated charges up the steep heights in the face of a withing fire, are irrefutable evidence of the bravery of the Italian, and the best answer to the expressions of contempt I have heard elsewhere, but not on this line, for the fighting ability of the Italian soldier.

INTERNED GERMAN OFFICER WHO BROKE PAROLE CAUGHT

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Lieut. Henri Koch, one of the officers of the interned German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, who violated his parole and left Norfolk in the middle of October, has been taken off a Danish steamer in the North sea by the British naval authorities. Lieut. Koch, who was sailing as a seaman, joined the steamer at Baltimore, giving his nationality as Dutch.

When the steamer was searched in the North sea early in the week Koch was identified by an official who knew him before the outbreak of the war.

ALLIES DRIVE BULGARS BACK; SERBS FLEEING

Anglo-French Victories Reported; Germans Press On; Italians in Saloniki?

Important successes for both the French and British forces in Serbia are reported. The Bulgars have lost Kasturino to the French and have been defeated by the British on the Valondovo-Rabrovo front. The Austro-German forces, however, continue to roll back the Serbs. They occupied Kursumlya, which had been evacuated. Their line now runs from Javor, near the Montenegrin border, to the north of Raska and to Kursumlya, Radan, and Oruglica. Italian troops are landing in Saloniki, according to Turk reports.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The war office tonight gave out the following report on operations in Serbia:

The allied (Teutonic) armies during the pursuit of the Serbs have reached the Javor-Raska-Kursumlya-Radan-Oruglica line. Our troops found Kursumlya evacuated, having been pillaged by the Serbians. Several hundred prisoners were taken and a few cannon were captured.

Bulgarian troops operating southward from Nish occupied Grdeljice, thirty-two miles from the capital, on the Nish-Saloniki railroad, today, according to a report received here.

Their right wing is in touch with the Austro-German Raska-Radan line, giving the combined forces a front more than eighty miles long from a point only twenty miles within the western Serb frontier. This leaves the northern Serbian army an outlet only thirty-five miles wide through which to escape into Montenegro.

British and French Victories.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Important successes, both for the French and British forces in Serbia, are reported by the Athens correspondent of the Havas agency.

According to this information, which the correspondent says is unofficial, the Bulgarians have lost the town of Kasturino to the French and have been defeated by the British on the Valondovo-Rabrove front.

According to the latest news received by Athens newspapers, the French won a striking victory over the Bulgarians on the Tithirkowo - Schevo Krussevitva front. The battle was waged for two days. The French were greatly outnumbered, but used their three inch guns with great effect. The Bulgarians are said to have sustained such heavy losses that they gave up the fight and retired northward to the right bank of the Vardar river.

Montenegrin War Report.

An official communication of the Montenegrin headquarters received here tonight says:

On Nov. 16 our army in the Sanjak was attacked by greatly superior forces and compelled to fall back on its principal positions on the river Drin. A terrible snowstorm made the operations everywhere most difficult. There are sharp artillery duels on all the fronts.

HEROIC FIGHT OF SERBS.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 19, 3 a. m.—The Daily Chronicle's Saloniki correspondent under date of Nov. 17 says:

"The long and brilliant defense by the Serbs of Babuna pass came to an end yesterday. For something like a month a force of 5,000 of our valiant allies has been holding that position in the face of ever increasing numbers of the enemy. Time after time the Serbs drove back the enemy, inflicting severe losses. The position was an admirable one for defense and the Serbians made the most of its natural advantages.

"Even the Bulgarian howitzers could not move out the heroic defenders and success was achieved at last by an attack in front while a cunning turning movement on the Serbian left was in progress. Owing to the frontal attack the Serbs could not detach men to meet the force enveloping their left. That force had to be sent across the mountains in single file by a rough goat track some kilometers from the extreme Serbian left. It took up a position till the whole force had defiled through the narrow gorges and across swiftly running torrents.

Serbs Make Good Retreat.

"The Serbs were in no condition nor were their numbers sufficient even to attempt to defend themselves against this movement, though it was not till the very last moment that they gave up their position, which always will be associated with their heroic feat of arms. During the night before the last evacuation of line was carried out without loss and without the Bulgarians attempting to disturb the operations. The artillery and all equipment of the gallant little force was saved and not a single man was taken prisoner. It is estimated the losses of the Bulgarians from first to last in attacks on Babuna pass amount to over 5,000 killed and wounded, more than the total Serbian forces opposed to them.

"Abandonment of this position also meant the evacuation of Prilep, the little Turkish town from which most of the inhabitants already had fled. Two regiments of the enemy's cavalry entered the town towards nightfall. This advance by the Bulgarians drove large numbers of the population of the district into Monastir."

The Battle Lines in Serbia.

2—Bulgars continue flanking movement from Krushevo to cut off retreat of Serbians into Albania and force them to surrender or cross into Greece.

3—Monastir reported taken as result of Bulgars' success in Babuna pass and Serbian retreat toward Ochrida, near Albanian frontier, is begun.

4—Paris reports French have driven superior Bulgar forces across the Vardon river in Cerna river region east of Prilep.

COPPER FAMINE IN GERMANY; CATHEDRAL ROOFS SEIZED.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A Copenhagen dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company says that the copper famine in Germany is so acute that requests equivalent to demands are now reaching the authorities of the churches to hand over all the copper in their possession as a good example to others.

The huge copper roofs of the great cathedral at Bremen are being dismantled and everything made of copper belonging to the cathedral has been placed at the disposal of the military.

U. S. TO DEMAND SECURITY AT SEA FOR ITS PEOPLE

More Safeguards than Placing in Lifeboats Will Be Asked of Warring Nations.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—While the reply to Ambassador Penfield's inquiry United States will wait for the Austrian concerning the circumstances under which the Italian liner Ancona was sunk, it was stated officially today that the placing of American citizens in small boats on the high seas is not regarded as according them "a place of safety" within the meaning of the term as used in international law.

The United States has insisted that the operations of submarines shall not "jeopardize the lives of American citizens," and notwithstanding the formal denial from Vienna that the Ancona was shelled after it stopped, the fact that the ship actually was torpedoed while a number of passengers still were aboard is regarded as the chief circumstance upon which representations will be made.

The chief official report alleging that the submarine continued shelling the Ancona after it had halted reached the state department today in a consular dispatch outlining an affidavit made by Dr. Cecile Greil, officially the only known native American survivor of the tragedy.

Mrs. Greil's statement of the color of the flag flown by the submarine was taken by officials of the state department as being conclusive evidence that the submersible was flying the naval flag of Austria-Hungary, which at even a short distance shows only red and white, although it actually has a small golden portion.

American Consul White at Naples cabled today that Giuseppe Torrisi and Carmela Torrisi were among the American citizens aboard the Ancona, but that none of the members of the American Red Cross units or of the "Committy of Mercy, Serbian exposition," were on the Ancona or on the steamer Bosnia, sunk by a submarine last week.

MYRON T. HERRICK URGES TARIFF FOR PROTECTION.

New Law to Care for American Industries in Future Theme at Industrial Club Banquet.

A new tariff law for the protection of American industries was urged by Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to France, at a banquet of the Industrial club held last night at the Blackstone hotel.

Mr. Herrick referred to conditions in Paris at the time of the outbreak of the war and paid a tribute to the Americans who established a hospital and agreed to remain in the city regardless of consequences.

MAIMED IN WAR LOOKING TO U. S.

"Motion Study" Engineer Appeals for Devices to Aid Disabled Work.

TELLS OF NEEDS HERE.

Have you been wondering what Europe, at the end of the blood letting, is going to do with all the crippled and maimed soldiers? Two million men, from the colleges, the professions, the shops, and the factories, have lost arms, legs, or eyes already.

Frank B. Gilbreth, the American engineer, who became famous several years ago as the man who improved bricklaying for the first time in 4,000 years through "motion study," brought the announcement to Chicago yesterday that Europe is looking to America to solve this problem. Mr. Gilbreth has just returned from the inspection of fighting fronts and hospitals in England, France, and Germany. He explained the organization and methods that will be used before the Chicago Engineers' club and in a supplemental interview for The Tribune.

Thirty Years' Study.

Experiments and inventions have been completed, he said, to aid in adapting armless, legless, and sightless men to their old jobs or to new ones that will be created through improved working conditions. These largely are the result of Mr. Gilbreth's thirty years' study as an engineer of "motion study," which produced the microchronometer.

Because of his work Mr. Gilbreth was asked by the various countries at war to make a survey of needs there and then to appeal to American employers and cripples who have worked out unusual devices to volunteer in making suggestions.

Big Humanitarian Field.

"The maiming of such great numbers of men opens the greatest humanitarian opportunity," he said. "If any of you know of men who have been bereft of their ordinary powers and yet made a way for themselves by ingenious adaptation, send their methods to me so that it can be forwarded immediately to Europe—not to Germany, or France, or England alone, but to all Europe.

"For instance, I know a musician in New York who lost one arm. We fixed up a typewriter he could work with one hand and his feet, so there was little wasted energy. That is what we have got to work on for millions of men in Europe."

UNABLE TO AID ARMENIANS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Charles T. Crane, head of the Armenian relief commission in this country, talked over the general situation informally with state department officials today.

He did not ask or expect further diplomatic action by this country, he said after the conference.

"Apparently there is nothing diplomacy can do," Mr. Crane said. "The men responsible for the massacres are beyond the appeals of humanity or diplomacy."

Edward T. Hendee, secretary of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, manufacturers of machinery, yesterday denied that the Chicago concern had acted as middleman in an alleged transaction in which German gold was used to prevent the Camden iron works, at Camden, N. J., the largest producer of projectile presses in the country, from selling to the allies.

According to eastern dispatches, $167,000 in forfeit money was paid on a fake contract which tied up the Camden iron works' sale of presses since last May, and will continue to do so until Jan. 1. The matter was placed before the United States District court in Trenton, N. J., when a controversy arose as to the division of $125,000 which remained of the $167,000 forfeit money.

The difference, it was said, represented commissions paid the Ryerson concern as middleman between the iron works and the Bridgeport Projectile company. Mr. Hendee says the Ryerson concern merely held an option and was paid for its option.

MORE EVIDENCE INVOLVING AUSTRIAN CONSUL GENERAL.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—Further investigation of the activities of Austrian Consul General Von Nuber and his associates will be made by the department of justice as a result of yesterday's conference in New York between A. Bruce Dislaski, chief of the bureau of investigations, and Dr. Joseph Goricar, former Austrian consul.

A department statement announcing this course tonight also said that information had been obtained which probably would lead to further indictments for passport frauds.

THE BLACK PEARL
TRIBUNE," NOV. 28.

Serbian refugees in streets of Saloniki.

Serbian orphans cared for by Greeks near frontier.

These pictures were taken by a staff photographer of THE TRIBUNE earlier in the war, when the inhabitants of northern Serbia fled before the Austrian invasion.

Startling stories of atrocities have been sent out of Serbia, with gruesome pictures of mutilations inflicted on the bodies of women and children by the invaders to substantiate them. Whether these reports of outrages have any basis or not, the inhabitants of this unhappy country believe them and flee at the first report of the approach of the enemy.

Serbia has suffered under war conditions for years, and the oppressions of the Turks are still of recent memory.

With the greater part of their country overrun by the Teuton-Bulgar advance, most of the towns and villages in northern and eastern Serbia are reported as deserted. The memories of the wars of 1912-'13 were too fresh in their minds and they gave way to the panic of flight. With winter conditions approaching, these women and children face great privation. Only the shattered Serbian army and the small force of the allies in the south lies between them and the invaders.

The flight has been to the south for the most part, as to the west Albania with a hostile population holds out no hope as asylum. All of northern Greece is reported filled with Serbian refugees. Monastir has been overrun, but the near approach of the Bulgars from Prilep and Krushevo has driven this vast horde of refugees farther south into Greece. Under present conditions in Serbia little relief work can be carried on.

U.S. MAY COMPEL PLANTS TO BUILD VESSELS NEEDED

Drastic Laws Sought to Stop Exorbitant Charges on Construction of War Craft.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Drastic measures may be adopted by the administration to compel the building of the new battleships of the United States navy by American steel plants now given over exclusively to the manufacture of munitions for the allies in the great war.

The exorbitant terms demanded by private bidders on the contracts for the two dreadnaughts authorized at the last session of congress and the general apathy of these contract gorged manufacturers in regard to the needs of the United States navy elicited from Secretary Daniels today the suggestion that the government may requisition the construction of these ships in private plants.

Mr. Daniels will submit to President Wilson a proposal that congress be asked to authorize by law the requisitioning of material and labor for the national defense whenever necessary. Under this plan the government would take possession of a part or all of a private plant and proceed to construct a battleship.

Government Not Prepared.

The secretary said the government is not prepared to build all of the vessels contemplated in the naval program; that even with extensions to the navy yards planned, it will not be prepared to do all of the work; and that it regards the situation as sufficiently serious to call for stern measures if private manufacturers and builders do not respond to its request for bids in a way in which he regards as proper.

Several interpretations were placed on the secretary's statement by Washington. One is that it was made for the purpose of bringing the private firms to time. In the bids which were opened yesterday for the construction of the two dreadnaughts, the bidders demanded so many exemptions that if these were granted the cost of the ships would be increased far above the congressional limitation.

Another is that it is an answer to the charges of former Secretary of State Bryan, Congressman Tavenner, and other peace at any price advocates that the administration has fallen into the hands of the armor plate, steel, and munitions men.

Should Have Opposition.

"I am more convinced than ever that the government should go ahead and build an armor plate plant, even if no metal is ever heated in it," Mr. Daniels said. "I am more convinced than ever that the government should increase its facilities for building all parts of battleships and other vessels and all of the vessels we need. The ideal arrangement, I believe, is to have the government and the private parties bidding against each other.

"But if the private manufacturers are not willing to do the government work or to furnish the government supplies which are absolutely necessary for it to do the work, congress will be asked to find a way to enable the government to obtain what it needs."

Denies Inquiry Was Begun.

Secretary Daniels was asked if he thought there was an conspiracy between the private bidders. He said he would hesitate to draw that conclusion, even though their bids were similar and the exemptions they asked were similar. He denied he had turned the bids over to the department of justice for investigation.

TIME RIPE, SAYS TREVELYAN, FOR PEACE PROPOSAL

Briton Thinks Neutral Nation Should Draw Up Tentative Plans of Settlement.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—In an interview today Charles Trevelyan, M. P., who made the first speech in favor of peace negotiations in the house of commons, said it is now time for a powerful neutral nation or nations to submit to the belligerents some plan for a basis of discussion of terms of peace.

He declared it was his belief that the great body of the people of Germany wanted peace, and in this country, if the politicians and press had not kept the mass of the people in ignorance of the possibilities of such a discussion of terms, there will be a nation-wide advocacy of negotiations on which an honorable peace could be secured without further bloodshed.

Has America in Mind?

Mr. Trevelyan did not mention America by name, but added:

"I think it would be well for some influential neutral nation to draw up tentative plans of settlement. Such plans would undoubtedly embody elements which would not be acceptable to all belligerents, but it would give a basis for discussion and negotiation.

"That is what we want. The mass of people have been told Germany must be crushed to gain our ends. It is time to do away with vague phrases. As I pointed out in my speech, a war of attrition means for us as well as Germany utter and irretrievable ruin."

Fundamentals of Peace.

There were certain fundamental things, Mr. Trevelyan, however, went on, which he and most of his countrymen contended were absolutely necessary to insure an honorable peace, naming them as follows:

"Belgium must be evacuated and its independence restored. We want a settlement of European boundaries on the lines of nationality far more than they have been up to now. The problems of Serbia, Alsace, and Poland ought to be settled on those lines, and we want guarantees for peace and an international system such as that outlined by the prime minister in his speech at Dublin.

"I am no peace at any price man," Mr. Trevelyan went on, "but there is nothing inherently disgraceful or humiliating in attaining these things by negotiations and not by fighting. It is just as honorable and it is less disastrous.

Can't Crush Germany.

"I don't believe in a war of attrition or a war to crush Germany. That is not the way to secure a lasting peace."

It was well known, he asserted, that the German people were anxious for peace and that there was a large body of the population which advocated giving up northern France and Belgium.

"Supposing it is true," he said, "that at this moment the Germans wouldn't come anywhere near the terms we should desire. That does not preclude the possibility of a change of attitude two, four, or six months hence."

TEUTONS RENEW OFFENSIVE ON WINGS OF RUSSIAN LINE.

Germans Attack in Riga Region and Also in Volhynia—Petrograd Reports Assaults Repulsed.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 18.—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued today:

On the Mitau road, southwest of Olai, the Germans passed to the offensive on Tuesday night, but were repulsed by our artillery and machine gun fire.

On the left bank of the Styr, on the Kovel-Sarny railway, the enemy began an offensive Tuesday from Medvejie in the direction of Novo Podtschrevitchi, but was stopped by our fire.

Austrian Official Statement.

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—The official report of the Austro-Hungarian army headquarters today says:

Only now can our triumph at Czartorysk be duly appreciated. The Russians suffered the heaviest of losses.

The Russians had on the western bank of the Styr river four positions, one behind the other, strongly fortified, and also large barracks, blockhouses, and stables, which proves that the Russians intended to pass the winter there.

CARRANZA HAS ABLE CIVILIANS TO BACK HIM UP

BY MARK S. WATSON.

Piedras Negras, Nov. 6.—The interesting characters among the Mexican officials now assembled here for the first conference with the Primer Jefe are not exclusively military. The civilians include men who are quite as interesting and in many cases naturally men of far wider attainments. The first chief himself is vastly more interesting as a civil administrator than as a soldier.

In broad contrast to the Mexican statesmen are John Lind of Minnesota and John R. Silliman, American consul at Vera Cruz, principal among the Americans in the delegation. They are in frequent conference with Gen. Carranza and his aids. Eliseo Arredondo, who has been extremely active in presenting at Washington the arguments in behalf of recognition of Carranza, is one of the most important figures. Another of whom much may be heard later is Jesus Acuna, minister of foreign affairs, who, with Arrendondo, is at almost every conference. Governors galore from various Mexican states are here.

San Antonio sent a delegation, the leaders in which are T. R. Beltran and Samuel Belden, who for years has served as legal adviser to Carranza in the United States and as an important factor in the Carranza unofficial cabinet. Mr. Belden is the son of an American who long ago went into Mexico.

Sought a Little Excitement.

Mr. Beltran is Mexican consul general at San Antonio. Latterly he has been putting in extraordinary hours in attending to the interests of his country. He likes work and he doesn't object to excitement. One of his most remarkable exploits was carried out in the earlier days of the Huerta usurpation. The San Antonio colony, which was always in close touch with Carranza, then governor of Coahuila and heir to the presidency under the constitutional arrangement, decided that the town of Piedras Negras being a railroad terminal and a port of entry of vital importance, should remain stanch to Madero, who had just been arrested, although not yet executed. Piedra Negras had a small garrison of federa troops, which in the normal course of affairs could be expected to develop enthusiasm for Huerta, actual head of the federa government. This did not suit Beltran who remained a loyal Madero follower.

He Captures a City.

"Well," laughed an American friend "why don't you go down and capture the town?"

Beltran did not join in the laugh. He appeared at his office in the morning with a suitcase and a heavy revolver, wrote a few instructions, and took the train for Eagle Pass. He marched across the bridge, laid down his suitcase, strapped the revolver across his body, and marched up to the municipal palace. Before a surprised officer in charge of the small garrison could guess what was up Beltran was in front of him, toying carelessly with the revolver. The visitor introduced himself calmly.

"I am to be in charge of Piedras Negras," he said. "You have been loyal to Madero, and I trust you will remain loyal to the Madero party. You will?"

The head of the garrison looked at th revolver and looked at the pleasant face Beltran. He did not hesitate a second.

"Viva Madero!" he said.

And Beltran had captured the city. He remained in power, administering all affairs for three months. Then he was forced to give way to larger numbers, and eventually was escorted back across the bridge, without his artillery, and urged to go back to San Antonio. He went.

VILLA REPORTED WOUNDED: DISCREDITED BY BROTHER.

Injury Alleged to Have Been Received in Battle with Carranza Force Occupying Hermosillo.

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 18.—Gen. Francisco Villa was reported today to have been wounded during an engagement that began last night at Agua de Coyotes, a few miles north of Hermosillo, Sonora, with a Carranza force now occupying Hermosillo. The information was brought to Nogales, Sonora, across the border from here, by an officer of Villa's army.

Brother Gets Message.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 18.—The reported wounding of Gen. Villa lacked confirmation in Juarez tonight. Hipolito Villa, a brother, declared he received a military message from his brother about 3 o'clock this evening reporting all well with himself and his forces.

BRITISH FLEET GOES OUT TO MEET GERMAN FLOTILLA

Sent North as Result of Report That Enemy Was Proceeding Into the Cattegat.

LONDON, Nov. 19, 2:48 a. m.—As a sequel to the report that a flotilla of twenty-five German torpedo boats and a big cruiser had passed Helsingborg, Sweden, Wednesday morning, proceeding into the Cattegat, a dispatch to the Central News from Copenhagen say a British squadron of cruisers and destroyers has been seen entering the Cattegat.

BRITISH AVIATOR PERFORMS DARING EXPLOIT IN FRANCE.

Forces Enemy Aeroplane to Descend Behind German Lines and Then Sets It Afire.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A report received from Field Marshal Sir John French, the British commander in chief in France, and made public tonight, says:

"Recently, when carrying out a patrol, one of our airmen engaged a German aeroplane at close quarters and forced it to land heavily in a plowed field behind the German lines. Our airman, diving to within 500 feet of the ground, opened a heavy fire on the pilot and observer, who had left the aeroplane and were making across country. He also dropped an incendiary bomb on the German aeroplane, which when last seen was enveloped in smoke.

"Our machine, damaged by the enemy's fire, was forced to land 500 yards behind our trenches, where it was heavily shelled by the enemy, but not again struck. The pilot replaced his tank during the night and succeeded in bringing the machine safely home at dawn."

Shoe Safety

It is not safe to pay less than $7 or $8 for your shoes. You take chances on style, appearance, wearing qualities. But it is not safe to pay that much at a shop which does not specialize in fine shoes—which does not sell enough of them to be able to give you the maximum value in such shoes.

This Shop Sells Nothing Else

Beginning at $7 and $8 you find a range of price and style here not duplicated elsewhere in America. And you find actual material values in fine shoes which a store selling a lesser volume cannot hope to give you.

(We have, in our hosiery department, a wide selection of silk hosiery chosen especially to meet the requirements of a discriminating patronage. Our $1.50 values are exceptionally pleasing.)

ETTELSON VIEW EXPECTED TO HIT TELEPHONE SALE

Corporation Counsel's Opinion on Watch Service Company May Prove Embarrassing.

Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson yesterday advised the council committee on gas, oil, and electric light to forfeit the franchise granted to the General Fire Alarm and Watch Service company.

Before the same committee is pending the question of forfeiting the franchise and property of the Automatic Telephone company. When Mr. Ettelson was attorney for the Automatic company he gave the committee an opinion that a forfeiture in this instance would not be upheld by the courts. He was sustained in this view by former Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton.

Ald. Merriam Comments.

"If a forfeiture is legal in the case of the watch service company," said Ald. Merriam after the meeting, "it certainly is legal in the case of the Automatic Telephone company.

"In other words, the reasons for terminating the automatic ordinance are clearer and less ambiguous than the reasons for terminating the watch service measure."

Some of the aldermen who are opposing forfeiture of the automatic property expressed the opinion privately that Mr. Ettelson's latest opinion would prove a serious embarrassment in consummating the proposed sale of the plant to the Bell interests.

COUNCIL WANTS OWN LAWYER

If plans now being pushed quietly by several aldermen are put into effect the city council may have its own law department separate and distinct from the corporation counsel's office.

Ald. John Kjellander probably will soon introduce a plan whereby the council will select its own legal adviser. He says he is "seriously considering" such a step and believes that provision should be made in the next annual budget for the employment of one or more attorneys for this purpose.

Should the scheme be launched a lively row is expected. In addition to the budget provision an ordinance would have to be passed amending the present ordinances, which prescribe that all the law business of the city must be transacted under the supervision of the corporation counsel. If such an ordinance were passed it is predicted Mayor Thompson would veto it, and the council then would have to attempt to pass it over his veto or confess its defeat.

MAYOR TACKLES MERIT ROW.

Mayor Thompson has undertaken a new task.

His confidants yesterday said he was going to "straighten out the civil service tangle."

President Coffin of the civil service commission said he was preparing a "personal statement" for the mayor, but at this point official information stopped short. The mayor left his office early in the afternoon and in the evening departed for Kansas City, where he is to deliver a speech tonight before the Commercial club.

With him went Fred Lundin—that fact shedding some light on rumors of a break in their intimate relationship—and it was said they would spend a large part of their time on trains in working out a soluton to the tangle.

When State's Attorney Hoyne, by threats of indictment, compelled the merit commission to vote an investigation of the police deparment, the mayor's belief that accusations against it were "all talk" were upset.

The statement President Coffin was instructed to prepare was said to be an outline of the facts in all the cases in connection with which the commission is under fire.

Police Hearing Monday.

The commission announced that the first hearing in the police investigation will be held Monday. Two detectives from the detective bureau are said to have informed President Coffin that they each contributed $5 to the fund and paid the money to Capt. P. D. O'Brien.

C. R. VINCENT MADE MAJOR.

Captain of Urbana Battery to Command Newly Created Battalion of Artillery.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—Adjutant General Dickson announced today the appointment of Charles Ridgely Vincent of Chicago, to be major of the newly created battalion of field artillery, comprising batteries D of Chicago and E and F of Urbana. He has been captain of battery D. Another captain will be elected to succeed him. Maj. Vincent is a son of William A. Vincent.

UNITS NEEDED TO BRING U. S. ARTILLERY TO WAR STRENGTH

"A free people ought not only to be armed but disciplined, to which end a uniform and well digested plan is requisite."
—GEORGE WASHINGTON.

BY HENRY J. REILLY.

Horse artillery is the same as light field, except that all the cannoneers are mounted on horses instead of walking or riding on the ammunition chests. This because horse artillery goes with the cavalry. To keep up the cannoneers must be mounted. If put on the chests they add too much weight to that which the horses already have to drag.

In peace each battery is the same as a light battery with the addition of one mechanic, sixteen drivers, and fifty-three riding horses. This makes a corresponding increase in the battalion and in the regiment. For the regiment, this amounts to a total of 6 more mechanics, 96 more cannoneers, and 318 more horses.

In war the strength of a horse artillery regiment is exactly that of a light field regiment in all particulars, except that there are 402 more horses, 3 more wagons, and 12 more mules.

Mules Carry Mountain Artillery.

Mountain artillery is for use in mountainous countries. It is supplied with a 2.95-100 gun. This gun is dismounted from its carriage and put on the back of a mule. The carriage is dismounted and distributed on the backs of three mules. Thus four pack mules are the means of getting the gun and its carriage from place to place.

All ammunition and other equipment is carried on the backs of pack mules. With the exception of the officers and the sergeants and certain details, all men belonging to the battery walk.

The smallest unit is a battery of four guns, commanded by a captain. In addition there are two first lieutenants, two second lieutenants, two corporals as scouts, one corporal and two privates for the signal detail, one private for the veterinary detail, one first sergeant, one quartermaster sergeant, one stable sergeant, one mess sergeant, one chief mechanic, three mechanics, one horseshoer, three musicians, three cooks, six sergeants, four gunners, six ammunition corporals, one guidon, forty drivers, forty-seven cannoneers, and eleven packers, making a total of five officers and 133 enlisted men.

Four Guns in Firing Battery.

The guns and transportation of the firing battery consists of four guns, one signal pack mule, sixteen gun pack mules, twenty ammunition pack mules, four pioneer tool pack mules, sixteen riding horses, and two riding mules.

The combat train consists of twelve ammunition pack mules, two ordnance stores pack mules, one forge pack mule, three spare pack mules, two riding horses, one bell horse, and thirteen riding mules. The supply section consists of ten riding mules. This makes a total for the battery of four guns, eighteen riding horses, one bell horse, fifty-nine pack mules, and twenty-five riding mules.

In war the battery gains one mechanic, two ammunition corporals, eight drivers, thirteen cannoneers, eight packers, or a total of thirty-two enlisted men, who, due to lack of reserves, are necessarily inexperienced men. In transportation, the firing battery gains eight ammunition pack mules, the combat train twenty-eight ammunition pack mules and nine riding mules, the supply section two mules. This makes a total gain of forty-seven untrained animals.

Three Batteries in Battalion.

A battalion consists of three batteries commanded by a major. The staff is the same as that of a battalion of light artillery. This, with the three batteries, makes a total of eighteen commissioned officers and 416 enlisted men.

The battalion headquarters has two pack mules, fifteen riding horses, and four riding mules, making a total for the battalion of twelve guns, sixty-nine riding horses, three bell horses, 179 pack mules, and eighty-one riding mules. The battalion staff gains in war three corporals as agents and horses for the same; which, added to the three batteries at war strength, makes a total of twelve guns, seventy-two riding horses, three bell horses, 287 pack mules, and 114 riding mules, or a total increase of 144 untrained animals.

Two Battalions in Regiment.

A regiment consists of two battalions commanded by a colonel, who has practically the same staff, supplied with the same material as that of a colonel of light artillery, except that his signal material is carried on pack mules instead of on reel carts. The total of a regiment is: 42 officers, 2 veterinarians, and 889 enlisted men.

In war there is added to the regimental staff one trumpeter sergeant, two sergeants as agents, two corporals as scouts, and four horses, making a total of 42 officers, 2 veterinarians, 1,099 enlisted men, 24 guns, 174 riding horses, 10 bell horses, 745 pack mules, and 246 riding mules. This makes a gain of 210 inexperienced men and 292 untrained animals just as the regiment has to take the field.

Any one who has had anything to do with the training of wild mules and horses to say nothing of inexperienced men, can imagine the feelings of the officers and noncommissioned officers when they have this number of men and animals thrown on their hands just at the time they wish to make the most efficient showing, and when their lives, as well as reputations, may depend on that showing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

E. H. B. writes: "We frequently read of battlefields being swept at night by searchlights. I do not understand how it is possible to put a lighted searchlight in such a position that it cannot easily be destroyed by gun fire from the opposing army.

REPLY.

If the exact position of a searchlight can be accurately determined, the artillery can destroy it. While the searchlight can be seen, it is difficult at night to determine the exact range, as it is only under exceptional circumstances that it would be placed in a trench. It is difficult to determine the range at night because, in the darkness the position of the light with reference to some point, the range of which is known, cannot be determined at the distance which generally separates the light from the enemy guns. When the fire of the guns commences to reach the neighborhood of the light, it is simply turned off for the time being, and generally moved to another locality. Sometimes it is very difficult to use these lights without their being destroyed. This, coupled with the fact that they practically cannot be used in front line trenches, is the main reason for the use of star bombs and other lighting devices, which are discharged from guns or small arms.

BERTSCHE TELLS OF GRAFT DEAL WITH HALPIN

Barney Testifies Stated Sums Were Paid for Seer Protection.

Barney Bertsche, international genius of the subtler grafts, came down from Joliet with a warden yesterday. Lounging on the stand in Judge Baldwin's court he recapitulated the formation of the clairvoyant trust, fitting John J. Halpin, suspended chief of detectives, into the remarkable story as chief figure in the grafting police ring.

The arrangements for protecting the fake fortune tellers were made within a few days after Halpin's appointment as chief of detectives, Bertsche testified.

Tells of Meeting Halpin.

Bertsche had testified that prior to his conviction in the swindling of Mrs. McEldowney of $12,500 he was a saloonkeeper at Randolph street, near Fifth avenue, and also a coal merchant.

"Did you meet John J. Halpin about June, 1911?" asked the prosecutor.

"Yes, at the detective bureau. I wanted to ask about the opening of a book store—I mean a clairvoyant parlor. Halpin said it was a new graft to him, but consented for me to put in Harry Waite, a fortune teller. I gave Halpin $100. 'This is for Waite,' I told him."

"Did you talk with Waite prior to your conversation with Halpin?"

"Yes, I talked to him in my saloon, and he said he could afford to give $500 a month for protection. He said his business was booming, and that from some of the suckers he got 50 cents, while from others he got $20 to $60. It was arranged for me to get 10 per cent of all over $50. Then I went to see Halpin and paid him $100 in the Lamb's café. I told him I wanted to put on some more payoff men, and told him if he had any complaint not to hesitate about telling me.

At the Lambs' Cafe.

"The next time I saw Halpin again was also at the Lambs' café. He said one of the suckers who had lost was making an awful kick, and wouldn't be pacified. I asked him where the sucker was and he said at the Kaiserhof hotel. The sucker was from South America. He was found for me in New York.

"I asked Halpin if any coppers were with the sucker at the Kaiserhof, and he said there were. 'Take off your coppers and I'll send a man down to fix him.' Then I sent a man we called Irish down to see him. We had had him for $12,000, but after Irish fixed him there was nothing more heard from him."

Some More of the Same.

Bertsche told of another meeting with Halpin in the Lambs' café, when Halpin, he alleged, inquired how Waite, the clairvoyant, was coming on.

"'From the looks of that ad in the Sunday paper, he must be getting the money,' said Halpin to me. Then I talked to him about putting in Clarence Hall and an Englishman named Wagg.

"Then the Ryans, Frank and Jimmy, came along. Waite introduced me to Ryan in November, 1911, and said he was a good worker and that he wanted him as a partner. He gave me $400 and I went to Halpin at the detective bureau. I explained Ryan was wanted in Boston and New York, and wanted to have protection here. I gave Halpin $200, and he said: 'Tell him to go ahead. I'll take care of anything that comes from Boston or New York.'"

DEMANDS PROOF OF SCHOOL VICE

Mrs. Young Calls on Sercombe to Show 350 Girls Fall Yearly.

"PASS THE BUCK."

approach, if in fact they do not constitute criminal libel. If, on the other hand, there is any truth behind the accusations, the situation calls for immediate and complete reformation.

"It is inconceivable that you could have made such accusations without first having proved absolutely the facts upon which they were based. It likewise is the greatest kind of injustice to you if you have been falsely quoted. I therefore ask that you advise me: First, Were you correctly quoted? Second, If you were correctly quoted, upon what facts or other information, together with the sources thereof, were your accusations based?"

Points to Sercombe Letter.

And Mrs. Meder replied: "Your statistician." She sent to the committee the following letter, which she said was a copy of one from Mr. Sercombe:

"My Dear Mrs. Meder: Answering your inquiry, I am informed by people who claim to know that the annual record of girls attending high schools in Chicago who become pregnant are from 350 to 360. There is certainly a wonderful field for your welfare work in this city, and I cannot compliment you too highly on the splendid way in which you are administering your department."

Mr. Sercombe had only a faint memory of the letter. He said it could not have been more than a pencil notation, and he believes he heard a woman physician make the statement at a eugenics discussion.

Der. Sherzer Letter Similar.

The letter to Dr. Sherzer was similar to the one to Mrs. Meder. Dr. Sherzer is quoted in "The Light," a western periodical, as having spoken as follows in an address before the International Purity congress in San Francisco:

"What can be said of life in the high schools? When principals report 'all well,' as has been truthfully said, they must be either blind or falsifiers. In Chicago, in one large high school, in one season fifteen girls have fallen. In another large city high school fourteen were reported in one year, and smaller high schools in proportionate numbers. The numerous signs 'Rooms for rent' in the vicinity of high school buildings have been discovered to be lures, places of assignation for the pupils."

Mrs. Young wrote to her a month ago, but so far has received no answer, she told the committee.

Sees Attack on Schools.

"I believe it is an attempt to attack the public high schools," Mrs. Young said to the committee, "with the intention of getting people to keep their children out of the public schools. Mr. Sercombe must know where and from whom he secured those remarkable figures. If I had heard them they would have been marked indelibly upon my mind. I am of the opinion that the matter is urgent, that it should be put into the hands of an attorney, and followed up."

"I may have scribbled such a note in pencil," said Mr. Sercombe. "It has escaped my memory. I took no responsibility for those figures. I do not know who originated them. I attended some meetings of the Chicago Political Equality league at the time the sex hygiene question was up. I believe the chairmen were Mrs. Stella Jannotta and Dr. Anna Blount. I attended a meeting of the City club and of the Eugenics society.

Attributed to Woman Doctor.

"There were ten or twelve women doctors who spoke, and I believe it was one of them who gave out the figures in a three minute speech. That's as near as I can get to it."

"I don't see what can be done," said Mr. Loeb. "Isn't there immorality in the high schools? Don't we know there is? What's the use of trying to fool ourselves about it? There is an editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE which shows the trend of school children today. I do not believe the board is to blame. It is the hardest thing in the world to uncover."

NOISE OF TRIP HAMMERS PROTESTED BY RESIDENTS.

Former Alderman Bradshall Sent in Letter of Complaint Against Noise at Drop Forge Plant.

Former Ald. George H. Bradshall, a resident of the Thirty-third ward, could not be present at a meeting of the council health committee yesterday to mingle his protests against triphammers operated by the American Drop Forge company with the protests of forty odd citizens in the vicinity of North Kostner avenue and Bloomingdale road, but he sent a letter letting the committee know just how annoying the hammers are to him.

In the letter he said he had moved on account of the noise and now lives about a mile away, yet the noise still interferes with his peace of mind. The committee ordered a visit to the vicinity.

A measure designed to prevent the sale of air rifles was referred to a subcommittee. Dr. Willis O. Nance, chairman of the health committee, who is an eye specialist, favored the adoption of the ordinance to save the eyes of children.

SAYS 250,000 FILIPINO ARMY WOULD COME TO AID OF U. S.

Dr. P. J. H. Farrell in Talk to Real Estate Board Cites Army Strength —Better Fighters than Boers.

Dr. P. J. H. Farrell, former surgeon general, army of the Philippines, also president of the Army and Navy club, who talked on "War Experiences by One Who Has Been in Action" at the weekly luncheon of the Chicago real estate board yesterday, declared that the men who had fought alongside the Filipinos knew them better than those tourists who go there for partisan purposes, and expressed the opinion that in case this country became embroiled in a war which involved the Philippines there would come to the support of this country a great Filipino army of at least 250,000 men, headed by Aguinaldo and other leaders of that people.

He declared the Filipinos were superior to the Boers and would in case of emergency prove a great asset to the nation which conquered them.

He made a strong appeal for military preparedness on the part of this country and the necessity of some form of compulsory military service, which he declared would make for the betterment of the youth and manhood of the country. He said it is much the style to denounce compulsory military service and ignore the fact we have several forms of compulsory service, notably jury service, while it is compulsory for children to attend school.

Dr. Farrell favored some law which would give to the country the service of men under 35 years of age with a reasonable amount of military training.

The Trail of the Hawk

By Sinclair Lewis

"'The Trail of the Hawk' puts a big chunk of modern America before you. It gathers up and expresses the story of today here in America. . . . The people are as real to you as though they lived on your block and called you by your first name. . . . Books like this will go far to make one feel that novel-writing in America is beginning to mean something worth while." —New York Times.

WOMEN DOCTORS ATTEND CLINIC ON TWILIGHT SLEEP

Mothers in Hospital Do Not Remember Any Pain at Childbirth.

The Mary Thompson hospital is observing its fiftieth anniversary. One of the events marking the celebration is the "twilight sleep" clinic.

The Mary Thompson is said to be the only hospital in the northwest in which twilight sleep is the official anaesthesia. In the last ten years Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen has introduced 5,000 babies into the world by this method, and she now regards it as an established blessing.

Because of Dr. Van Hoosen's "twilight" babies, women physicians from New York to California have come to the "twilight clinics."

See Tonsils Removed.

Dr. Lillian Taylor demonstrated how nine pairs of tonsils could be removed in less than an hour, even when the ether was not working perfectly. Then the women doctors moved through the aisles of beds. They stopped at the cot of a woman whose neck was swathed in a heavy bandage. She had been through two crises but didn't know it. While she was under the influence of the drug responsible for "twilight sleep" her daughter had been born and a goiter under her chin removed.

The Sleeping Mother.

The doctors then went to observe another's painless misery in the next room. They looked over the railing of a "twilight basket" draped in white, drawn over a sleeping mother. She had already had under the drug for more than eight hours.

"O, Josephine!" called Dr. Van Hoosen.

But the patient continued her slumbers. A louder call opened her eyes.

"Who's in the next room?" was asked.

"My husband's in the bathroom," said the patient, listlessly swinging her arms and turning over to her rest.

"What time is it?" asked Dr. Van Hoosen.

"Five o'clock," came the reply from the patient.

"You see," Dr. Van Hoosen explained, "the patient believes she is at home. She gives her home address and says her husband is near in the bathroom. She remembers the time when she was first given the treatment."

COUNTESS TELLS WHY DEFECTIVES ARE BORN.

"It's Because Doctors Are Too Busy Studying Disease and Old Maids Teachers," Mme. Davenport Says.

Mme. Charlotte de Goliere Davenport, 71 years old, who was teacher of Empress Elisabeth of Austria for many years and is a real countess with "eleven beautiful sons" all serving in the Austrian army, last night gave her reasons for the Baby Bollingers of the world.

"It is because the doctors are too busy studying diseases instead of how beautiful children can be born. Also because old maids are teachers of the race," she said.

"Both parents should be in beautiful mental, physical, and spiritual condition. They should be idealistic. Women are too modest to hear what they should.

"The children who should live are the ones killed by abortions."

GUILTY OR NOT GUILTY?

Doctor-jury, coroner, and health commissioner view second autopsy on Bollinger baby and come to reported agreement that Dr. H. J. Haiselden was justified in letting the defective infant die.

DOCTOR-JURY AGREES BABY WAS HOPELESS DEFECTIVE

after conferring with Health Commissioner Robertson and Coroner's Physicians Reinhardt and Springer, and all agreed to serve except Dr. Murphy, who explained he was detained by an important case.

"I am not holding this inquest to find fault with any one," the coroner said. "If Dr. Haiselden erred in his opinion he would not be the first physician to err. But, in the name of humanity, there should be a scientific investigation. We do not know how soon another physician may face a like situation."

Dr. Haiselden Pleased.

The jury panel met at Coroner Hoffman's office at 4 o'clock and were taken to the hospital in automobiles. Health Commissioner Robertson and Dr. Reinhardt accompanied them, and Alfred O. Erickson of the city law department met them at the hospital, prepared to advise Dr. Robertson should the inquest develop any legal problem.

Mr. Erickson, it was reported, told attaches of the hospital that "there was nothing on Dr. Haiselden legally."

Dr. Haiselden, who had reached the hospital only a few minutes before, smiled as he greeted the visitors. Drs. Steel and Hektoen had been his instructors at the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

"And," he added, in an aside to a newspaper man, "I'm mighty glad Dr. Murphy isn't on the jury. He has publicly put himself on record as being opposed to my stand in this case. I hope they aren't going to suggest that I recede from my position."

Welcomes New Autopsy.

"This is the coroner's jury," Coroner Hoffman said to Dr. Haiselden quietly. "These gentlemen have requested that Dr. Reinhardt perform a second autopsy for their benefit. They want the most complete examination possible."

"I shall be very glad," Dr. Haiselden replied.

Dr. Reinhardt prepared his instruments as the jury filed into the room where the body lay and removed the wrappings from the twisted little form, which already had been made unrecognizable by the autopsy of the night before, and which is now known officially as coroner's case No. 79,772."

Silently the physicians gathered around the operating table, eying the deformed body curiously, and listening intently as Dr. Reinhardt told them what he had done at the first post-mortem.

A Hopeless Cripple.

Then, with an occasional quiet suggestion from one or another of the jurors, the coroner's physician probed and cut farther into the little form. Little was said, but every move was noted carefully. And there was a murmur of interest when a hemorrhage of the spinal cord—hitherto undiscovered—was revealed.

This, according to the physicians, would have caused complete paralysis of the child's body and would have resulted in death even if there had been no other causes.

Only a few questions were put to Dr. Haiselden. One, which seemed to interest the jury particularly, was as to whether the confinement of the child's mother had been normal. He said it had been completely so.

Take Testimony Today.

The autopsy took slightly more than an hour. When it was completed the jury, after a conference, decided the best time to continue the inquest would be at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

This session will be held at the coroner's office for the taking of testimony from Dr. Haiselden, Allen Bollinger, the baby's father; Dr. Reinhardt, Dr. Koehler of the German-American hospital staff, who was present when the child was born, and the head nurse and several others of the hospital staff.

WHY HE NEVER MARRIED; DR. HAISELDEN'S SECRET.

Sitting in his comfortable home at 819 Diversey parkway last night, while his two adopted daughters played in an adjoining room, Dr. Harry Haiselden told why he never has married.

"My mother," he said, "lived until she was 86 years old, and during her life she ruled. I never could bear to muss up the arrangements of the home and bring some one between us—as I considered I owed too much to her. In this way, by remaining at her side, I thought to repay her.

"Then, I never wished to disappoint a girl by marrying her. In high school I had several affairs of the heart—not serious. But I have never asked any one to marry me. I promised my school friend, Attorney Albert N. Charles, if I received any proposals I should pass some of them on to him."

FEEBLE MINDED BOYS COMMITTED UNDER NEW LAW

Youths Sent Away for First Time by Waukegan Judge.

The first case under the new law for the commitment of the feeble minded was passed upon yesterday by Judge B. L. Persons in the Lake county court at Waukegan. This morning John Ruta, 16 years old, and another Lithuanian child, 6 years old, will be taken from Waukegan to the state institution for the feeble minded at Lincoln, Ill.

The law, which was drafted principally by Chicago physicians and civic workers, was passed at the last session of the legislature and went into effect July 1. Among its framers and backers were Judge Harry Olson, Dr. Anna Dwyer, Prof. Henry Schofield, Dr. Clara Henderson Towne, Dr. Edward H. Ochsner, Peter Reinberg, Sherman Kingsley, Miss Minnie Low, and A. L. Bowen, secretary of the state charities commission.

Hopeless Situation Corrected.

Prior to its passage there was no place where half-wits or defectives, who were a danger to the community, but who had not committed offenses of such serious nature as to be sent to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Chester, could be sent save to the St. Charles school for boys, the Pontiac reformatory, the Geneva Home for Girls, or Joliet, where they mingled with prisoners of higher mental and moral types.

This was a source of great trouble to the heads of these institutions as well as a menace to the other prisoners and an injustice to the victim. Moreover, the regular course followed by many half-wits has been first the St. Charles school, then the reformatory, and finally Joliet, if not the gallows. In Chicago alone during the last two years there have been nearly a dozen cases of crimes committed by so-called harmless half-wits ranging from crimes against children to murder.

Confined for Life.

It always has been possible to have a mentally deficient person sent to Lincoln, but there was nothing in the law to keep him there. His parents or relatives could obtain his release the same day if they so desired and the officials were powerless to act. Under the new law they may be sent there for life—feeble mindedness is incurable—and may be released only with the consent of the state.

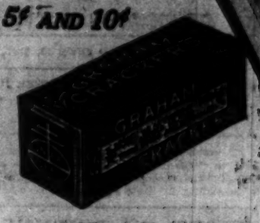

The case of John Ruta was a problem for Judge Persons as well as for Sheriff Griffin, who already has had his share of troubles with Mrs. Scott Durand's cattle and Kelly, the Canadian millionaire. The Ruta boy had long been a danger to other children in the town. He had been sent to St. Charles and had come back worse. He was locked up and was causing such a disturbance in the jail Sheriff Griffin was at his wits' end. Then Judge Persons decided to invoke the new law. State's Attorney Ralph J. Dady agreed the boy should be sent to an institution, and yesterday he was examined by Drs. Ambrose and Gourley, who pronounced him mentally deficient.

Aged 6, Looks a Baby.

At the same time another child 6 years old, but who appears to be a baby of only about 18 months, was ordered sent to the same institution, and the two will be taken together.

"It's a good law," said Judge Persons. "We expect to be able to avoid a lot of trouble here in Lake county by handling these cases in this way. These are the first we have had under the new law and, I believe, the first in the state."

—Stephen Decatur.

A NEW CANDIDATE.

The Hon. Boies Penrose, United States senator from Pennsylvania, and titular guardian of the props of the republic, announces that he is a candidate for president. Our apologies to Big Bill of Chicago. It's Bill's chance to ask: "Who's loony now?"

THE ANCONA.

Austria-Hungary reports that the Ancona was ordered to stop and tried to escape. Italy reports that the Ancona was not warned, but was shelled with inhuman disregard for the lives of its peaceful passengers. There has been no other case of controversy over the destruction of a passenger vessel by a submarine in which the government reports could be so little reconciled.

Therefore, Americans will form their opinion and the United States government may base its action largely upon statements of American witnesses of the attack. Dr. Cecile Greil of New York, a passenger, has made a deposition before the American consul at Algiers, which seems to prove beyond doubt that, whether the Ancona tried to escape or not, it was shelled after it had stopped and that many deaths then resulted from the shell fire.

Dr. Greil would not be competent to say whether the Ancona had attempted to escape after it had been ordered to stop. She was at lunch when she became aware that the ship was slowing down and heard the commotion of people rushing about. She went on deck and found that the ship was under shell fire, the submarine lying close by. The Ancona stopped, but the shell fire did not, and all the time that Dr. Greil was making her preparations for escape it continued, killing people all about her. At the door of her cabin her stewardess was killed.

If it be proved that the attack was conducted thus, the Austrian flag will have covered the most infamous naval act of the war.

FOR TROUBLE MAKING, BUT NOT FOR DEFENSE.

It is not surprising that Representative Buchanan of the Seventh district is against the increase of the army and navy. Buchanan was president of an organization known as Labor's National Peace council, which was exposed by Samuel Gompers as an attempt "to place the people of the United States in a false position before the world, to play into the hands of one side of the warring nations as against the other." In a letter to the pacifist, John Brisben Walker, Mr. Gompers charged that emissaries of the "Friends of Peace" movement had gone from city to city and by insidious and false representations attempted to corrupt financially a large number of representative men among the union workers of the United States. As a result of Mr. Gompers' vigorous assault the Labor's National Peace council and the "Friends of Peace" movement came to nothing.

Buchanan pretends to be the laboring man's friend, yet if there is any class the interests of which require that the nation shall be able to defend itself and discourage aggression it is that of the wage earner. He poses as the laboring man's friend, but in a period of general unemployment he was willing to shut off hundreds of thousands of workers from employment. He is not for defense, but he was willing to play European politics, which would have had inevitable consequences of the most far reaching effect upon our national policy..

Buchanan is not thinking or acting as an American, and his opposition to defense should be known for what it is. It means one vote against our country's vital interest, but it should represent not a featherweight of influence unless it be influence in favor of defense.

There are men in congress who will vote sincerely against preparedness on principle. Buchanan's tactics have not given grounds for placing him among them.

MR. BRYAN'S NEUTRALIZED PHILIPPINES.

Mr. Bryan says that the one weak spot in the armor of the United States is the Philippines and that the way to get rid of that spot is to neutralize the islands. That would relieve the United States of an embarrassing frontier and an awkward possession. It would give the grateful little brown brothers their full freedom and the blessings of all the powers.

A nation neutralized is protected by the agreement of the powers recognizing it and in such agreement the responsibility of the United States would be particularly potent. Does Mr. Bryan think it sufficient for this country to recognize and respect Philippine neutrality, or if that neutrality were violated by—to suggest an apparently impossible event—Japan, would it be the duty of the United States to intervene and restore the Filipinos to their disturbed freedom?

If we are merely to respect it ourselves, why bother to become party to an international agreement. Why not turn the little brown brothers loose to make their own way in the world? If this nation is to demand that other nations respect Filipino rights, why expose the Philippines to their own weaknesses and tempt the appetite of other nations with them?

If some unscrupulous nation did violate the neutral Philippines, would Mr. Bryan counsel protecting them? If he would so counsel, what would he protect them with? If he would not protect them, what would be the excuse for an international agreement, which would merely make one nation guilty of breaking a compact and the others guilty of permitting it to be broken?

Does Mr. Bryan wish the United States to be in a position of moral beauty so long as the agreement remain intact, and does he consent that it should be in one of moral obloquy as soon as the compact was broken? Or is Mr. Bryan again merely substituting a heart throb for a mental process?

THE RIP ROARING LEGISLATOR.

If the Legislative Voters' league continues its effective revelations of waste of money in the Illinois assembly it will not be too much to hope for a correction of this abuse. The state has viewed the derelictions of the legislators with good humor, but when there is such constant need of money for the purposes of government and such constant waste of it in government the value of a tolerant mood is questionable.

Legislative prodigality in committee expenses and in employés' funds seldom has the appearance of importance in any one item, but the total of this dissipation of state resources is considerable.

Legislators are protected by the public indifference to small detail. What if a junket have as result chiefly the consumption of steaks and the use of cabs? Possibly the consciously errant citizen feels that if he were self-wished into the job of investigating the condition of Patagonian orphans engaged in chimney sweeping in Chicago he might compensate himself by taking in the twilight fox trots and riding around through Lincoln park.

There is a sort of feeling that a statesman must and will have his fling, and that it adds to the color of legislative process to have a demonstration of liberal human life. Thus legislation does not come out of shriveled up, precise, and orthodox yestrymen, but from rip roaring human beings who, being of wide and liberal experience, will make wise and tolerant laws.

That tolerant mood protects the legislator in the most wanton misuse of public funds and when money is needed for so many processes of government that cannot adequately be carried through it is unwise tolerance. The assembly deserves a strict and shrewd accounting. Its peccadillos are prodigious.

POLITICS AND THE MILITARY.

"Our own history is full of warning," said Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman in a speech on preparedness at Minneapolis. "Let politics be to politicians, but let preparation for the defenses of war be to the soldier."

If this demand for nonpolitical army and navy plans can be made and repeated by men in Senator Sherman's position until it is really heard, there will be some hope for the defense program of the United States. The interference of politics in the military affairs of the nation has been as constant as it has been inimical. Fortunately it is so open a scandal that a minority in congress can fight against it. It is an abuse which can be corrected by a few able men willing to speak the truth plainly in the senate and the house of representatives.

It cannot stand exposure and denunciation. Congress can be forced to correct its own methods of dealing with military expenditures and the administration can be compelled to consider the needs of the nation rather than the exigencies of politics if even a few members of congress will expose the secrets of political interference with as much vigor as was used in exposing the frauds of pork barrel appropriations.

Editorial of the Day

PASSING OF THE TRAIL MAKERS.

[From the Memphis Commercial-Appeal.]

A few days ago a brief news item announced the death of Joseph G. McCoy of Kansas. The item was so brief, in fact, that it was covered in not over ten lines. Who Joseph G. McCoy was seemed to interest but few. The chief fact stated as to why he should be remembered at all was that it was he who blazed the 1,000 mile trail from Texas to Abilene, Kas.

In this day of railroads this item appears to be insignificant, but in the pioneer days it meant a great deal. That 10,000,000 head of cattle were driven over this trail before a railroad made transportation an easy matter is in itself a significant reminder of the usefulness of the dead trail maker.

McCoy was the pioneer cattle driver of the awakening west. He was one of the spectacular figures in the early days of wagon train and stage coach. He lived at a time when the possibilities beyond the Mississippi were being first appreciated. It does not seem so long ago, for the development of the west has been miraculous. It has been so sure and certain that the old pioneers have been crowded out. The electrical swiftness of the present age has left them far behind in remote sections of the country, relegated among the forgotten characters of former distinction.

There was a day when the stage driver and the trail maker were big men. When history is revised and rewritten the death of Joseph G. McCoy will not be chronicled in a few brief lines, but the story will be told how he rode out into the unknown, finding a well defined and direct trail to the grazing lands of Texas.

The pioneers are nearly all gone. Only a very few remain, old, feeble, and forgotten.

They were in their day and prime heroes and respected and admired as such, but today they have lost their usefulness. The railroad and automobile have taken the place of the wagon train and stage. The trail has lost all practical usefulness. It remains as a monument to what the west was at one time, before the age of steam and electricity.

Joseph G. McCoy has gone to find a trail in the great beyond. Soon all who lived the epic of the plains will follow him and only from the printed page and the distorted reflections of the theater shall we know of that free life under the sun and stars.

RELIABLE INFORMATION.

[From the Farmers' Review.]

A Michigan farmer is ahead $1,007.53 on a shipment of cheese because he followed produce market quotations in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Basing his suit against commission men on these quotations he was granted by the court the amount mentioned. When a great daily paper demonstrates that its market quotations are carefully compiled by competent men and are reliable, shippers should follow it closely. Prices of farm produce vary from day to day and a weekly report is hardly sufficient when frequent shipments are made. Commission men as a class have received considerable criticism the last few years, but many firms are perfectly reliable. It pays to stick to that kind.

I wandered up a dusking lane,
When lo! at what appeared its end,
A great star rose, and lit my brain
With thoughts of my departed friend.

I stayed my steps; I bared my brow
And bowed my head, and wept such tears
As only flow, we know not how,
Up through the dead Saharan years;

Yet keep within the soul a spot
As green as in some desert found,
Where founts and palms proclaim the hot
Day's boon is rest on holy ground.

The isles of Greece, the Isles of Greece!
Where burning Sappho loved and sung—
Where grew the arts of war and peace,
Where Delos rose, and Phoebus sprung!
Eternal strodding of the bot

YES, George wrote most of it. And if he were musing at Marathon today he probably would not change another stanza of the song of the Greek poet—

'Tis something, in the dearth of fame,
Though linked among a fettered race,
To feel at least a patriot's shame,
Even as I sing, suffuse my face;
For what is left the poet here?

PUBLIC COMFORT STATIONS.

BUSINESS men have learned that it pays to provide ample toilet facilities and to have them convenient and comfortable. Twenty years ago there were factories and even food factories where the toilet facilities were of the crudest, but such places have passed or are passing. We are now in the midst of the development of the next step. That next step is providing comfort stations in public streets, squares, and parks, in public buildings, and in various semi-public buildings.

Every city of any size in America has begun to provide public comfort stations, but none has developed the service according to a comprehensive plan. Recognizing this the bureau of public health and hygiene undertook a survey of the demand for and supply of public comfort stations which could well serve as a model for similar studies in Chicago and all other American cities.

Among their recommendations are the following: Some of the subway and bridge toilet rooms should be rearranged so as to convert them into public comfort stations. In large heavily patronized stations a part of the space should be let to concessionaires for news stands, bootblack stand, and similar uses, and in this way funds for the maintenance of other stands could be had.

Birmingham, England, by a judicious application of this principle, pays the entire maintenance cost of its stations out of receipts. Any of the public baths can be equipped with public comfort station facilities and should be so equipped. In the main, smaller stations with fewer units scattered over the more thickly populated areas are advised. In some of the larger stations, especially in the sections for women, there should be established bureaus of information concerning employment agencies, hospitals, dispensaries, clinics, milk stations, baby stations, day nurseries, and public baths. Stations should be equipped with soap, warm water, towels, washing and drinking facilities. The toilet facilities must be sanitary in construction and maintained in sanitary condition.

One series of investigations showed how proper facilities lead to better personal hygiene, as follows:

Where there was hot and cold water 82 per cent of the people who used the comfort station washed their hands. Where there was cold water only the percentage washing their hands was 28. Where there was soap in a holder 42 per cent washed. Where there was common soap, 16 per cent washed. Where there were individual towels 90 per cent washed. With common towels, 60 per cent; no towels, 22 per cent.

As a part of their survey they inspected places used rather freely by the public to find the comparative use in common of certain toilet articles. The proportions were: Common combs, 2; common cups, 8; common soap, 14; and common towels, 20.

Toilet objects used in common are in some measure a means of spreading disease. Unquestionably, poor toilet facilities also spread disease. Convenient, comfortable, well kept public comfort stations will lessen this factor in the spread of diseases.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE GOOD.

C. B. writes: "Have facial paralysis on right side for about a week, due to cold. My doctor advises 'warmth and patience.' I am compelled to work and quick recovery is vital to me. Please help me. Are liquors, coffee, and stimulants harmful? Will dieting help? Quinine? Please help me with advice in paper."

REPLY.

Your doctor's advice is good. Bell's palsy, facial paralysis, is usually temporary and cure is complete, but time is required. Liquors, coffee, and stimulants will harm you. Quinine will do no good. You should take a purge as often as needed. I am sure your physician will give you salicylates and coal tar derivatives if your case is of the rheumatic type. Massage and electricity should be given.

DEAFNESS.

A Reader writes: "Is there any cure for catarrhal deafness? If so, will you please name it."

REPLY.

Deafness is easily among the ten subjects covered by questions coming to this column. Partial deafness is widespread. Of course the proper treatment is prevention. The almost universal neglect of throat and ear infections in youth is the cause of the wide prevalence of deafness in the middle aged. But, admitting that the deafness should have been prevented, can anything be done for a case in which it has developed? The general answer is yes. By treatment of the nose, throat, and ears many cases are benefited. The answer for the individual case must be given by an ear specialist who has seen the case.

EXERCISE AND GOOD FOOD.

D. L. and W. writes: "My first baby was born after I turned 40, weighed 8½ pounds; had two more before turning 46; the last weighed 10½ pounds; am only just 5 feet. Had no laceration, a good doctor, and good nursing (trained). My youngest is 3 years now. I nursed the three for nine months. Am now doing all my own housework, washing, ironing, sewing, etc. The keynote I think is exercise, rest, and good food. Was a trained nurse before marriage."

EFFECT OF OPERATION.

Mrs. L. H. writes: "Would like to know if a woman is able to have children after the Fallopian tubes are taken out?"

REPLY.

Both tubes, no; one tube, yes, provided at least one ovary remained. A while ago we were asked if a woman whose right ovary and left tube had been removed could bear children. We replied no. We were corrected by a physician who wrote us that it was possible and probable.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1915: By the Brentwood Co.]

BARON HERMANN VON ECKHARDSTEIN, who was for a number of years attached to the German embassy at Washington, and who has been a frequent visitor since then to the United States, and a familiar figure in New York, has, according to reports which have just reached here from Europe, been languishing in jail in Germany, ever since the end of July of last year, and is now about to appear before the high court at Letpsic on a charge of high treason.

It is stated that he was arrested at Berlin on the day when the orders for the mobilization of the German army were issued, was at first confined in the fortress of Koeln-Deutz, but was subsequently transferred to prison at Magdeburg, where he has been in solitary confinement ever since, the increased severity of the nature of his captivity being due, it is said, to the discovery subsequent to his arrest of further offenses of which he has rendered himself guilty.

There has been a great deal of mystery about the matter, and at least one Berlin paper has been severely punished for referring to the subject, which has, however, been alluded to in a veiled fashion in the Bavarian press. But at the time when the baron was first locked up it was reported that the action of the authorities was due to some gross indiscretions contained in the volume of "Diplomatic Reminiscences" which he was known to have written, and the publication of which was set for the end of July of last year. That they will ever see daylight is doubtful. For the entire edition, as well as the manuscripts and proofs, were seized by the police on the day of the baron's arrest, and the publisher was threatened with dire penalties if he allowed any of the contents of the volumes to get abroad.

Baron Eckhardstein after leaving Washington, where he will be recalled as having jumped or dropped out of a second story window of the old Metropolitan club in the small hours of the morning, for the sake of a wager, without sustaining any injury, was stationed for several years in London.

He was thereupon obliged to retire from the diplomatic service under a cloud, but insisted that he was employed for considerable time afterwards by his government on secret missions, and his name has occasionally been mentioned as an active agent in certain mysterious intrigues said to have taken place in Europe, and also in the United States, with secret emissaries of certain foreign governments; intrigues which in the only instances known came to nought. At any rate, his name should be a familiar one to the secret service people of the United States government. Whether or not his diplomatic reminiscenses contained any disclosures regarding these intrigues, the revelation of which would be embarrassing to the authorities at Berlin, I am unable to say.

While engaged with the German embassy in London, of which for a time he was charge d'affaires, he secured the heart and the hand of the daughter of the late Sir John Blundell Maple of the Great Maple retail furniture emporium of the Tottenham Court road. Sir John, who despite his lack of aspirates and his extraordinary vulgarity, managed nevertheless by his generous and sportsmanlike support of the turf and of everything connected therewith to secure election to the very exclusive English Jockey club, was bitterly opposed to the match. For he objected to foreigners in general, and to the baron in particular, whom he knew to be a gambler on the stock exchange, on the turf, and at cards.

But, Sir John was overruled by his daughter, who was his only child, and then sought to shield her as much as possible from her husband by the terms of his will, through which he tied up his immense fortune in such a fashion that the baron could not obtain a penny thereof, save with the consent of his wife, while he likewise insisted that she spend nine months of every year in England, under penalty of the forfeiture of every penny of her income. He made this provision in the knowledge that as long as she lived in England she remained under the protection of British laws, but that if she transferred her residence to Germany she would utterly be at the mercy of her husband.

An attempt by the baron to upset the will or at any rate this prohibitory clause thereof, was defeated, and thereupon he had recourse to all sorts of ingenious schemes to induce his wife to give him money, including pretended attempts at suicide. He was also guilty of great brutality and of cruelty in his endeavors to extort money, all of which was shown in the English Court of Divorce, when his wife was compelled to sue him, first of all for a judicial separation and then for a divorce. It was likewise demonstrated by the evidence that she, after her father's death, had been obliged to give up some two million dollars in order to save the baron from dishonor.

The testimony printed in the case placed Eckhardstein in so extemely coarse and vulgar a light as to alienate from him not only English society but also his own countrymen of birth and breeding, such as, for instance, his chief, Count Wolff-Metternich, then German ambassador in London, who insisted that the baron's connection with the embassy in London should be completely severed. Moreover, at a large entertainment given some time after the divorce by the ex-baroness Count Wolff-Metternich assisted her, by the kaiser's orders it is said, to do the honors, and was present with all the members of his staff.

The baron used to insinuate that he had been guilty of a terrible mesalliance in marrying the daughter of a self-made man, such as old Sir John Maple, the retail furniture dealer of the Tottenham Court road. But this is ridiculous. For Eckhardstein himself it of very plebeian ancestry, being descended from a man of the name of Ernest Eckhard, who made his fortune as an army contractor in the reign of Frederick the Great, and who was ennobled by way of part payment of some pecuniary claims of his firm against the war department at Berlin. The only strain of blue blood in his veins comes to him through his mother's side of the house. For she was the granddaughter of the famous Prussian Field Marshal Count Kleist, one of the most heroic figures of the Napoleonic wars.

The ex-Baroness Eckhardstein since obtaining the dissolution of her union to the baron has married again, her second husband being Lieut. Col. Archibald Weigel of the Northamptonshire regiment, son of Lady Rose Weigel and grandson through her of the eleventh Earl of Westmoreland. Her fortune, in spite of the large inroads made thereon by von Eckhardstein, remains at over fifteen million dollars. She makes her home at Childwickbury, near St. Albans, where her father established the famous Childwick stud, perhaps the largest and most important in England, or, for the matter of that, in all the world.

WILL PAVE FIFTY-NINTH STREET THIS YEAR.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Please advise me what is going to be done to pave West Fifty-Ninth street and West Sixty-seventh street from Crawford to Cicero avenues, same to be done by the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad in accordance with an ordinance, pamphlet No. 196, recommended for passage by the committee on local industries Monday, Feb. 9, 1914, and to be completed Dec. 31, 1915.

JOHN H. TABBERT,
6118 South Kostner avenue.

An ordinance was passed on March 2, 1914, one of the provisions of which required that the Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad company should pave West Fifty-ninth, West Sixty-seventh and West Seventy-fifth streets from Crawford to Cicero avenues. Under this ordinance work was to be done to the satisfaction of the commissioner of public works. This was rather indefinite, as ordinance did not stipulate kind and depth of material nor width of roadway. These omissions were provided for in a subsequent ordinance passed on Dec. 7, 1914, which specified "an asphaltic macadam roadway twenty feet in width and twelve inches in depth, with a drainage necessary to protect said roadway." The Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad company has recently taken out a permit in accordance with this latter ordinance for the paving of Fifty-ninth street between Kenton and Cicero avenues. Work on this stretch is now in progress, and this is all they expect to do this year. The balance will undoubtedly be completed in the spring of 1916.

GALT AVENUE AND GALT COURT.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly let me know if Galt avenue ever has been called Galt court.

W. WIDHOLM, 2574 Argyle street.

If the Galt avenue referred to is the first street north of Montrose avenue, between Clarendon avenue and Sheridan road, there has never been any change in the name of the street. Gault court, the first street east of Larrabee street, between West Division street and West Chicago avenue, was changed to Cambridge avenue under the ordinance of 1913.

JOHN D. RILEY, Superintendent of Maps.

ALLEY CONDITION DUE TO CARELESSNESS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—[To the Friend of the People.]—This alley is littered with paper, garbage, manure and everything until it's a disgrace to humanity and to a city like Chicago. Now, I think that an investigation would probably do some good. This alley is located between Western and Oakley avenues, on Milwaukee, on the north side of the street.

CHARLES LEVY,
1808 Milwaukee avenue.

Alley in question is cleaned three times each week, and service is given on garbage and ashes twice a week. Abutting owners are careless, which makes it a hard matter to keep the alley clean. Notices have been served on all occupants, and health department also is serving notices to keep back yards clean.

SEWER IN SOUTH FORTY-[illegible] AVENUE.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly let me know if you can when the sewer will be put in the streets in the subdivision at Forty-[illegible] and Archer avenues. A RESIDENT.

Sewers cannot be built in the streets of the subdivision at South Forty-third avenue and Archer avenue until the proposed trunk sewer in South Crawford avenue from the drainage canal south is built. Construction on the sewer will probably begin in the spring of that year.

Superintendent Bureau of Sewers.

The complainant has been notified when to place his garbage and ash cans on Tuesdays and Fridays, the regular collection days, and he will be given service.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

SOCIETY AND THE OPERA.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Just a word of congratulation on the editorial entitled "The Music Lover." By those who appreciate music as a spiritual language and as a source of pleasurable emotion and inspiration it will be gratefully received.

The forthcoming season of grand opera ought to arouse a permanent enthusiasm for good music as one of the agencies whereby there may be developed the "good taste" which Ruskin declares is "the only morality." Unfortunately, the opera season is the open season for the artistic dilettanti. Half baked musical students, with no background of general education and with none of the real culture which has its roots in catholicity of taste and breadth of sympathy, will inflict their friends and associates with seeming wise generalisations about "high C's," "tone production," and "atmosphere."

The dignity, nobility, the epic grandeur, which is at once the source and the inspiring beauty of grand opera, will be largely obscured by the newspaper recitals of the vulgar displays of diamonds, gowns, and anatomy, which seem to be the inevitable concomitants of the opera season.

The sincere lovers of music who read THE TRIBUNE hope that "the greatest newspaper in the world" will subordinate the stories of the "social" side of the opera to the record of the "musical side." To make music the center of the opera season would be unique and revolutionary. The paper which will assume the leadership in such a movement will confer a positive public service.

MURATORE WINS APPLAUSE IN 'WERTHER' ROLE

BY ERIC DE LAMARTER.

Massenet's "Werther," revived at the auditorium last evening, was an occasion for the individual triumph of Lucien Muratore, the representative French tenor whose successes were features of the fourth season of opera.

Further distinguishing the presentation was the debut of a young Spanish soprano, Conchita Supervia, whose beauty and operatic gifts have inspired wild photography and wilder literature in preparation for her advent.

Again, another debutante in rôles of importance stepped into the foreground unexpectedly, in the person of Myrna Sharlow, whose friends in the audience rather embarrassed than aided her cause. She sang well enough not to need so much punctuation of applause.

Never Had a Real Chance Here.

The opera has never had its real chance here to become popular, possibly because the title rôle demands such singing as Mr. Muratore's. Among the connoisseurs, it is esteemed with "Manon," Massenet's best creation for the lyric theater, even though "Herodiade" disputes its title through its popularity.

But this work has its "cachet," its peculiar Gallic style, which is also peculiar to Massenet. There is pure joy in its cantilene and satisfaction in its dramatic fervor. It is a creation to be sung by sensitive interpreters for a sensitive audience.

Such a singer is Mr. Muratore, whose voice is not only a rich timbre in climaxes but one of seductive beauty in mezza voce as well. Enunciation, inflection, nuance are his quick and faithful vassals, and the best traits of a great opera "school" is in his interpretation.

He "stopped the show" on his entrance, as the vaudeville phrase goes. Applause so insistent that it irritated many of his audience was the response after nearly every number. But it was the evidence of his exceeding popularity. At that, Mr. Muratore will doubtless agree that demonstration of that sort might be reserved, with better taste, for the end of an act, rather than loosed for the ruin of a mood.

Supervia Impresses.

Miss Supervia made a pleasant impression as the faithful wife. Her voice is neither large nor luscious, yet it has fair range, fair power, and a queer division into two registers quite dissimilar. She gave a good, conventional interpretation of the rôle and was cordially received.

Miss Sharlow demonstrated possibilities of the grand opera ingénue type, with a free, clear tone to match. She sings as she acts, with verve and ingenuousness.

Mr. Dufranne defined the husband in his hearty fashion, and his sturdy voice made excellent foil for Mr. Muratore's ringing timbre.

The performance was uneven. Rodolfo Ferrari, the new Italian conductor, found difficulty in scaling down an orchestral tone accustomed to the tremendous proportions of "La Gioconda" and "Tristan and Isolde," so that the more slender melodic line of "Werther" should be sustained sympathetically. There was evident uncertainty of his beat in the orchestral pit, also.

SOCIETY AT THE OPERA

As Muratore took his fourth curtain call last night, debutantes and matrons alike breathed happy sighs, for Werther's woes are irresistible and "all the world loves a lover."

It was a delightful opera for the debutante, and there were many in the boxes to enjoy it.

Miss Lolita Armour, who is not a debutante, was there as hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Laurance Armour, H. S. Bonnie, and Thomas Conners, two friends from out of town.

Miss Armour wore a simple gown of white georgette crêpe over white taffeta, trimmed with narrow ruched white satin ribbon. Mrs. Laurance Armour was in white satin embroidered in silver lace and carried a white ostrich fan.

Mrs. Armour's slippers were unusually beautiful, being made of white satin with a design of silver threads.

In fact the slippers worn last evening were one of the most fascinating features of the promenade which takes place behind the boxes between every act.

Miss Anita Blair, who made her appearance for the first time this week in her parents' box, wore tiny gold slippers with her gown of cloth of gold.

Mrs. McCormick Blair's slippers were unique. They were of mauve cloth of silver with a flaring butterfly bow of ruby quins.

Mrs. Howard Linn wore slippers of silver brocade and Miss Grace Tuttle, who was in apricot taffeta, wore cloth of gold slippers with rhinestone buckles.

POLO MAGAZINE GIVES READERS LONG 'VACATION'

No Recent Issue, but 'Hahva'd' Publisher Still Selling Stock and Subscriptions.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Complaints of subscribers to the Polo and Clubman magazine, self-styled "the smartest sporting society paper in America," developed the fact today that the postoffice department in May last refused to permit the mailing of this publication as second class matter because of failure to furnish the required semi-annual statement.

At the postmaster's office here today it was said no application for a renewal of the privilege had been received and that the last issue of the magazine mailed was that of December, 1914.

Campaign for Subscribers.

Despite these developments, the officers of the Polo and Clubman Company, Incorporated, have conducted during the summer and are carrying on an active stock and subscription selling campaign. Receipts shown reporters appear to prove conclusively that W. A. Hall, president and treasurer, has accepted checks in payment for new subscriptions to Polo and Clubman as late, at least, as June 29 last. Some of these checks were promptly cashed.

Hall, known to some associates, but more particularly to bell boys and bartenders of fashionable hotels as "Dough" Hall, admitted neither the company nor the magazine had any assets save its name and good will.

"In" to Selected Visitors.

When a reporter called at the offices of the company a tall, dark, extremely well dressed young man of cultivated manners, replied to a question as to Mr. Hall's whereabouts. "He's out. He may be in in five minutes, two hours, or not before tomorrow."

"Could you arrange an appointment with him for a reporter?"

"O!" said the man, rising, smiling, and holding out his hand, "if you are a reporter I might as well tell you. I'm Mr. Hall. You see, I thought you were one of the persons I didn't care to see."

In reply to questions, Mr. Hall, who has an extremely winning personality and says he is "an Harvard man, old boy!" and speaks with a decided southern accent, said that while Polo and Clubman were seeing hard times it had never suspended publication, that the number would appear shortly, and business was looking up.

Men's Week—the sale of the season for men—is opportunity under another name.

It is the event of the year in this Men's Store—an event built upon the knowledge that our patrons want quality first, last and always, and based upon quality, these buying opportunities are such as are seldom encountered. For instance:

In This Men's Week Assemblage of New Suits For Men at $18.50 and $25 is the best clothing we have seen in years to be sold at these prices.

Many of them are Stein-Bloch suits—suits tailored-to-our-order of fine worsteds, cassimeres, unfinished worsteds, cheviots and tweeds in new grays, new browns, new greens, new blues and new mixtures.

Suits in all sizes, for men of all proportions—suits of a kind which can only be compared to those these Men's Weeks have offered in the past at such prices as $18.50 and $25.

And of particular interest in Men's Week also are these—

Men's winter overcoats at $25.
Men's Chesterfield overcoats (silk lined) at $25.
Youthful suits for young men at $18.50.
Men's distinctive shirts at $1.35.
Men's shirts of rich silks at $3.50.
And the Men's Week sales of Hats, Gloves, Hosiery and Underwear.

DO you intend to take advantage of Men's Week?—or will you let opportunity slip by like the man who stood behind his door waiting for it to come and knock?

The quality of a magazine's circulation can be inferred from the nature of the publication itself.

In spite of any efforts by the publisher to expand circulation artificially, the readers of a publication will eventually be those who like "that sort of thing."

To judge what kind of women buy The Designer, we wish that every advertiser would read several consecutive issues of The Designer, not skimmingly, but with the close application of our women readers who devour every paragraph.

The Designer is welcomed each month in more than 950,000 homes, and they are the kind of homes in which advertising pays.

VARNISH WORKS BORROWS HALF MILLION AT 6%

S. W. Straus & Co. Underwrite Serial Bond Issue Loan to Standard.

S. W. Straus & Co. have underwritten a serial bond issue loan of $500,000 to the Standard Varnish Works, inc., of New York. The loan is payable from one to ten years and bears 6 per cent interest. It is secured by the property of the company at the southwest corner of Twenty-sixth and Federal streets, 97x400 feet, improved with a two story factory building; also the property at the southwest corner of Thirty-seventh and Shields avenue, 165x600 feet, improved with a two story factory building; also a plant at Staten Island, N. Y., and one at Toronto. It is stated the loan is for the purpose of increasing the working capital of the company. The corporation was founded in 1880, and the Chicago branches were established in 1880. The Chicago plants are value dat $275,000 and the others at $625,000.

Record was made of the transfer by C. W. Rothe to the Blue Valley Creamery company of the 200x100 feet, north front, in Ontario street, 547 feet west of Lake Shore drive, for an indicated consideration of $50,000.

Several transactions among those reported and made matters of record involved building projects.

Ashland Avenue Deal.

The erection of a new high grade eighteen apartment building at the southeast corner of Ashland avenue and Juneway terrace is involved in the purchase, made a matter of record, by Arthur C. Arnold from C. W. Ferguson of the vacant 133x128 feet at the corner indicated for a stated consideration of $13,500. The apartments will contain four and five rooms and the building will cost in the neighborhood of $70,000. In connection with its construction Mr. Arnold has given a trust deed to the Chicago Title and Trust company to secure a loan of $50,000, five years, at 6 per cent.

The erection of business improvements on Broadway at the southwest corner of Cornelia avenue is likely to follow the purchase of property at that point by James L. Beckwith and James B. Waller. The property acquired fronts 151 feet on Broadway and 196 feet on Cornelia avenue and was purchased from Albert J. Davis of New York City for an indicated consideration of $22,000. It is stated the purchasers plan to sell the Cornelia ave nue frontage and improve the Broadway frontage with stores. The office of John B. De Voney represented both parties.

State Street Lease.

E. F. Keebler & Co. have leased for Henry C. Lytton & Sons of the Hub clothing store to Max L. Mandel 40x100 feet, third floor of the building at the southwest corner of State and Quincy streets, for a term from Dec. 1 at an annual rent of $3,000. Mr. Mandel occupied the three floors at 212 South State street for about ten years. The premises just leased will be occupied by a Hungarian restaurant.

The high grade six apartment building at 427-29 Rosemont avenue, 241 west of Glenwood avenue, lot 50x136 feet, north front, has been sold by Anton Jaggle to C. J. Johnson for an indicated consideration of $26,000, subject to an incumbrance of $13,000. In part payment the purchaser conveyed the two flat building at 1237 Addison street at a valuation of $8,000. McCollam & Kruggel were the brokers representing both parties.

The high grade six apartment building at 4318-20 Grand boulevard has been sold by Benjamin Lowenmeyer to Ellen N. Coughlin for a reported consideration of $46,250, subject to an incumbrance of $26,250. The grantee then conveyed the property to Gustav Hochstadter, subject to an incumbrance of $40,250. Mark Levy & Bro. were the brokers.

Flats Change Hands.

The new six apartment building at 6227-29 South Park avenue has been sold by Edward J. and William H. Kelly to Charles B. Mueller for a reported consideration of $25,000, subject to an incumbrance of $14,000. In part payment the purchaser conveyed the clear three apartment building at 4940 St. Lawrence avenue and the vacant at the southwest corner of Du Bois boulevard and Rochester avenue, Brookfield. Louis J. Rathje & Co. were the brokers.

The property in North Clark street, 118 feet south of Ohio street, lot 25x80 feet, east front, with store and flat improvements, has been sold by Thomas Holme to Mary Smith for an expressed consideration of $25,500, the purchaser giving back a part purchase money mortgage for $12,000.

Margaret C. Magill has purchased from the Provident Life and Trust company the propert on Vincennes avenue, 277 feet northeast of Seventy-third street, west front, 125x110 feet, for an indicated consideration of $22,000.

Harrison Street Transfer.

Record has been made of the transfer by the estate of E. G. Foreman to Edward J. McGrath of the property in West Harrison street, twenty-five feet east of Sibley street, 100x145 feet, north front, for a stated consideration of $18,000. There are old improvements, which Mr. McGrath will use in connection with his teaming business.

Record was made of the transfer by C. W. Payne et al. to the North American Waxed Paper company of the property on Emerson avenue, 146 feet west of Robey street, 94x92 feet, with improvements, for an indicated consideration of $30,000, subject to an incumbrance of $25,000.

The Chicago Title and Trust company is trustee in a loan of $50,000, five years at 5½ per cent, to Rose A. Frank on the property in Sheridan road, fifty feet south of Farwell avenue, 50x146 feet, east front.

Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company has made a loan of $28,000, five years at 5½ per cent, to C. Larson on the 60x135 feet on Garrison avenue, near Rogers avenue, improved with a high grade six flat building.

Torrens Titles Active.

Applications have been filed this week in the office of the registrar of titles of Cook county for Torrens titles to property valued at more than $362,000. The number of lots is 3,356. Registrar Conmary's books show the following applications:

	Lots.	Value.
Henry R. Durkee	2,000	$ 36,000
Fred W. Brunnell et al.	296	175,000
Paul P. Barnett	166	40,000
Brentel & Schmidt	122	40,000
E. H. Kubitz	720	35,000
Miscellaneous	50	36,000
Totals	3,356	$362,000

Henry R. Durkee of the Chicago Title and Trust building made application yesterday to register 240 acres in Thornton, approximately 2,000 lots, under the Torrens system.

Mr. Durkee, it is understood, is placing the property under the system in order to simplify matters when he comes to selling the individual lots.

In the Durkee tract, attachés of the registrar's office say, the cost of abstracts for all the lots would be about $10,000, as compared to $75, the cost under the Torrens system.

IT'S YOUR LIVER! YOU'RE BILIOUS, HEADACHY, SICK!

Don't stay constipated with breath bad, stomach sour or a cold.

Enjoy life! Liven your liver and bowels tonight and feel fine.

Tonight sure! Remove the liver and bowel poison which is keeping your head dizzy, your tongue coated, breath offensive and stomach sour. Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy, constipated and full of cold. Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store now? Eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or bother you all the next day like calomel, salts and pills. They act gently but thoroughly. Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious or feverish children a whole Cascaret any time. They are harmless and children love them.

BREAK YOURSELF OF THE LAXATIVE HABIT

LAXATIVES and cathartics cause more constipation than they cure. Nujol is the modern treatment for constipation. It conforms in all essentials to the requirements of the mineral oil treatment as prescribed by its discoverer, Sir William Arbuthnot Lane.

Nujol is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

The Train-dispatcher

Each terminal on the Elevated has its train dispatcher—usually a former motorman or switchman—who is in immediate charge of the operation of trains and crews. In each division, four Service Inspectors—all former motormen—are continually on the road supervising the operation of trains.

Elevated Express for Quick Service

Ten minutes to the Loop from Indiana Avenue—seventeen minutes to the Loop from Logan Square—seventeen minutes to the Loop from Wilson Avenue on the Evanston Express—that's typical of the schedule on which Elevated express trains run. Use the Elevated—safest—quickest—cleanest. Through routes from North to South Sides—frequent express trains—universal 5c fare.

ONE OF THE HAPPY ISLES

"Varied and changeable are women," runs the Roman proverb, but the weather is even more so. * * * The climate of Atlantic City, however, has a reasonable degree of steadiness. And these are the causes. Absecon Island is surrounded by great stretches of temperate salt water that make the air above an enclosing wall of protection, like a thermos bottle. Then, too, the island runs aslant to the west, thus obtaining the full bounty of southern exposure to the winter sun. The warm Gulf Stream sweeps by off shore. * * * Cooled by the breezes of summer, warmed by the sun and ocean in winter, Atlantic City is one of the "Happy Isles" that the ancients vainly sought. * * * The Traymore stands fronting the sea, with 85 per cent. of its windows dominating the ocean.

POLITICS POPS FAST IN CHICAGO; BOOMS GALORE

Two Presidential Possibilities Make Speeches; Others Discuss Campaign.

Chicago yesterday demonstrated its right to be considered the political capital of the nation, strengthening its claims upon the two national conventions of 1916.

Mobilized in the loop, while the local "booth conventions" committee was stocking up subscriptions to the $200,000 fund, were one full sized presidential boom, two other presidential potentialities, and swarms of Republicans who talked about the withdrawal of Justice Hughes as a possible candidate, and the rumors from Texas that Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania is figuring on running.

Reads La Follette Out.

Gov. E. L. Philipp of Wisconsin, here to talk before the Traffic club, shot probably the biggest political surprise. He read Senator Robert M. La Follette out of the presidential consideration; prophesied an unInstructed delegation from Wisconsin to the next national convention, which he hopes will be in Chicago, and did not remove himself from the chance of becoming a "favorite son" himself.

United States Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, a definite candidate for the presidency, presented his claims to the west in an address before the Hamilton club.

Ohioans for Burton.

Myron T. Herrick, former governor of Ohio and later ambassador to France, disavowed his own entry for the presidency and permitted the inference to stand, as suggested in an interview he gave out last week, that former Senator Theodore E. Burton will have the support solidly of Ohio in the Republican convention.

The news from San Antonio that Senator Penrose might get into the going as Pennsylvania's candidate next year, diluted somewhat by Senator Penrose's subsequent statement, did not surprise any of the Republican politicians. They seemed to agree it was a bit of Pennsylvania strategy looking forward to unquestioned control of the Pennsylvania delegation by the Penrose organization.

Chicago Funds Nearly Complete.

While all this was developing, Chairman Fred W. Upham's committee on conventions in session at the Palmer house, was closing up the preliminary details in the campaign for the Republican and Democratic national conventions. All but a few of the subcommittees made their final reports.

The last of the fund will be completed next week, Chairman Upham announced, and the preparations will be made for the Chicago onslaught upon the national committees at Washington next month.

Weeks Attacks McAdoo Scheme.

Senator Weeks, speaking at the Hamilton club, sharply attacked the merchant marine proposal as advocated by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

Mr. Herrick, who was also at the Hamilton club, was an optimist as to Republican chances in 1916. "The trip through the west, just ended, was convincing that we are approaching a splendid victory," he said.

Hughes Says "No" Again.

In Washington Justice Hughes gave out a formal letter addressed to the secretary of state of Nebraska declining to be a candidate for president and requesting that his name be not placed on the primary ballot in that state.

The Nebraskans intimated in dispatches from Omaha that they probably will acquiesce in Justice Hughes' wishes.

Sigma Club Alumnae Give Charity Benefit.

MISS ALLEN RICKETTS

Alumnæ of the Sigma club of the University of Chicago hope to raise $1,000 for charity at a benefit program and dance on Saturday, Nov. 27. The alumnæ association established a trade school for girls at the University of Chicago settlement four years ago, and the proceeds of the affair next week will be used to better the facilities of the school.

Miss Helen Ricketts, who has the program and ticket sale in charge, yesterday predicted a great success for the benefit. A four act play, "Exit Mr. Black," will be presented at Mandel hall of the university and will be followed by vaudeville and a dance in the Reynolds club.

THOUSAND TEACHERS JOIN CONFERENCE IN URBANA.

Three Hundred Schools Are Represented in Delegates to Be Addressed by Many Experts.

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 18.—More than a thousand high school teachers from all sections of Illinois were here today for the opening sessions of the annual high school conference at the University of Illinois. More than 300 high schools were represented. The conference will last three days.

Several speakers at the convention will be from New York institutions, but most of the discussions will be led by Illinois educators.

The first general session this evening discussed "The Junior High School," the subject being introduced by Prof. H. A. Hollister, state high school visitor. Tomorrow evening Miss Mary E. Hall of the girls' high school, Brooklyn, N. Y., will lead a discussion of social library work, and on Saturday morning Miss Theodora E. Nye of Columbia university will give the Illinois teachers her ideas on the direct methods of teaching Latin.

LETTER URGED CHICAGO FOR DEMOCRAT MEETING.

Boeschenstein Makes Public Note in Which He Sought Convention for This City.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Statements of Democratic officials here that the Democratic national committee never has been asked to hold the Democratic convention in Chicago next summer are denied by Charles Boeschenstein, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois. Mr. Boeschenstein has made public the copy of a letter he wrote to each member of the committee on July 10 last. In this letter Mr. Boeschenstein calls attention to Chicago's central position and its railroad and hotel facilities.

TEST VOTE FINDS LABOR ON SIDE OF PREPAREDNESS

A. F. of L. Votes Down Resolution Against Military Instruction in the Public Schools.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—The question of preparedness, coming up unexpectedly, was thrashed out before the American Federation of Labor today with the result that a resolution protesting against the introduction of military propaganda in the public schools was voted down.

But a final vote was not taken until President Samuel Gompers declared he hoped the day soon would come when the people of the United States would control the militia and the regular armed forces in the interest of peace, justice, democracy, and humanity.

The session was marked by several demonstrations, hisses coming from various parts of the hall when speakers were setting forth their views as to why the resolution should not be passed.

Anti-Militarists Hiss.

On one occasion the demonstration became so noticeable that Vice President James Duncan of Quincy, Mass., who was presiding, warned the spectators that the galleries would be cleared. The hissing was attributed to anti-militarists.

President Gompers said it had not been intended that the question of preparedness should come up at the time—that the plan had been to consider it more especially.

"But now that we are on the subject," said he, "I wish to say that I would not have the military forces controlled by a select few. I want it in the hands of democracy—in the control of the great masses of the people."

Wants All Trained.

The president said he was opposed to militarism, but that he would like to see the people, the farmer, the worker, and the people in general, thoroughly trained and organized, and these people control the militia and the regular forces in the interest of peace, justice, democracy, and humanity.

"I'm in favor of international peace. Use the boycott against the nation that flies in the face of the world," said Mr. Gompers.

Indorse Seamen's Act.

The seamen's act was indorsed today by resolution. Opposition was expressed to any efforts to weaken the measure and regret was voiced at the interpretation of several provisions by the department of commerce.

The convention adopted also a resolution that the United States government be asked to print and furnish free to the public copies of the reports of the United States commission on industrial relations.

TWENTY SUBJECTS IN CALL.

Summons to Extra Session Will Be Issued by Gov. Dunne at Springfield Today.

Twenty subjects will be included in the call for the extra session of the Illinois legislature, which will be issued at Springfield today by Gov. Dunne, it was announced at Springfield last night. The session will begin at noon next Monday.

MRS. FRANCIS CAROLAN RECEIVES DEATH THREATS.

San José, Cal., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Francis Carolan, a wealthy society woman of Burlingame, Cal., has received three letters threatening her with death if she testifies against Anton Federa, an automobilist accused of causing the death a few weeks ago of Hector Zepada, a motorcycle rider, it was announced here today by county officials.

Mrs. Carolan was instrumental in obtaining the arrest of Federa. She was a witness to the collision and in her own car pursued Federa's machine until she was close enough to read the license number.

Mrs. Carolan is a daughter of the late George M. Pullman of Chicago.

GOPHER GIANT NEXT FOE FOR JESS WILLARD

BY RAY C. PEARSON.

Jess Willard, world's champion heavyweight, need not sit in idleness in his bungalow at Los Angeles and pine away for lack of competition in his chosen profession. Tom Jones, Willard's manager, can cut out the worrying for fear the New Orleans promoters who have offered Jess $32,500 will be unable to find a suitable opponent for the big cowboy in a championship battle of twenty rounds next March.

Those who saw Fred Fulton, the Minnesota giant, decisively defeat Andre Anderson of Chicago in four rounds at Milwaukee on Wednesday night—and among them was Tom Jones—gained a pretty well defined notion that the man to furnish the competition for which the champion is seeking has been found.

Jones Boosts Heavies.

For several days before the Brewery city scrap Jones had been acting in the capacity of booster for the heavyweight class, and he said that he would be overjoyed to see a lot of heavyweights of championship caliber developed. Of course Jones was looking ahead to the fattening of the bank roll, for with a lot of worthy opponents Willard would be able to rake in a greater number of those $30,000 purses, which he is demanding.

But when Jones saw Fulton polish off Anderson with his pile driving left handers to the midsection, he must have experienced a change of feeling, for Tom's enthusiasm over development of future Willard opponents was not nearly so exuberant after the bout was over. Coming back to Chicago we met Jones on the train and asked:

"Well, what do you think of this Fulton person, now that you've seen him perform?"

Sees Fulton as Rival.

"He looks pretty good," answered Jones in about the same tone that he might employ in talking of the weather. Then, pressed a bit, Willard's manager continued: "I guess Fulton will be the fellow that Willard will have to meet for that $32,500 roll in New Orleans. I don't know of anyone else that has the class. The eastern bunch, and that includes Frank Moran, Jim Coffey, and the rest of them, wouldn't even make it interesting for the champion."

Then Jones confided that he is going to make a hurried trip to New York. At first he didn't seem to be inclined to tell the "why" of the speedy journey, but later admitted that it was for the purpose of hooking up in a conference with Jimmy Gibson to see what could be done in the way of making a match for Willard with Moran.

That makes it look as if Willard would scrap Moran over the ten round route in New York before he goes to the Crescent city to stack up against his most formidable rival, Fred Fulton.

Defeat Jolts Chicagoans.

The elimination of Anderson from consideration through the medium of Fulton's powerful left hand was a jolt to the Chicago fans, about 200 of whom saw the bout. There were several of the wise ones who advanced the opinion that Anderson was not "ready" for a tough battle. That explanation about fitted the case, for Andre carried too much flesh at the belt line and when Fulton's terrific punches found lodgment they sunk several inches. It took just four of these wallops to cause Anderson to collapse, a most completely knocked out scrapper.

To the credit of Anderson it can be said that he displayed more speed for three rounds than any heavyweight has shown in years. He stepped fast in and out, shooting a nice left to the Minnesota giant's face with regularity. This speed incidentally caused Andre to slow up and tire, and when Fulton's first left caught him in the midsection he slowed up to such an extent that his huge frame was an easy mark for his opponent.

DILLON KNOCKS OUT FARMER

A. A. F. Swims Tomorrow.

The first annual swimming meet of the A. A. is to be held in the tank of the Chicago Hebrew institute tomorrow. Events for seniors and juniors and several exhibitions are scheduled.

KELLY—THE APOLOGY.

Woods and Waters.

BY LARRY ST. JOHN.

CONCERNING RELOADING.

SPEAK of reloading and the average American, especially if raised in the country, recalls dad's brass shells and reloading tools. One of our first toys was a powder and hot measure, and well do we remember its funny notches on the side and its shiny red handle. It was a toy, however, only when "the old man" was away. The rest of the time it was a powder and shot measure and was kept in a tin box on the shelf above the wood box in the kitchen.

Brass shells are no longer fashionable. In fact, with the introduction of smokeless powder, reloading went out of style, but is now coming in again. The price of shells is bound to go up, so reloading is now a timely subject.

If you read the advertising literature of the people who make reloading tools you will learn that reloading pays and pays big. On the other hand, the ammunition makers say it does not. Both have the "figgers" to prove it, which, as a friend says, makes it more "intrickit."

* *

Reloading pays the man who does considerable shooting—say the one who shoots at the trap every week or so, or the lucky cuss who lives where there is plenty of game. It is hard to put a limit on the minimum number of shells a man must use in the year to make reloading a paying proposition, or to warrant the buying of a real reloading outfit, but we would say 500 is a pretty close guess.

Reloading 500 twelve gauge shells with three and a fourth drams of Du Pont smokeless powder and one and an eighth ounces of number six drop shot would stack up something like this:

6½ lbs. Du Pont powder	$ 3.57
35 lbs. drop shot	2.80
500 primers	.99
500 nitro card wads for over powder	.10
1,000 felt wads	1.88
500 B thickness card wads for over shot	.10
Total	$ 9.44
Cost of factory loaded shells, same load	14.68
Saving	5.24

These are actual figures and are for present Chicago prices, and allow for waste of both powder and shot. One can make a little more saving in reloading sixteen and twenty gauge shells. Right straight through you can figure a saving of about 1 cent per shell, which is of course not counting your labor. It is interesting work, though, with the soft pedal on the work. With a loading machine you can reload about 150 shells in an hour, taking it easy; a hand loader is slower. You must remember, however, that there is a difference between loading and reloading because when loading you have to buy primed shells, which cost on an average of a cent apiece. To find the cost of loading add the price of the shells less the cost of the primers, which just about eats up what you save by reloading.

But the dollars and cents idea is not the only advantage. For instance, a slight variation in loads either in the quantity or quality of powder, the size and quantity of shot, the number and kind of wadding, or the amount of pressure used in loading makes a difference in the performance of your gun. We once owned a sixteen double gun that was a very mediocre shooter with the left barrel.

A little modification of the wadding put this gun in the seven day wonder class. Almost every gun has its eccentricities, and will handle a certain load more efficiently than any other. To find this load with factory loaded ammunition is an expensive process. With a reloading outfit a few days' experimenting will show you just what your gun will do, which is something the user of factory loaded shells is years in learning, if he learns it at all. Besides, it is an advantage to load up a few shells "special" for the bigger game we all blunder into at times. Also shells loaded with smokeless powder deteriorate with age and old shells have an awful wallop at the butt end of the gun. Reloading assures fresh shells.

In pointing out the advantages of home loaded shells we are not attempting to "knock" the factory loaded ones. For uniformly high quality and dependability there is nothing we know of that quite equals American factory loaded ammunition. In fact, it is due to the splendid material and workmanship of the shells and cartridge cases used by our factories that we are able to reload at all. For the once in a while shooter factory loaded shells are just the thing—reloading is for the enthusiast or "nut."

WOLGAST AFTER FREDDIE WELSH FOR TITLE BOUT

BY KNOCKOUT.

Ad Wolgast, former lightweight champion, nearly hooked Champion Freddie Welsh into a twenty round contest yesterday. Wolgast recently offered to guarantee Welsh $15,000 to meet him in a Denver ring on the afternoon of Dec. 25, and yesterday Wolgast, his manager, Larney Lichtenstein, and Welsh and his manager, Harry Pollok, got together to talk it over.

The Cadillac kid put it up to Welsh cold turkey, but Welsh and Pollok came back with another proposition. They demanded that, in addition to the guarantee, they should have the privilege of taking 50 per cent of the gate receipts and 75 per cent of the moving pictures. This was almost a knockout for Wolgast and he asked time to "come up for air." These terms will be considered for a few days, and in the meantime the Denver folks who are planning to promote the contest will be consulted.

Charley White was another lightweight who was on the trail of the champion yesterday, but he failed to connect. White came post haste from Boston, where he knocked out Milburn Saylor on Tuesday night, to try to force Welsh to agree to meet him in a twenty round bout. But there was disappointment for the knockout kid, for he found Freddie had jumped east while he was jumping west.

Our own Johnny Coulon, carrying eleven pounds more with him than he had when he went to the wilds of Canada to recuperate three months ago, returned home yesterday. Johnny is simply full of pep and announced that he never was in better condition. Coulon brought along the evidence of having shot a 205 pound buck in the Canadian woods, and also said he had run into a future great in the heavyweight ranks. This chap is a Buffalo person by the name of Bill Taylor, and he weighs 211 pounds. "Taylor has the making of a great fighter," said Coulon. Coulon is going to start light training the first of next month and will be ready for matches about Jan. 1.

Frank Ketchel, a local middleweight who is managed by Bob Zieman, is looking for trouble. His manager says he doesn't bar any of 'em.

The bout scheduled between Joe Hasting and Billy Graney at Argo last night was postponed for ten days because of the sudden sickness of Graney.

John Bart of Oak Park and Herman Ruben will meet in the feature bout of the amateur show at Forbes' gymnasium tonight. This is their second meeting, the other having resulted in a draw. Bouts are scheduled in all other classes.

M'HALE NINE BEATS PEREZ.

McHale council won the opening game in the southern division of the Knights of Columbus Indoor league, defeating Perez council, 11 to 6, at Ryan's hall. McHales sewed up the game in the first five innings, scoring eight runs. J. Mee featured with seventeen strikeouts and Mulcahy with nine. Score:

Braman Captain at Exeter.

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 18.—Arthur H. Braman of Torrington, Conn., was elected captain of next year's Phillips Exeter academy football team tonight. He played right tackle on this season's eleven.

KOCKLER SPRINT BRINGS VICTORY IN BIKE CONTEST

BY KEENE GARDINER.

Ernest Kockler, Chicago Cycle club amateur, hit a desperate pace in the final mile of the three mile open race at the Coliseum last night, outdistancing the picked field after a punctured tire put him behind on the first lap. Riding from scratch in the half mile handicap, he barely missed another first, finishing second to A. Van der Pait, the Belgian with a forty-five yard allowance.

A crowd of 5,000 turned out despite bad weather to see the sprints which opened the local six day racing card. A brief program of sprints will precede the grind tonight, the long race to start at 10 o'clock.

Kopsky Places.

Joe Kopsky, Bohemia, barely placed with others in a preliminary heat of the mile professional, but came back by capturing the final heat. He was aided by a 85 yard handicap. Bobby Wohlrab, competing as an unattached amateur, and his brother, Gus, a professional from Jersey City, N. J., both placed in their classes.

In the final of the half mile Willis Kell, Chicago C. C., had to be carried off the track after a spill on a turn. Kell tangled his machine with that of Olaf Lodal. Kell ran a splinter into his ankle, but doctors promised he would be able to race in coming events. Victor Linart, Belgium, had to quit in the first ten mile heat of the twenty mile motor paced event after three tires collapsed under him.

Summary of Events.

Half mile amateur handicap—Won by A. Van der Pait, Belgian American A. C., 45 yards; Ernest Kockler, Chicago C. C., scratch, second; Bobby Wohlrab, unattached, 85 yards, third; George Klasen, unattached, 20 yards, fourth. Time, :50 3-5.

Mile handicap, professional—Won by Joe Kopsky, Bohemia, 85 yards; Lloyd Thomas, San Francisco, 35 yards, second; Ray Eaton, Newark, 20 yards, third; Eddie Madden, Newrk, 50 yards, fourth; Tim Sullivan, New Haven, 100 yards, fifth. Time, 1:57 1-5.

Three mile open, amateur—Won by Ernest Kockler, Chicago C. C.; L. Kuehl, Chicago C. C., second; Andrew Andresen, Conquer A. C., third; Bobby Wohlrab, unattached, fourth. Time, 7:11.

Five mile open, professional—Won by Frank Corry, Australia; Eddie Root, Boston, second; Worth Mitten, Davenport, third; Eddie Madden, Newark, fourth; Gus Wohlrab, Jersey City, fifth. Time, 10:42.

Twenty mile motor paced [two ten mile heats]—Won by Clarence Carman, Jamaica; Bobby Walthour, Atlanta, second. Time, first ten miles, 10:42; second ten miles, 10:51 2-5.

Velvet THE SMOOTHEST SMOKING TOBACCO

Velvet Joe

IF your taste is like that of most pipe smokers, you will join the other thousands of pipe lovers in saying:

"What's the matter with VELVET? It's all right!"

For years pipe smokers and tobacco men have agreed that Nature never turned out but one "born" pipe tobacco and that is Kentucky Burley leaf.

But even "born" pipe tobacco can be "educated" into still better pipe tobacco by Nature's own method of maturing—patient ageing.

More than two years time is allowed VELVET for taking on the last possible degree of mellowness, for bringing out its natural fragrance and flavor to the utmost.

...AME BADGER ALUMNUS IN TICKET SALE PROBE

...ET DRILL FOR TEAM.

BY MAROON.

...University of Chicago athletic officials ... night made public the first results ... their investigation of ticket scalping ... connection with the sale of tickets for ... Chicago-Illinois game tomorrow. In ... prepared statement issued by Business ... Manager David S. Merriam he expressed ... that an allotment for tickets for ... University of Wisconsin alumni "ap... in part at least, to have been di... verted from those persons for whom they ... were intended."

...his statement made to THE TRIBUNE ... night Mr. Merriam asserted 300 ... had been alloted to Wisconsin ... These tickets, according to the ... official, were given to Norman D. ... Bassett, a Wisconsin alumnus of 1914, ... had charge of the Badger alumni ... for the Chicago-Wisconsin game. ... statement, which appears in another ... column, conveys the impression the Ma... roons are not satisfied with Mr. Bassett's ... explanation of his distribution of the ... tickets.

Chance to Make Statement.

Charges that some of these tickets were ... the hands of scalpers reached Bartlett ... gymnasium yesterday and an investiga... tion followed. Mr. Bassett could not be ... reached by telephone last night, but will ... be given an opportunity to make a state... ment of his position today if he so ... desires.

There was little change in prices in the ... downtown brokerage offices yesterday ... and the scalpers were not inclined to slash ... values because of the threatening ... weather. Two dollar seats at several ... places could be secured for $4 each, but ... there was no regular quotation, rather a ... "curb" market, as perhaps our war ... stocks specialists would say.

Practice on Heavy Field.

The Maroons played water basketball ... yesterday at Stagg field for over four ... hours and then went into Hutchinson ... commons for a dinner while defects in ... their aquatic play were explained. The ... regular field is buried under a foot of ... hay, but the scrimmage gridiron back ... of the east stand was completely cov... ered with water. Coach Stagg did not ... shorten the practice because of the con... ditions, but sent his team through the ... regular Thursday practice in the mud. ... All sorts of plays were tried and the Ma... roons threw the water soaked ball around ... the field without much difficulty.

It looks as if Norgren or Cahn will start ... in the place of the ailing Kitty Gordon ... at left half against Illinois. Norgren ... looks like the best bet, for Stagg has ... been inclined to start his plungers in ... the games this year and save his pony ... backs until his opponents were tiring. ... Cahn is certain to get into the game and ... Pershing may see service before the game ... is over. Schafer is likely to draw the full ... back assignment, since Flood has been ... on the side lines for over two weeks, but ... both are sure to take part in the strug... gle.

Hay Covers Gridiron.

The chances of a dry field were nearly ... spoiled by yesterday's rain, but it is not ... yet too late for a firm footing if the rain ... relents. The field was covered with a ... foot of hay in case a snowstorm hit Chi... cago, but the rain has gone through. The ... ground is in fair condition considering the ... quantity of water which fell yesterday, ... and had not the hay been strewn on the ... gridiron it would now be a sea of mud.

Maroon rooters are hoping that Satur... day will not be a repetition of the weather ... of four years ago, when they had to sit ... through a pouring rain to see Stagg's men ... beat Illinois 24 to 0. Neither team can ... show its open offense on a muddy field, ... but there will be no such inequality as ... the Maroons were up against at Minne... apolis last Saturday when their open at... tack was no match for the Gophers' ... grinding offense on slippery Northrup ... field.

The southeast temporary stands were ... enlarged yesterday, and the seats put on ... sale, together with coupons for a group of ... new boxes placed within the fence. The ... tickets were offered to the students, and ... the supply lasted less than an hour.

The total capacity for the game will be ... about 27,000, the largest number of seats ... and standing room bleachers ever opened ... to a Chicago football crowd.

Illinois Squad Arrives.

Coach Zuppke and his Illinois players ... arrived in town last night from Urbana ... and are quartered at the Chicago Beach ... hotel. They will take a short drill today, ... either on Stagg field in the morning or ... at a suburban golf club.

To make sure he would have plenty of ... reserves Zuppke brought the following ... subs: Ends, Markward and Halas; ... tackles, Graham, Phipps, and Madsen; ... guards, Applegran and McGregor; center, ... Potter; quarter back, Purcell; half backs, ... Klein, Anderson, Connell, Pethybridge, ... and Allen; full back, Nelson.

Rooters to Leave Today.

The invasion of Illinois rooters will ... begin at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, when ... a special train will take upwards of ... 1,000. Tomorrow morning two more spe... cials will be run.

As a preliminary to the football game ... tomorrow members of the Illini club of ... Chicago will invade the Reynolds club at ... the University of Chicago and meet a ... picked Maroon team in a bowling contest. ... Ed Hannan will lead the downstate forces, ... while Capt. Supple will manage the Chi... cagoans.

...HENNING CAPTAIN AT M. A. C.

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 18.—Ralph ... Henning of Bay City was today elected ... captain of the 1916 Michigan Agricultural ... football eleven. Henning played right ... end this year and has been a star for three ... seasons.

Statement by Maroons on Ticket Scalping.

THE athletic department of the University of Chicago is exerting every effort to discover the method by which seats have been allowed to get into the hands of "scalpers."

Until today the complaints referred only to tickets that had been purchased at the open sale at Bartlett gymnasium and at Spaulding's. This morning a telephone communication was received that certain seats for the allotment that had been made to the Wisconsin Alumni club were in the hands of ticket brokers in several of the leading downtown hotels.

This allotment of three hundred seats had been made to one Norman D. Bassett, a clothing dealer in the Republic building and a Wisconsin '14 graduate, who had had active charge of the Wisconsin alumni seats for the Chicago-Wisconsin game. According to the receipt which he signed for these tickets for the Illinois-Chicago game they were "for sale to Wisconsin alumni for the Illinois-Chicago game, Nov. 20, 1915." The department made this allotment in good faith believing that the tickets would be used by the Wisconsin alumni as they had been in the prior game. Investigation discloses that the officers of the Wisconsin Alumni club and several of its prominent members have had no notice of this sale.

In an effort to check up the persons to whom these three hundred seats had been distributed, as is being done by other alumni organizations with the entire coöperation of their officers, Mr. Bassett was asked for his list of purchasers. He stated that he had made such a list but had destroyed it. He admitted that he had sold to others than Wisconsin alumni and that he had used the sale in part as an advertisement for his own business establishment. He further said that in all about sixty different people had bought the seats in bunches of from one to eight tickets, but was unable to recall from memory more than six names of purchasers.

After keeping the investigation of the athletic department waiting for two hours, he professed an extreme pressure of business at 5:30 p. m., and promised to arrange for an appointment by telephone later in the evening at which time the list was to be delivered. The appointment was not kept.

The athletic department regrets that the tickets in this allotment, although made in the best of faith, appear, in part at least, to have been diverted from those persons for whom they were intended.

DAVID S. MERRIAM.

BY EVAN STONE.

Coach Fred Murphy's psychological Northwestern football players will conduct a new experiment in their final game of the season against Ohio State tomorrow. "Win a game" was adopted as the new slogan last night. "We will enter the game with the expectation, not the hope, of winning," said Bob Randolph.

The varsity had a "duck scrimmage" against the freshmen yesterday, playing in the rain on a slippery field. The first year men illustrated Ohio formations, but no downs were called on the players struggling in the wet. Athletic department officials uncovered an Evanston straw famine when they attempted to secure enough to cover the grounds.

Capt. Stromberg, whose case of tonsilitis proved to be a light attack, was on the field and worked with the regulars again. He probably will start at guard tomorrow, Smith being in the center position, which he filled at the beginning of the year. The final football rally will be held on the athletic field this afternoon. Director Omer and Coach Murphy will address the fans, and the Northwestern band will turn out for a massmeeting, the first time since before the Chicago game.

STRONG DEFENSE PLAN OF JUNEAU

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—In a driving rain Coach Bill Juneau this afternoon had his Badgers rehearse all the plays designed for use against the Gophers, and confined the drill to running signals entirely. Contrary to expectations, Juneau did not send his men through scrimmage.

Juneau had rearranged his defense, however, and when it was tried this afternoon with the reserves just lined up the coaches declared themselves as pleased with the result. Tomorrow the workout will be confined to a mere limbering up.

Although heavily covered with hay, Camp Randall will be in a softened condition for Saturday, unless the weather changes. A heavy rain this afternoon has soaked the hay covering, and unless a break comes in the weather the teams will battle on a slippery and slow field.

Announcement has been made that all 11,000 seats already have been sold and that orders remain yet to be filled. Promoters of the Wisconsin home coming anticipate a crowd of at least 15,000.

GOPHERS END PRACTICE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—The University of Minnesota football squad indulged in signal practice and light scrimmage today, danced gleefully about a monster bonfire at the "Burning of the Shoe" ceremony, which signifies the conclusion of the year's toil on the local gridiron, and then departed for Milwaukee, filled with confidence of victory over Wisconsin in the annual battle at Madison on Saturday.

Sportsmen Squad Works in Rain.

In the drizzle yesterday afternoon members of the Sportsmen football team, made up entirely of ex-college and high school players, waded through an hour's scrimmage and signal practice at Grant park in preparation for the game with the Cornell-Hamburgs at the American Giants' park Sunday.

SQUATTER RIGHTS.

POINT BY GOAL AGAIN BOBS UP; SEEK NEW RULE

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

THE TRIBUNE was the first newspaper to start the discussion of abolishment of a goal kick after a touchdown. Others late took up the issue and the point will be one of the proposed alterations for the rules committee to handle at its annual meeting in New York this winter.

The writer has had occasion to meet the best coaches and officials in the country this year and the consensus of opinion is that some legislation should be enacted. When two teams are so evenly matched that a goal kick after a touchdown decides the contest, then it is time the rules should be changed so as to give the blocking team a chance to stop the kick.

Opinions by Experts.

The following are opinions of some of the best known coaches and officials in the country:

DAVE FULTZ, official—In my opinion the blocking team has not a chance to block the kick. The only way to equalize the situation is to abolish the punt-out and make the scoring team kick its goal from the point parallel to the side line at which the player crossed the goal line. If this rule is adopted the blocking team will have a better chance to stop the kick and in general equalize the situation.

BILL LANGFORD, official—In my ten years of experience as an official and player I think the punt-out after a touchdown should be done away with. If a team scores a touchdown the goal should be kicked from a point parallel to the side line where the touchdown was made. I strongly favor the blocking team being set back ten yards from the point where the ball is kicked, the same as a fair catch in the field of play.

COACH YOST of Michigan—I have always believed in goals after touchdowns, but because of the games which have been won this year by the narrow margin of one point I think the kick should either be abolished or a rule adopted giving the blocking team a chance to block.

DR. SHARPE of Cornell—I have never believed in a field goal after a touchdown. As a player and coach, it always has seemed unjust to win a game by a goal kick. When I was at Yale we lost several games because of the failure of a kicker to boot the ball between the posts after a touchdown. I agree with Dave Fultz that if the goal kick is to be retained the attempt should be made from a point parallel to the side line from the point where the ball crossed the side line.

COACH ZUPPKE of Illinois—I am strongly in favor of the kick after a touchdown, but I believe the blocking team should be given a better chance to stop the ball. This can be done by placing the blocking team ten yards back of the point from which the kick is to be made.

Regarding Free Kick.

Another rule which will be brought to the attention of the rules committee is in regard to a free ball being kicked over the goal line. The supposition is as follows:

A team in possession of the ball attempts a field goal. The ball is partially blocked, but goes over the goal line. A member of the kicker's side attempts to fall on the ball, but in the endeavor he is pulled away by a member of the defensive side. The ball is practically in the grasp of the kicker's side player, but if one of the defending team recovers the ball, then it is a hard matter to rule. The point came up previous to the Michigan-Pennsylvania game, and Coaches Yost and Brooke agreed to decline the penalty and award the kicker's side a touchdown.

"PREP" PLAYER DIES FROM INJURY IN FOOTBALL GAME.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Harry McGrath, 14 years old, a high school student, died at St. Vincent's hospital today as the result of an injury received in a football game one week ago. McGrath received a blow over the heart that resulted in valvular trouble, the hospital physicians said. Five years ago his brother died as a result of a similar accident.

PREP GAME AT GIANTS' PARK

Englewood and Crane High school elevens will battle for the Chicago High School league championship at the American Giants park on Saturday at 2 o'clock. The managers arranged for the park and starting time at a meeting yesterday. Englewood probably will go to St. Louis to battle the McKinley High school team on Dec. 4. Arrangements were practically completed yesterday, although there are two points which have not been agreed to definitely.

SCHURZ TO PLAY ENGLEWOOD

Schurz and Englewood, winners respectively in the northern and southern divisions of the Chicago High School Soccer league, have arranged to play their match for the league championship tomorrow afternoon at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue at 2:30 o'clock.

St. Ignatius Cads Win, 22-0.

St. Ignatius academy, in preparation for its Thanksgiving day game with De Paul academy, defeated the Loyola university freshmen, 22 to 0, at Douglas park yesterday. At half time the prep eleven led, 14 to 0. Coach Pliska's youngsters used the forward pass for large gains.

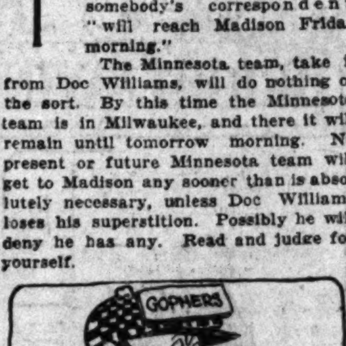

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

THE MINNESOTA BEST.

"THE Minnesota team," wires somebody's correspondent, "will reach Madison Friday morning."

The Minnesota team, take it from Doc Williams, will do nothing of the sort. By this time the Minnesota team is in Milwaukee, and there it will remain until tomorrow morning. No present or future Minnesota team will get to Madison any sooner than is absolutely necessary, unless Doc Williams loses his superstition. Possibly he will deny he has any. Read and judge for yourself.

This year's Minnesota team is a whale. The team of 1903 was another. The team of 1906 was another. The team of 1909 (or was it 1910?) was another. These teams were all champions or close to it.

But the best team Minnesota ever had, according to its coach, was a team that Wisconsin licked, 19 to 0, because the Minnesota team reached Madison before it had to.

* *

Doc Williams, when he was talking about it, could not recall the year nor the names of his players. He only knew that his line was all that a line should be and that he had the strongest and most versatile back field that ever sported the maroon and gold.

Well, the team reached Madison on Friday. The supply of hotel accommodations in that metropolis is, as everybody knows, unequal to the demand—that is, on days before big football games. The Gophers, big husks most of them, were packed like sardines in a box, to use a brand new one. Nor could they get what they wanted to eat at the time they wanted to eat it.

Saturday dawned cloudy and cold, and it can get cold in Madison. The Minnesota players poked their handsome noses out of doors, and withdrew them quickly. They spent the forenoon in the hotel, among the, figuratively speaking, bugs.

* *

In those days, whenever those days were, taxis and jitney busses were as scarce in Madison as banana vineyards. Doc Williams, being manager as well as coach, engaged two carryalls and a hack to take his men and himself to the yard. The first carryall, containing about half the squad, reached its destination without mishap. The coach and his assistants rode in the hack, and it broke down. So did the other carryall, containing the rest of the players.

The first crowd of athletes to arrive were shown to their dressing room, which was just an open work shack under the stand that housed the Wisconsin rooters. These men were thoroughly frozen before their comrades arrived. By the time the Doc got there everybody was stiff with cold, and it was five minutes before the hour for starting.

Doc Williams tried to arouse his pupils with a peppery speech. But the crowd above was yelling its lungs out and he couldn't make his voice heard. He gave up the attempt and sent his men on to the gridiron. As they wabbled out they noticed a tent on a corner of the field, near the goal posts. The tent boasted a chimney, from which belched forth black smoke, indicating that all was cozy inside. The tent was the Wisconsin team's clubhouse.

Well, the Gophers had been on the ground over ten minutes, getting colder all the time, before the Wisconsin bunch trotted out of the warm tent. The chill air, which had become unbearable to the Minnesotans, put gimp into the Badgers.

The game started, but the Gophers did not. Wisconsin went up and down the field as if it were signal practice. Before Minnesota knew that it was in a football game the score was 19 to 0 in the Cardinal's favor.

Then Minnesota began to thaw out and brace, and before the half ended Williams' men were holding the foe about even.

Between halves the Gophers froze up all over again. Doc Williams tried to keep them alive by shouting individual speeches in their ears, and his words were so effective that the play in the second portion was 50-50, with neither side scoring.

This team, mind you, was Minnesta's best. And it was trimmed, 19 to 0.

There are jitneys in Madison now, and if you write in early enough you can get comfortable accommodations for two football squads. Also there's more than a barn to dress in at the field. But there's no use telling it to Doc Williams. Plenty is ample, says he.

HARVARD FINISHES PRACTICE FOR YALE; MAHAN CALLED 'PRO'

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—With Coach Haughton kicking a field goal from the forty yard line, Harvard closed its final home practice of the year, 2,000 students being on hand to give the team the right kind of a reception.

The squad immediately afterwards was taken to the Vesper Country club, outside of Lowell, where it will stay until a few hours before the contest with Yale. In the meantime the Elis strolled into town and established quarters at the Woodland Park hotel, Auburndale. The Blue will come to the stadium in the morning for an hour's light work in order to "acclimate" themselves to the weird winds in the big horseshoe.

Reports from New Haven today declared that Yale authorities have proof that Capt. Mahan and Tom Enwright received money as instructors in athletics in a boys' vacation camp in the White mountains. Mahan indignantly denied this, as did Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of the Harvard Athletic association.

Mahan was a counselor at the Roxbury tutoring school in New London last summer, an institution which is backed and owned by a Yale man. It was the same kind of a job as Capt. Wilson of Yale had in the same institution. The nature of the employment was not that of athletic coach in any sense of the word.

The Worcester Telegram declares Enwright, who has been declared ineligible, played baseball in 1913 under an assumed name on a Worcester semi-pro team. The facts in the case are expected to be laid before the Harvard authorities shortly.

AT THE BILLIARD ROOMS.

E. Sullivan defeated F. Kennedy, 50 to 38, in the three cushion tournament at Brown's.

In the tournament at the Period room, Lawrie defeated Harkness, 55 to 45, and Ellison defeated Crawford, 65 to 62.

In the opening game of the three cushion tournament at the Dearborn room, Wendell [25] defeated Marr [18], 25 to 13. Shay and Strong tonight.

Bernstein and Hayward [40] defeated Roberts and Schiff [50], 40 to 34, in the three cushion tournament at Mussey's in eighty-one innings. Tonight Leonard and Berg will play Juul and Hicks.

Possibility of another three corner tie in the pocket billiard tournament at the Fort Dearborn rooms was made possible when Tom Burns defeated Major White, 100 to 99. Burns and Grauman tonight.

Shea defeated Carnie [32], 40 to 29, in the three cushion tournament at Bensinger's. Thomson, Woodward, Chadwick, and Emmerling finished in the order named in the rapid fire tourney.

DERNBACH AVERAGES 235 FOR HIGH MARK; SWANSON ROLLS 234

George Dernbach came within one strike of beating the season's record for high individual series last night when the blonde expert of the Americus club shot 235 1-3 in the Knights of Columbus league. Young Dernbach had his strike ball greased in the last game, where he rolled 267. He had 213 and 226 for his other games. His club averaged 999 2-3, a lone pin stopping it from four figures.

Another gallant attempt to lower Bill Brennan's 236 2-3 mark came up in the North Chicago, where Gilbert Swanson shot 233 2-3 for Marx Bros., with a 279 game at the windup, on top of 200 and 222. His team averaged 961 and won the odd from the Florists. Pete Rothermel banged out 228 1-3 for the Bucketts in Berger's league. Scores:

COCHRAN TRIMS GEORGE SUTTON IN CUE BATTLE

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Welker Cochran and George Slosson were winners in the matches of the 18-2 balk line billiard tournament in the New York theater concert hall. Cochran defeated George Sutton in the night game, 500 to 415, while in the afternoon Slosson won, 500 to 454.

Sutton gave Cochran a 100 point handicap, which proved too much for the veteran. Slosson allowed Mayer 50 points, but came through with flying colors. He played in the best form he has shown in the tournament.

Cochran Misses Chances.

Cachran showed a good knowledge of billiards at times during his match with Sutton, but was inclined to be careless and so threw away several chances to make good runs. Slosson and Yamada will play tomorrow afternoon, and in the evening Hoppe will play Mayer. Score:

COCHRAN [200]—7 18 0 0 0 6 3 2 28 6 4 0 6 1 0 8 3 32 0 2 0 0 0 0 6 8 4 0 6 1 0 8 3 22 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 6 1 15—300. Grand total, 500. High runs, 67, 28, 24; average, 7 16-42.

Slosson Beats Mayer.

George F. Slosson, the veteran in the balk line game, defeated Joseph Mayer, former amateur champion, in the afternoon match, 375 to 279. Both players were out of stroke, and the contest was the most uninteresting that has been played in the tournament thus far. Slosson won because Mayer failed to take advantage of many chances. Score:

All we say is this—make sure your steady cigarette is sensible, whether it is Fatima or some other one.

Is it cool and friendly to your throat and tongue? Does it leave you feeling O.K. after a long day of smoking?

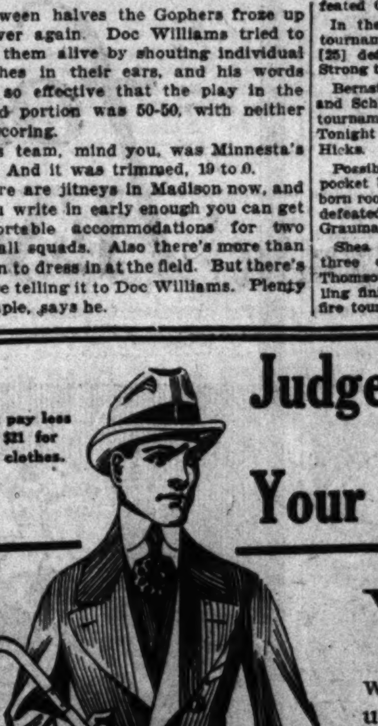

Fatimas certainly make good on these two points.

The only question is—will they just suit your individual taste? They may or they may not. But it seems reasonable that they should, for they outsell any other cigarette costing over 5c.

So you ought to try them. Do that today.

BY KITTY KELLY.

"DAMAGED Goods," which has held forth at the La Salle for one week, is to continue there another. It is Richard Bennett's adaptation into film form of the play of Brieux concerning the taint of loose living, which he struggled so to get a hearing on the stage. For a long time it has been kept in the Mutual's strong chest—it was made about a year ago—and in these parts it has done considerable lingering awaiting censorial approval and exhibitorial opportunity—it had a showing to an invited audience at the Ziegfeld on Oct. 8—but now it is on full blast.

In the first place it may honestly be said that the American film company did its worst for it—and how bad the worst is is surprising, for the company's general standard is so high. In settings, photography, acting, and general manner, the picture is matter for sadness. A lot of that may not be due so much to the film company, as to the fact that Mr. Bennett was busied with the production, and that he and his players, unused to the camera, filled most of the rôles. Somebody ought to have been around, though, to have laid a restraining arm on the setter of scenes, and the actor surely had nothing to do with the camera man.

And next, it must be said, that in spite of all the pathos of the production—of the unintentional variety—the picture is interesting. Out of its crudity and its absurdity, the story proceeds in an interest compelling fashion.

None of these players can be applauded for their pictured art; Mr. Bennett poses, Mrs. Bennett knows the camera is right there all of the time, and the doctor is distinguished mainly for his conventional silk hat. But it isn't so much a matter of individuals; it is a matter of purpose, and this accomplishes more, with less distasteful display than have any other of the reformative purpose films which have flourished.

There are some painful hospital scenes, but they are blessedly short—and one doesn't need to look at them—and there are many situations which might have been much worse than they were.

A surprising lot of impressions are conveyed by simple suggestion, that makes clear but is not, salaciously suggestive. In fact, the picture is for the most part as grimly aseptic as a well dressed wound. It is raw, but it is clean.

Most of the scenes do some "showing up," though a good bit of the college roistering might be left out, and some of the incidents connected with the little seamstress are quite too funny to permit the pathos of true love torn up, to have an inning. Heroes don't let their mothers drag them away from picnics with their sweethearts and the sweethearts' little brothers, as if they were small boys playing hookey. When people are grown up such discipline is more subtly managed.

But from the point of the wedding and the advent of the disease hampered baby, the story moves on compactly to a poetically dramatic finish.

Perhaps it won't make anybody better; people who need reform aren't so often the kind who go around to see reform pictures. But it may make people be careful. This drama of disaster, brought about by ignorance and carelessness, may lead girls to think more carefully of their suitors, may lead men to just a little more honorable consideration for the welfare of the girls they are going to marry. Of course that is problematical consideration, but that is Mr. Bennett's aim with his picture, and the fact is that it reaches more people than the play ever could, and that the people appear to be seriously interested in its unreeling.

It is to be regretted that it is no better a piece of workmanship than it is, for in spite of its pictorial shortcomings, it will probably have a wide circulation and it might have been much more efficient in its purpose had it been more artistic in its manner.

It's In Again.

If ever a city had a bone of contention in its midst that city is Chicago, and the bone, "The Birth of a Nation." The photoplay is in the courts again.

After the thousands and thousands of grownups had seen the show, opinion began to stir about that the "pink slip" proposition was unfair and that the age bar should be let down. Accordingly the sponsors—alert to opinion—on Monday filed a mandamus to compel the city to give a full permit.

The case was assigned to Judge Fenimore Cooper, who on June 5 gave the memorable decision sanctioning the picture's showing. Then the fat was in the fire. This is the way it sizzles, according to George Bowles, manager of the Colonial. The city objected, claiming Judge Cooper was prejudiced. Judge Cooper refused to withdraw, declaring that such a charge would have to go on record. Maj. Funkhouser thereupon went to the unusual length, as representing a city, of accusing another city representative of being not fit to act because prejudiced, and so it stands on the records.

Then the corporation counsel selected five judges, Republican, none of whom found favor with the firm's lawyers, and they selected five judges, Democratic, none of whom found favor with the city.

The matter was referred to Chief Justice Brentano, who nominated Judge Fitch, Democrat, and exception was taken to him by the city, whereupon, in the face of the objection, he refused to act.

At present it is in the hands of Judge Marcus Kavanagh, but the film forces have not availed themselves of the privilege of change of venue yet, so there is no telling just when and where the end will be.

At any rate, in Mr. Bowles' opinion, the city is making the situation as difficult as it was in the June fraças.

He Tells 'Em How.

S. L. Rothapfel, who is on a talking tour from Portland, Ore., back to New York, striking twenty-seven cities, under the auspices of the Mutual company, was banqueted at the Hotel Sherman last night. He is sent out as the sample of a successful exhibiter, and in each city he tells the assembled exhibiters how this exhibiting business ought to be conducted.

Cold Weather Hints.

Antoinette Donnelly

BEFORE going out into the cold air massage the nose gently with a little astringent lotion, then wipe the skin dry and powder lightly. To make an astringent lotion, take three ounces of elderflower water, seventy-five drops of simple tincture of benzoin, and five drops of tincture of myrrh. Mix the benzoin with elderflower water, adding the former drop by drop and shaking after every few drops. Then add the myrrh; shake well, and keep tightly corked.

Chapped and blackened lips are more detrimental to a woman's appearance than anything else, and can easily be prevented. Before going out smear the lips with pure glycerin. If a few grains of pure carmine are dissolved in the glycerin it will not show on the lips. It should be kept in a small bottle, and can then be applied to the lips with the little cork. If this is done daily the lips will remain soft and smooth, no matter what the weather.

Fashions from London

A deep amber chiffon velvet with a touch of embroidery at the neck and waist. Sleeves and underskirt are of amber georgette crepe.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Georgette crêpe is fast assuming a universal popularity, partly no doubt from its prettiness and partly from its serviceability. In the first place confined to waists, it is now being made up into whole dresses, into delightful frilly negligees, and even into infinitely beruffled petticoats.

Here a dress of supplest chiffon velvet has the sleeves and the underskirt of fine Georgette crêpe, while the trimmings, of the simplest, are nevertheless extremely effective. They consist merely of tiny fur bandings and a touch of colored embroidery at the neck and the waist.

The overskirt, which may seem in style a leftover from last season, is brought strictly up to date through its excessively gathered fullness.

Real Love Stories

Married Eight Years Later.

TRAVELING back and forth from town to city, day in and day out, a brakeman made the acquaintance of a little country girl, perhaps about the age of 5. Each day she waited for her "big man from the city" and would give him a bunch of field flowers, receiving in return some sweetmeats.

Like many a foolish lover, this brakeman, in telling his city sweetheart of these adventures, exaggerated his story, making the child of 5 a young girl of 18, and teasingly talked about her daily watching. Jealousy is the natural result of such procedures and, feeling slighted, the city sweetheart, whom he really loved, left the city, broken hearted. Letters and explanations were not sufficient to bring her back. Then followed days of brooding and repentance for both, till a wonderful day eight years later the broken-hearted girl was invited to her country cousin's home to attend a farewell party, for the little country girl was to be taken to South America.

Another invitation was sent to the lonesome brakeman. The above mentioned country cousin proved to be the same little girl who for years had waited at the little station each day to welcome her "big man from the city." The wonderful day dawned, bringing the lovers from the east and west to this lonesome spot in the country.

The result? Before "Cupid," as she was thereafter called, left for South America she had the privilege of seeing her "city cousin" and her "big man from the city" happily married. MRS. M. B.

BEFORE AND AFTER TAKING.

BRIGHT SAYINGS of CHILDREN

My nephew was assisting his baby brother in walking. His mother called to him to be careful about getting near the stove and he said, "Don't you worry, mamma. I know how to regulate him." G. A. P.

One evening my husband had to work late, which did not happen very often. His expected time home had passed over an hour and my son, 13 years of age, and myself began to worry as to what had happened. When it got to be about 10 o'clock, I was nearly frantic. My little girl of 4 years was still up and was romping and playing around the kitchen much to the disgust of her older brother. Finally he said, "Look, mamma, Lucille doesn't worry about papa at all." At that the little one said, "I do too worry, but I am worryin' in my mind." MRS. E. C.

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The stories may be sent in either by children or their parents. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

In visiting my 4 year old niece one day I found her in great distress over a neighbor boy's pet dog that was about to have its tail clipped off, and, after trying to console her about the loss, she said: "Well, I guess he will just wag one of his legs then." M. M.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

EDITED BY JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

Egg Plant Economy.

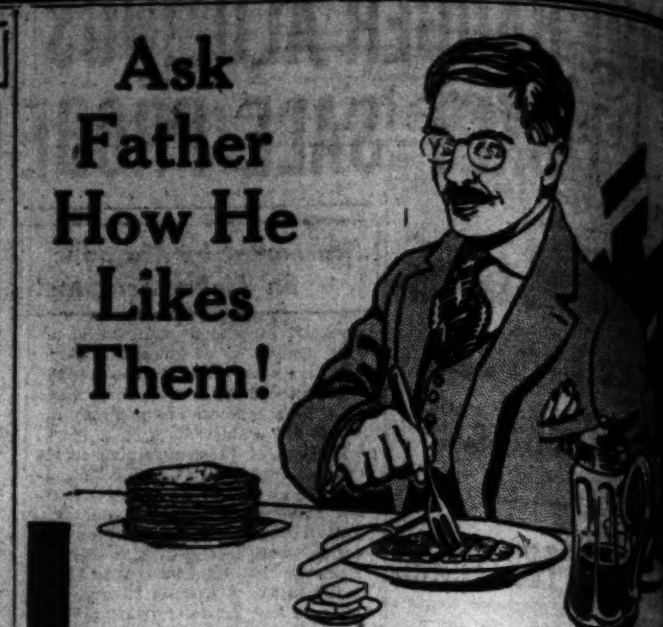

THE tomato is the least itself when it is dried out in cooking, whether it is baked or fried. The same thing is true of its near relative, the eggplant. Plain, stewed eggplant, well seasoned with butter, salt and pepper if you use it, is as much more savory than fried eggplant as stewed tomato is than stuffed and dried up tomato. Yet people have not seen that eggplant treated just like summer squash, has more flavor than that vegetable and does not lose what it has so rapidly and is as quickly prepared by stewing. They have fried or stuffed this lightly flavored vegetable, almost destroying its true quality.

Mrs. Rorer calls it tasteless fried, and one of her methods of preparing it is to cut it into slices and then into small pieces; drop it into boiling salted water flavored with onion, cover to cook quickly, drain, season one medium eggplant with two tablespoons of butter, salt, and a dash of pepper, mash, mix with half a cup of bread crumbs, turn into a baking dish, cover with buttered squares of bread, and bake in oven, hot, until a golden brown.

Stewed Egg Plant.

Wash, peel, slice, and cut into small cubes one medium eggplant. Drop into boiling salted water in which has been cooking for ten minutes one sliced onion and some bits of celery. Cover and cook fifteen minutes or twenty if it seems necessary. Drain and dry over fire with a generous amount of butter, four tablespoons will make it savory, add salt and pepper if you want to.

SOCIETY and Entertainments

Society Does Like to Be Thought Wise.

BY CINDERELLA.

Isn't it odd how many lecture courses people subscribe to? Especially in fashionable houses. A woman came out here from the east to live once and her earliest impressions of Chicago were very vivid.

She said all the nice women seemed to be rushing around with little notebooks under their arms, making notes. At one luncheon her next neighbors kindly told her all that they had been learning during the morning at lectures, so she was very much edified, and came to the conclusion that there were no villagers in Chicago.

A woman was encountered the other day who listened to two hundred lectures last winter, and thought she had been having a superb time. Many of the lectures were academic and she seemed to remember all about all of them, and wanted to impart her knowledge—that is, if she saw you first.

The Chicago Equal Suffrage association covered itself with glory the other afternoon when Frederick Howe, New York commissioner of immigration, lectured on his specialty in Mrs. John Lyon's house in Lincoln parkway. His talk was a great success, being timely and picturesque.

He called himself "a gilded porter at the gates of New York," where most immigrants enter, and stated the the immigration question was the main problem of Chicago, where three-fourths of the population is foreign, or of foreign parentage.

Mr. Howe has a keen sense of humor, and he got his audience in good mood by reading a few letters from foreigners who regarded him as a matrimonial agency.

One man, who said he was only 69, wanted a bride not a day over 40 and well set with her own hair and teeth, and an elderly women was somewhat particular too—she wanted the commissioner to find her a young husband "this time."

It seems he went into battle last year in France with a regiment of sixteen hundred men. The action began at 4 o'clock. At fifteen minutes after four there were left two men with both legs and all—himself and Bobby Burns.

Mr. Howe presented the three sides of the immigrant question, their protection, education, and assimilation.

He said that the cities which grappled best with these questions were Los Angeles and Detroit, and praised the cities which made it possible for naturalization papers to be taken out at night.

Heavy immigration is caused by feudal ownership, the largest being from Ireland, Scotland, and parts of Russia.

Miss Cornelia Conger did the honors of the afternoon, being a director in the C. E. S. A., also a granddaughter of Mrs. Lyon.

Society Notes.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour will leave Excelsior Springs, Mo., in her private car, Walworth, and arrive on Sunday morning. She has been spending several weeks in Excelsior Springs recovering from an illness.

One of the large and interesting groups which will play an important part in the brilliant pageant at the opening of the Spanish ball for the Lying-In hospital on Friday evening, Dec. 17, will be that of Mrs. Frank C. Letts and Mrs. Howard Elting. Those participating in this group will be Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Haines, Mr. and Mrs. George Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Elting, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Oren Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Carry, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Letts, Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Mrs. Philip Elting, Miss Marie Rozet, Miss Virginia Pope, Miss Elsie McCormick, Miss Caroline Kirkland, Miss Gwendolyn Foulke, Mrs. Howard Elting, George McKinlock, Eames MacVeagh, Hugh Blythe, Garrard Winston, William Gamble, Charles Ridgley, and Colin Fyfe.

The group will represent a band of wandering gypsies and promises to be picturesque.

The opening of the charity ball season will be marked by the gathering of society folk at the annual ball tonight at the Congress hotel for the benefit of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children.

MISS HELEN CONOVER.

MISS HELEN CONOVER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther W. Conover of 5142 Ellis avenue, is a member of the junior auxiliary of the board of directors of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children, which will give its annual charity ball tonight at the Congress hotel.

Miss Kate Fowler to Give Dance.

ON Wednesday, Dec. 15, Miss Kate Fowler, who is spending the winter at the Blackstone, will give a dance. Her cousin, Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, will receive with her. Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Jr. will arrive from their home in Wichita, Kas., on Dec. 13, to spend the holidays with their parents.

Invitations have been issued to the sons and daughters of the Parents' league for a lecture which is to be given by Horace W. Taft, head of the Taft school, at the home of Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick of 675 Rush street. Afterwards there will be a tea-dance for the young people.

On Friday, Dec. 3, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe of 33 Bellevue place will give a supper-dance in the ballroom and art hall of the Blackstone.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Jones of 5212 University avenue, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Thomas, have gone to Boston to attend the Yale-Harvard football game. They will spend Thanksgiving in New Haven with their son, Arthur R. Jones II., and will attend the Army-Navy game in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick B. Rawcliffe, whose marriage took place Sept. 29, have returned from their wedding trip and will be at "Louella terrace," Elkins Park, Pa., after Dec. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Harris of 4250 Drexel boulevard have just closed their country home, Wadsworth hall, at Lake Geneva, Wis., and will not open their town house this season. They will make quite a stay at the Blackstone hotel before going to southern California for the winter.

The marriage of Miss Lillian Garvy, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Garvy of 4213 Sheridan road, to Mr. Walter J. Cummings will be celebrated Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, Nov. 27, at St. Mary's of the Lake church. The Rev. A. J. Garvy, S. J., a brother of the bride, will officiate, and Mrs. Alfred E. Walsh of Davenport, Ia., a sister of the bride, will be matron of honor. Mr. John J. Cummings will serve his brother as best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast will be given at the Blackstone hotel for the immediate members of the families.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance, an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.—Advertisement.

MUSIC AND THE MUSICIANS

Flonzaleys at the Fine Arts.

STRAWINSKY'S three pieces for string quartet caused the Flonzaley quartet's audience some delightful anguish at the Fine Arts theater yesterday afternoon, for they are as to Schoenberg's sextet as that sextet is to a Mozart Divertimento, speaking in hyperbole.

At any rate, the return of this splendid chamber music organization was signalized by the presentation of this novelty, by the playing of the prelude and fugue from the G major suite for violin alone by Alfred Ponchon, and by finished interpretations of the Haydn D minor and the Beethoven A major (op. 18, No. 5) quartets.

The Strawinsky pieces give much the same impression as his "Fireworks," a novelty of the last orchestral season. Their skeletons seem to be rather frail for the amount of decoration they carry about. These bits, too, are merely fragments, of no relation to each other by design or logic. Harmonic rather than contrapuntal, a mannerist's toys rather than the fruits of deep scholarship, they tantalize the connoisseur instead of demanding his obeisance.

The first piece is a repetition of a harmonic design rather than a motif; the second may be described as an experiment in technical tricks; the third, more solid of subject matter, finds its base in sustained double stops.

The quartet received the warm commendation for its enterprise in bringing out these significant novelties, and its performance was worthy of the Flonzaley ideals—which is compliment enough.

Mr. Ponchon's interpretation of the Bach number stirred the inveterates in their assumed lethargy, for it was dignified by breadth of conception, straightforward playing, and an heroic mood. The "working up" of the fugue was especially noteworthy.

The Haydn quartet hinted at the change which has taken place in the quartet's method during the last season or two. It is for broader style and more vivid expression. The Beethoven quartet, likewise, received a beautiful interpretation, the andante cantabile especially being surpassingly lovely.

Spanish War Veterans Organize.

Twenty-seven veterans of the Spanish-American war, living in Oak Park and adjacent suburbs, met last night in Scoville institute and formed the Oak Park Camp of the United Spanish War Veterans. An election of officers was held and plans were made to apply for a charter and admission into the order of United Spanish War Veterans. The officers are:

Chairman—C. G. Avery.
Clerk—Frederick H. Bowen.
Treasurer—L. K. Magrath.

Bazaar at Lexington Hotel.

The annual Christmas bazaar for the benefit of the Frances Juvenile Home association will be held at the Lexington hotel today and tomorrow.

MISS ETHEL GOODNOW

MISS ETHEL GOODNOW, daughter of Judge Charles N. Goodnow, will be one of the flower girls at the charity ball tomorrow night at the First Regiment armory for the benefit of the American Theatrical Hospital association. Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Metro stars, are expected to lead the grand march.

Bazaar Aids Norwegian Old Folks' Home.

The Norwegian Old People's Home's twentieth annual bazaar will close tonight at Schoenhofen's hall, Milwaukee and Ashland avenues.

A feature of the bazaar is the Old People's booth, where the residents of the home, which is located at Norwood Park, are selling embroideries, quilts, and knitted work of all kinds which they have made themselves. Some of the old ladies are experts at embroidering and crocheting.

The home is one of the largest institutions of its kind in the United States. There are 101 residents, ninety-one of whom are of Norwegian birth or descent and eleven of Swedish birth or descent.

Assisting Women in the Care of Their Property

There is no good reason why women left with property should be burdened with its care, when for a moderate fee they can employ a Trust Company to manage it for them.

This Company's service includes the investing of money, caring for property, collecting income, keeping accounts, all of which is more effectively done by its specialized departments than by the average individual agent or trustee.

Women of property will find valuable information in a little booklet entitled "Assisting Women in the Care of Their Property," published by this company and given to anyone interested on request.

Mexican Ignorant? No; Just a Joker.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

THE Mexican is a joker rather than an ignorant stupid, according to Bishop Francis J. McConnell of Denver, Colo., who is in charge of the missions of the Methodist Episcopal church in Mexico. Bishop McConnell spoke last evening at the banquet of the Chicago Methodist Social union at the Hotel La Salle.

"To illustrate the stupidity of the Mexicans it is told in the United States," said Bishop McConnell, "that in elections they pay no attention to candidates. They vote for the most popular bull fighter, for themselves, or for one of the church saints.

"This is not because of their ignorance but because they regard voting as a joke. It doesn't make any difference who votes, it's all a question who counts the ballot. Diaz was elected unanimously five times. Every one knows this would be an impossibility if a fair ballot were allowed.

"Questions of legislation depend on who has the largest army. In this country if a man goes into politics he expects to be vilified. In Mexico he takes the risk of being killed.

"The one trouble with Mexico is absentee landlordism. President Wilson is to be commended for having convinced the Mexicans more than all other persons before him had done that the United States does not intend to annex Mexico.

"The United States may have to intervene in Mexico, but it would mean guerrilla warfare. It may take the Mexicans twenty-five or a hundred years to secure a really stable government, but they probably will have to go through the period of misrule before they will learn the lesson of self-government. The only ultimate hope lies in Christianity and education."

Chinese Woman Doctor to Speak.

Dr. Mary Stone, a Chinese woman physician who has come to the United States under the Rockefeller foundation to study American hospitals and to take a course in the Johns Hopkins University Medical school at Baltimore, spoke yesterday at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston, and at 8 o'clock at St. James' Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago, Ellis avenue and Forty-sixth street.

This morning at 9 o'clock she will speak at the Chicago Training school, Indiana avenue and Fiftieth street.

"Most Popular Girl in Chicago."

Everybody who was at the bazaar of the Chicago branches of the Woman's Democratic league, held Wednesday night and last night at the Auditorium hotel, paid a penny for the privilege to vote for the "most popular girl in Chicago." Each ward branch nominated one candidate. The winner was Miss Anastasia Power, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Power, president of the Fourth ward branch.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND

by Marion Harland

Lye Water for Bedbugs.

"I WILL tell you how I got rid of bedbugs with strong lye water. I scalded the bedsteads and used tincture of larkspur on the mattress with a sewing machine oiler. This surely kills all eggs and nits. One must get rid of the pesky things! I wish some one would tell me how to make the filling for cheese pie. I have tried hard to get it, but have failed. M. J. F."

It will not be the fault of the Corner if there is a "red rover" left in these United States to tell the sad fate of his comrades to the generations following. We have yet another "sure" preventive against their inroads, for which we thank the member who supplies it. Of course you know that lye will take off varnish and care should be used that none of it gets on the hands. Unless you mean cheese cakes or transparent pudding, I cannot meet your wishes in the matter of the filling for cheese pie. A friend, reading your note, is sure you mean cheese pie, and says there is such a delicacy. Issue calls for both cheese cake and cheese pie, expecting to be doubly enriched by contributors in response to each demand.

Camera and Pair of Skates.

"I come to the Corner for help. My oldest daughter longs for a small camera, while the girl of 8 wants a pair of roller skates so much! My circumstances are such that I cannot buy them. Should any reader know of a camera and pair of skates that are no longer cared for the donor would surely make two little hearts happy. MRS. W. D. M."

Mother love is the same the whole world around—even self-forgetful, and even sinking pride in the desire to make the children happy. We have yet another illustration of it in this communication from a member who tells her story simply and well. Send for her address while weeding libraries and putting up books for parcel post.

Request for Shorthand Books.

"I read in your Corner that a lady will give shorthand books to any one who wishes them. Please forward my name and address to this person. MRS. F. M."

I wish you had given us the signature attached to the offer. We have had several shorthand books tendered us within a few months, all of which have found grateful owners. I have no doubt those put at our disposal by your "lady" went the way of the rest. Our stenographers are a generous guild. Can we secure a shorthand manual for our member?

OBITUARY.

HENRY A. PEEBLES, aged 60 years, freight agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad at the Deerwood station for fifteen years, died at the Robert Burns hospital yesterday. He entered the employment of the road thirty-five years ago. Mr. Peebles was a brother of Mrs. Albert J. Earling, wife of the president of the St. Paul railroad. He is survived by a widow and two daughters—Mrs. H. L. Ahls and Vera M. Peebles.

THE REV. FATHER WILLIAM HENRY IRONSIDES REANEY, chaplain in the United States navy, who was with Admiral Dewey in the battle of Manila bay, died in a New York hospital last night of acute stomach trouble. Father Reaney held the rank of captain, the highest obtainable by a navy chaplain.

This New Store for Boys

Appeals to Boys Just as Much as to Their Mothers and Their Dads

WE know why dad has a knowing smile when he's told that son picked out this store—it's because he knows he won't have to buy more clothes soon again.

We know why mother's pleased—because here in this Store for Boys she finds everything handy and an utter absence of anything not up to her idea of quality and good taste.

And we really know why son himself picked out this store—because we know boys, like them, study their preferences, and offer in these

Great New Stocks of Boys' Clothing
Great New Stocks of Boys' Shirts and Haberdashery

the kind of clothes that reflect the real sunny, cheery, bright and vigorous spirit of youth itself.

And of the Following, Know That Special Emphasis May Be Placed on the Values Offered Today—

Boys' Warm Winter Overcoats, $12.75.

They are of tweeds, in browns, greens and grays, with wool plaid linings and satin yokes and sleeves. They are all double breasted with convertible collars and in sizes from 10 to 17 years. $12.75.

Boys' Mackinaw Sports Coats at $5.50

All-wool mackinaw plaids in colorful patterns which we had made up into sports coats for boys the way we knew boys would like them—with large shawl collars and deep patch pockets, in sizes 10 to 17 years. $5.50.

A Special Sale of Boys' Wool Sweater Coats at $2.95

They are of all-wool worsted in Jumbo, Cardigan and Shaker-knit effects and in practically all the wanted colors and in medium and heavy weights—with shawl and Byron collars—in sizes 26 to 34 inch chest measurement. $2.95.

Second Floor, South Room.

The "Sympathetic Touch" Enhances the Charm of These

Delightful Party Frocks for Misses

It is the touch that is in perfect "sympathy" with the particular needs of youth—the touch that places a frill, a flower, so slight a thing as a ribbon, in just the happiest way to translate a reigning mode into the radiant terms of youth.

And it is in evidence throughout these assortments of new frocks represented by

Dance Frocks of Silk Net Over Pleated Chiffon, $27.50

It is so fascinatingly pretty girls will be glad to know it is but one of many frocks at this price. The broad girdle is of taffeta embroidered in gold, and a gold flower holds the drapery of the skirt. Sketched at the left, $27.50.

Party Frocks of Georgette Crepe and Silvered Lace, $35

The charm of this frock lies in the odd little jacket, a bit Spanish in outline, in the silver thread woven into the silk lace. The soft crepe is pleated to form the skirt, and the frock offers two beautiful tints of pink and blue. At right. $35.

Fur-Clad Fashions in Misses' Coats

Still Hold Sway as the Smartest

At $22.50—a swagger coat of novelty mixture, with a "chin" collar of fur—ideal for the revived sport of skating. Pictured here at the right, and one of many at this price.

Fourth Floor, South Room.

Prettiest of Party Frocks for Girls

Afternoon Frocks and Winter Coats as Smart

At $8.75—Afternoon Frocks of Corduroy, Blue or Brown

At $13.75—Party Frocks of Pastel-Tinted Taffetas

Splendid New Coats for Girls at $7.75 and $12.75

Fourth Floor, South Room.

It has embroidery of gold on girdle and cuffs, a high collar and vestee of Georgette crepe. Shown in tunic effect, in navy and black. Specially priced at $25

Dress of Crepe-de-Met'or & Georgette

Blouse Special at $5.50

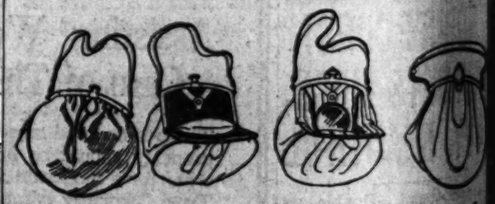

BEAUTIFUL—fetching—are these blouses of drawn work crepe de chine. With vestees and cuffs of contrasting colored silks in all the pastel shades at $5.50.

Since delivery of gifts selected now can be made at any time we advise shopping early.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY
The Store of the Christmas Spirit

New Fine Leather Hand Bags at $5.00

The leathers are pin seal and fine long grain seal in black and colors. Linings are of fancy silk; fitted with or without inside frames. All Bags contain detachable mirror; most of them with envelope purse. There are two designs.

The value, where quality is considered, is very exceptional.

BOLD DESPERADO IS GENTLE LAMB WHILE AT PLAY

Leophound Takes Visitors Right Into Den of the Chicago Bad Men.

SIGHTSEERS ARE UNHARMED.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

The mysterious old loop hound, with the moth eaten gray hair, was not encouraging.

"I know their hangouts, of course, and I could lead you straight to them. But it's too dangerous. I'd be safe enough, but an outsider'd be takin' his life in his hands. Why, if that swell mob of gatmen and petemen that hangs out at Blonde Jake's ever got the office there was a snitch in the place, they'd think nothing at all of rubbing him out."

It should be explained that Carlo, the loop hound, admits himself to be the greatest authority on the haunts and routines of the most desperate and fascinating members of the criminal class. He maintains his reputation by the copious use of a lurid slang vocabulary, according to which a highway robber or auto bandit is a gatman, a safe blower a peteman, and a detective a snitch. To rob a man out, Carlo explains to his goggle eyed patrons, is a playful and euphemistic synonym for assassination.

"I can take you down to Blonde Jake's all right," he went on, "but you'll have to take your own chances. I won't be responsible."

Party Is Properly Awed.

Having properly filled his party with a delightful feeling of impending danger Carlo led the way. At the second corner he stopped and gave a quick glance up the street.

"I was afraid somebody might be talking us," he said. Half way down the block he slipped down a short flight of stairs and, with a whispered "Now be careful," opened the door. The room was long, low, and narrow. Forty feet from the entrance it turned at right angles and ran off to a door opening on another street.

In the open space at the apex of the right angle stood a piano, which was being beaten by a fat faced young man in shirt sleeves. Beside him stood a young woman in a soiled white shirt waist, with an assorted half dozen blonde curls hanging on either side of her face, in a shrill voice she was chanting the experiences of a lady in the police court. And to the judge says I:

If I give a gent my last thin dime for food,
And after that he goes and beats me up,
Can you blame me if I bash him with a brick?

Gentle Looking "Bad Men."

On either side the narrow double jointed room were small tables or shelves, just wide enough to hold a glass. At each table were four small chairs and they were almost all occupied. The men were young and surprisingly well dressed. The casual stranger would not have suspected them of being desperate and notorious criminals.

The women who sat with them at the tables seemed to have lost most of the curves and color from their faces. Their lips met in thin, straight lines. Even in the midst of their outbursts of mirth and jollity they exchanged quick and knowing glances with each other.

The instant the singer of police court justice had finished a fat and flabby young man started to celebrate in song the memory of his "dear, old Indiana home."

Carlo seated his party on either side of one of the little splinters of tables near the center. And immediately he began to point out various reckless and terrible celebrities.

Swell "Stall" Glimpsed.

"Don't look now," he said, "but that tall man at the next table across the way has just been sprung from stir. O! excuse me. I keep forgetting that you don't understand the lingo. He's just out of Joliet, I mean. He used to be the stall in the swellest gun mob in Chi. I don't know what rail he's riding now."

As Carlo saw the puzzled look in the faces of his party he shook his head. "He used to work with a crowd of pickpockets. I don't know what branch of the profession he is following at present."

Two young men came edging their way down the narrow aisle between the two rows of tables. "Look out for your money," whispered Carlo. "That guy could fan you without your knowing it."

The two crowded by with no apparent evidence of criminal activity. Carlo pulled out his watch. "They didn't get mine, anyway," he said, with a sigh of relief. "You might fan yourselves and see if you lost anything."

There were four singers now hard at work. Not for an instant was the inspiring influence of music allowed to languish. Continuously the man in shirt sleeves maltreated the piano.

"There," said Carlo at last, in a terror stricken whisper. "That guy standing up talking to the piano player. I was afraid he'd be in. There's the worst rod man the town ever saw. That's Left Handed Louie and he just as leave rub you out as look at you."

Mild Looking Bandit.

The bandit and highwayman, with whom murder was a before breakfast pastime, had red cheeks and a most mild—if somewhat vacant—expression of face. The members of the party stared at him with horror, cold chills running up and down their respective backbones. So young, so dangerous, and so deceptive in appearance!

Carlo waited but a moment. "Come," he ordered, "we'd better lam it before he makes me." He got up and led the way to the door. On the sidewalk he rounded up the party. "Well, I'm glad we got out safely. If Left Handed Louie had suspected me he might have started shooting at sight. It's a big responsibility taking me like you around."

MISS RUTH RAY STOUT

WANT TO PLENTY

United Charities is calling you to give what you can for those who have nothing.

[Statement by the United Charities.]

Last year's serious unemployment situation made a striking impression upon the public mind so that charitable citizens responded fairly generously to appeals for help to meet the distress which was so widespread. But because able-bodied men can this fall readily secure work the public apparently believed that its charity can stop. Citizens are not responding to appeals from recognized, responsible organizations just now as they should. There is sure to be a great amount of unnecessary suffering unless this attitude changes.

About $1,000 per day is required from now on to care for the poor who will come in for aid. Over 3,100 different families, meaning nearly 14,000 human beings, came in October, and this number will certainly steadily increase.

Checks should be made to David R. Forgan, treasurer, and sent to 168 North Michigan avenue.

MRS. ED TILDEN WINS SUIT AND $25,000 IN ALIMONY.

Her Father Testifies to Catching Banker's Son at Hotel with Unnamed Woman.

Edward Tilden, son of William A. Tilden, president of the Fort Dearborn National bank, will be a single man this morning when Circuit Judge Kersten signs a decree granting a divorce to Mrs. Frances Garnett Tilden.

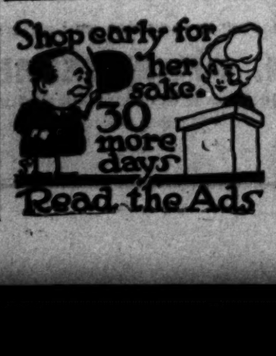

The transfer of a check for large alimony, said to be $25,000, ended a swift and carefully planned divorce hearing yesterday. Mrs. Tilden filed her bill at 11 o'clock. At 1 o'clock Tilden entered his appearance and consented to immediate hearing. At 5 o'clock the hearing was held and Judge Kersten said he would sign the decree this morning.

Miss Edna Bates, a member of the "Watch Your Step" company, was not mentioned in the bill or in the hearing, though her name previously had been connected with that of Tilden. "A woman"—that was the name of the corespondent.

Mrs. Tilden testified merely to the date of her marriage, Dec. 10, 1912, and to her leaving her husband when she became convinced of his unfaithfulness.

Her father, Attorney Garnett, who lives at 4450 Vincennes avenue, testified that in the early hours of the morning of Oct. 28 he trapped his son-in-law in a room in the Fort Dearborn hotel with a woman.

"I had had detectives on his trail," he said. "On the night of Oct. 27 they reported to me he was to be at the hotel. With two friends I went to the hotel, where we waited till 2 o'clock in the morning, when my son-in-law came up in a taxi in company with a young woman. They went to room 1512, to which they had been assigned as 'Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tolman.'"

"POOR GIRL" SUES HER RICH JILTER

The romance of Miss Ruth Ray Stout of 60 East Elm street and Arnold Stedman Ernest of East St. Louis went glimmering yesterday when suit for $50,000, charging breach of promise, was filed for Miss Stout in the Circuit court of St. Clair county.

Miss Stout's engagement was announced in THE TRIBUNE on Aug. 24 and the wedding set for Oct. 1. There were bridal parties, showers, a complete trousseau, and no end of congratulations, for young Ernest is a son of Mrs. Finis P. Ernest of East St. Louis, the widow of a Denver millionaire, vice president of the board of lady managers at the St. Louis exposition, and identified with woman's club activities.

"The Poor Girl" Story.

The Ernest estate, to which the groom-to-have-been is an heir, has large real estate holdings in two suburbs of St. Louis, in Denver and Manitou, Colo., and in El Paso, Tex.

"And I guess that was it," sobbed Miss Stout, as she told of the filing of her suit. "When Arnold's sister, Mrs. Florence E. Cragen, came to visit me last January she remarked as she was leaving:

"I didn't think much of it then, but I remembered it afterward, when Arnold kept putting me off and didn't come on the day set for our wedding. I guess his family doesn't want me—that's all. Well, I'm going to show them."

"Star Boarder" Romance.

The romance was a case of the "star boarder" and the landlady's daughter. He is 28; she 24. Young Ernest rented a room at the home of Mrs. Emma Strobel Stout, Miss Stout's mother, a year ago. He quickly became attentive to Miss Stout, she says.

"But he never kissed me then," she added. "I didn't know a thing about him except that he kept saying, 'I do hope my folks will give me another chance.' Then he went back to East St. Louis in January and since then he has sent me sixty-eight love letters and two telegrams. My lawyer, James E. Callahan, has them now.

"Everything was fine up to within a week or two of the wedding day. Then he began writing that he was sick and was out late nights and all that, and that he thought we'd better not be married for the present. And since then I haven't heard from him.

"My lawyer had a detective agency do something to him—'shadow' him, I guess it is—and they reported that he wasn't sick a bit. They said he was going around with other girls, too.

"So I suppose it's over now. I gave up my position in a stationery store in September to get my trousseau ready, but now I guess I'll have to go back to work."

Attorney for Negro Alleges Assistant Chief of Police "Planted" Evidence in Allen Case.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—That a plot had been hatched by William Hennessy, assistant chief of police, to throw the guilt of the murder of Mrs. Odette B. Allen on "Chicken Joe" Campbell was the charge made today by Attorney F. L. Barnett in a motion to take the case from the hands of the jury and free the Negro. Judge Hooper overruled the motion.

In an impassioned plea Attorney Barnett asserted Hennessy had manufactured evidence to convict the defendant. He charged Hennessy, who arrived at the prison three hours after the fire, threw pieces of an alcohol jug in the bed and then attempted to make the defendant confess he had killed Mrs. Allen by striking her.

Two state witnesses, Deputy Coroner Eugene Harris and Fred M. Chamberlin, who removed the body from the bed, testified they had seen no traces of the jug. Barnett called Hennessy "the arch criminal" in the case.

SIX BABIES BORN IN GERMANY FOR EACH WAR DEATH

SOUNDS WARNING TO U. S.

BY FLOYD P. GIBBONS.

"Germany's strongest arm is her women. Germans are being born six times as fast as they are being killed. Germany's supply of soldiers cannot be exhausted with such a birth rate."

Hudson Maxim, inventor of rapid fire guns, and gun silencers, author of "Defenseless America," and advocate of extreme military preparedness for the United States, made the above statement yesterday as he passed through Chicago.

"Germany's mothers are only a cog in the wonderfully efficient machine with which the Teutonic allies have been able to surprise the world," he said, "but the mother cog has been one of the most important ones for Germany.

Conscription the Thing.

"German efficiency is the greatest fact that future histories will relate. That efficiency has been based primarily on conscription—universal military service. It makes for patriotism, because we love those we serve.

"This war should bring home to America her pitiful lack of defenses, and further still ought to convince Chicago of the important part it has to play in the future development of our national defenses.

"Almost 90 per cent of our munition plants, shipbuilding plants, navy yards, and government store houses are located within a radius of 200 miles around New York, where they could be captured in a two weeks' intensive campaign by a prepared, efficient enemy.

"These plants which in time of war would have to feed the muscles of our fighters, should be located around the country in all sections, so that the loss of any one section would not make it impossible for us to keep up the fight.

Chicago Ideal Arsenal Center.

"Chicago, by reason of its wonderful rail and water communications, is one of the logical centers for a nation-wide chain of arsenals, explosive plants, cartridge factories, and storehouses. I should say that Detroit would rank next.

"The history of all wars is that a nation's dangers are as great as her weaknesses, and as great as the temptation to plunder her. Regardless of condemnation, the undeniable fact is that might is the only right that nations know.

Mobilizes Her Industries.

"The secret of Germany's success is the ability to mobilize her industries, which in my opinion is far more important than her ability to mobilize her armies. The efficiency of the coöperative system has been proved. Germany has encouraged her private manufacturers of munitions. When war came she was able to call forth the enormous personal resources and wealth of these industries.

"The pacifists claim that war is the result of overpreparation. The exact opposite is true.

May Last Seven Years.

"I predict that the war will last from three to seven years longer. I also think that the war will end in a draw.

"In spite of the submarine raids on English warships, the submarine has not yet eliminated the dreadnaught and superdreadnaught. England has lost most of its big ships through lack of preparation in destroyers to defend them."

Mr. Maxim is chairman of the committee on ordnance and explosives of the civilian consulting board of the navy. He was asked if the committee was at work on any new inventions.

"We don't need inventions so much. The principal need of the army and the navy is not ideas but more money to carry out the present excellent ideas that they have decided on. The country should ignore expense for the next three years and start actually preparing. President Wilson's program for preparedness is all right, as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough."

Mr. Maxim is accompanied by his wife. They are on their way to Kansas City. Fort Leavenworth, and several other western cities, where the inventor is delivering his lecture, "The Salvation of the Nation."

CUSTOMS OFFICERS SEIZE TRUNKS OF MRS. WARREN.

Treasury Department Seeks to Learn if Contents Brought to America Were Undervalued.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Whitney Warren, wife of one of America's leading architects, returned to New York from France on the steamer Espagne on Monday and went to her home 17 East Forty-seventh street. Trunks belonging to her were sent from the pier to the appraiser's stores by order of customs inspectors.

MOTOR RAIDS COME HIGH.

Agnes McGrath, who varied the monotony of life in an uptown art store a month ago by engineering a mad automobile ride through northern Indiana, and leaving a trail of smashed property ad imperiled lives, was sentenced to eight years—the limit—in the penitentiary yesterday in the County court at Crown Point, Ind. So were her companions, Sadie Murray, John Twohig, James Conroy, and Tony Constantino. Then the judge suspended the sentence of the two girls, but directed that the three men be taken to prison forthwith.

Legless Romeo Teeters to Injury As He Rams Door

PEGS AT ODD ANGLE

A grocery delivery boy passing through the alley in the rear of an apartment at 1064 East Forty-seventh street early yesterday morning saw a man rolling about on the cement sidewalk in the back yard. He was moaning. Near him lay a crutch. His legs were sprawled at grotesquely impossible angles to his body.

The boy ran into the yard and tried to raise the man to his feet. He discovered that both legs were artificial and had been broken in several places. The man muttered something incoherently about a suit case and trunk. The boy looked up and saw a trunk and suit case on the rear porch of the apartment of L. W. De Laurence on the third floor. He picked up the legless man and carried him up the two flights of stairs.

Members of the De Laurence family told him the man did not belong there. The police were summoned. They removed the man, artificial legs, crutches, and trunk and suit case.

He's the "Legless Wonder."

That is how Jacob P. Yeakel, known to ballyhoos and sidestow freaks as the "Legless Wonder," came to be in the county hospital with a broken left wrist, several fractured ribs, and probable internal injuries. An ugly wound in the man's throat was also discovered, which led at first to the theory that he had been stabbed and thrown from a rear porch of the building. From odd bits of Yeakel's queer story, picked up here and there, however, the police came to the conclusion that he had tried to use his body as a battering ram in breaking open the De Laurence kitchen door and losing his balance—none too steady on his artificial legs—plunged over the railing to the walk twenty-five feet below.

An infatuation for Sarah Pearl, a maid in the employ of Mrs. De Laurence, is believed to have led Yeakel on visits to the flat.

Believe Him a Bit Odd.

The story, pieced together by the police, shows that Yeakel's movements of late had been so weird and mysterious as to lead to the belief his mind may be affected.

Yeakel is 27 years old. He came from a family of "freaks" in Marion, Kas. His brother as well as himself was born without legs. He made considerable money by exhibiting himself in dime museums and side shows. He has more than $1,000 on deposit in the First National bank and owns, or owned, 640 acres of land in New Mexico, it is said.

According to a dispatch from Clayton, N. M., Yeakel sold his farm near Guy township, there a year ago for $5,000.

Mrs. Henry Hohenstein of 2612 Indiana avenue, at whose home Yeakel resided, explained the wound in the man's neck.

Weird, to Say the Least.

"De Laurence brought him here five weeks ago and paid a week's rent in advance for him," said Mrs. Hohenstein.

"Yesterday he wouldn't let me in his room. Finally I went in there and told him he would have to let me clean the room. 'There's no need for you to clean it, because I did,' he said. 'I tried to commit suicide, but it didn't work. I cleaned up the carpet myself.' His neck was bandaged and there was a large spot on the floor. This morning at 5 o'clock he called a taxi, loaded his trunk and suitcase into it, and went away. I was glad he was gone."

Yeakel, the Indefatigable.

Both Mrs. de Laurence and her husband ad left for the office of De Laurence, Scott & Co., a mail order firm at 117 North Wabash avenue, but Mrs. de Laurence returned shortly. She said Yeakel had made many attempts to get into her apartment during the last few weeks, but had been repulsed by herself, Miss Pearl, with whom he appeared to be infatuated, or Mrs. Jennie Ramsay, a friend from London, England, who is visiting her.

"He brought his baggage up on the back porch this morning before we knew he was around," said Mrs. De Laurence.

U. S. LAWYERS PORE OVER BOOKS ON TURK HAREM.

District Attorney Charles F. Clyne and his assistants are in a quandary as to whether a set of books seized by Gen. James R. Stuart, postoffice inspector in charge, is to be classified as obscene or works of art.

Mr. Clyne, Assistant District Attorney Henry R. Harris Jr., and other government lawyers spend a part of each day reading the books. Inquiries have been made by Mr. Clyne at the city's several libraries to learn whether the books are regarded as "standard" works.

There are seventeen volumes. They are entitled, "The Thousand Nights and A Night," translated by Richard F. Burton and printed by the "Burton club" for private subscription only. The edition is limited to 1,000 numbered sets, of which the confiscated set is No. 521.

A peculiar feature of the case is that the books were destined for Turkey and the stories in them describe Turkish harem life and the exploits of Haroun al Raschid and other oriental potentates of that time. They were mailed by the David B. Clarkson company of 308 South Wabash avenue to M. A. S. Khairi, M. A., Beirut, Turkey.

SNOW TURNS INTO BLIZZARD

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18.—Miss Bessie Snow met George Blizzard here one hot July night and recently eloped with Blizzard to Elkton, Md. News of the marriage came out today.

From Wisconsin to Crown Point—

MRS. E. H. NELSON

Ruth Maurer, daughter of August Maurer of 1010 Harrison avenue, Beloit, Wis., eloped with E. H. Nelson, who is the manager of the Sherwood Lithographing company of Beloit. They were married at Crown Point, Ind., last Tuesday. They are making their home in the Wisconsin city.

WEEGHMAN HAD ATTACKED WIFE?

Quarrel Preceded Suicide of Baseball Man's Father, Neighbors Say.

Mrs. August Weeghman, mother of the baseball and restaurant magnate, was under the care of physicians last night, ignorant of the fact that her husband had committed suicide.

According to Dr. David H. Fitzgerald and the police, she was attacked by the retired blacksmith before he killed himself. Adolph Olson, the janitor of the flat building, 931 Argyle street, said he heard Mrs. Weeghman screaming for help and broke into the flat. She was on the floor unconscious from an old wound in her throat that had been torn open. The janitor carried her in his arms to the flat of her daughter, Mrs. Harlan Gates Simmons, 908 Margate terrace, across the alley, and then telephoned to Charles Weeghman, the son.

Ignorant of Husband's Death.

The son drove from his residence, 5627 Sheridan road, to the house and discovered his father's body covered with blood. Dr. Fitzgerald was called and said he was dead. He attended Mrs. Weeghman, whose condition was such that he considered it best that she be kept in ignorance of her husband's suicide.

The wound in her throat was due to the reopening of a scar, following a skin infection.

Neighbors Tell of Quarrels.

Police Captain Cudmore and Detective Sergeant Burke said neighbors had informed them of a quarrel that took place prior to the suicide and that the Weeghmans were not in flourishing financial circumstances.

The son denied this. He said his father, a retired blacksmith, had killed himself because affluence had made him restless.

There will be an inquest this morning.

Prosecutor Begins Closing Argument and Expects to Close This Afternoon.

Morris, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Barring the unexpected, the fate of Charles B. Munday, charged with conspiracy in connection with the wrecking of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, will be in the hands of the jury in the Circuit court tomorrow afternoon.

The end of eight weeks of jury selecting, evidence, and argument appeared in sight this afternoon, when Assistant State's Attorney Bell of Cook county began his closing arguments in behalf of the prosecution. Bell was still speaking when the night session of the court was adjourned, but it expected to conclude his argument by tomorrow noon. Judge Stough then will instruct the jurors, who will retire to reach a verdict.

Bell began his argument at the close of the address by John E. Hogan, chief counsel for Munday. The declarations of the rival attorneys followed the general lines laid down by the defense and the prosecution.

Gov. Spry Denies Wilson's Plea for Life of I. W. W. Man Convicted of Murder.

WILL FACE GUN SQUAD TODAY.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 18.—Asserting his belief that a further postponement of the execution of Joseph Hillstrom, known as Joe Hill, a member of the Industrial Workers of the World, would be an unwarranted interference with the course of justice, Gov. William Spry telegraphed to President Wilson this afternoon that he cannot and will not lend himself or his office to such interference.

He says he is satisfied the president's request is based on a misconception of the facts or that there is some reason of an international nature that the president has not disclosed.

The governor's telegram was in answer to one received yesterday from the president, requesting a reconsideration of the case of Hillstrom, who was convicted of the murder of J. G. Morrison, a Salt Lake grocer, and Morrison's son, Jan. 10, 1914.

Gives Message Long Consideration.

The president's message was received by the governor after resolutions adopted by the convention of the American Federation of Labor at San Francisco, asking further consideration of the case, had been telegraphed to the president.

The governor had the president's request under consideration yesterday and until after noon today. His answer was submitted to the state board of pardons today and was unanimously concurred in by them before it was sent to the president.

A death watch was placed over Hillstrom at the state prison this afternoon and he will be shot to death tomorrow, probably early in the day. The five men appointed to execute him have been directed to report at the prison at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Not Afraid to Die.

News of Gov. Spry's action was conveyed to Hillstrom soon after the governor's message had been sent to the president. Hillstrom received the news without comment and indicated by his manner that it did not surprise him.

"This is my busy day," he told reporters. "I am not afraid to die, because I have nothing to fear. I wanted a new trial to prove my innocence, but I am not going down on my knees to beg for my life. They will call me a liar anyway."

When the reporters urged him to tell something about his family he said:

"I guess the family will be extinct tomorrow."

Hillstrom declined an offer of stimulants from the prison doctor today, saying he never had used stimulants of any kind, but would like a bottle of grape juice, which was given to him.

Sends Farewell Messages.

He sent several farewell telegrams this afternoon. One of them, addressed to W. D. Haywood, secretary-treasurer of the I. W. W., Chicago, read:

"It is a hundred miles here to Wyoming. Could you arrange to have my body hauled to the state line to be buried? Don't want to be found dead in the state of Utah."

Another telegram to Haywood read:

"Good-by, Bill. I will die like a true blue rebel. Don't waste any time in mourning—organize."

A message to Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, New York, read:

"Composed new song last week with music dedicated to the dove of peace. It's coming. And now, good-by, Gurley."

History of Murder Case.

Joseph Hillstrom was convicted of the murder of John G. Morrison, a grocer of Salt Lake City, and his son, Arling, 17 years old, at Morrison's store in the southern portion of the city about 9 o'clock on the evening of Jan. 10, 1914.

The shooting was witnessed by Merlim Morrison, another son, 14 years old. According to this boy's story, which was corroborated on many points by other evidence, two masked men entered the store with drawn pistols and, saying "We've got you now," opened fire on Morrison, who fell mortally wounded with a bullet through his chest.

Arling Morrison ran to an ice box in the store, seized a thirty-eight caliber revolver, and fired. Before the boy could shoot again he fell pierced by three bullets and died almost instantly. The men then ran from the store, one of them exclaiming that he was shot.

Hillstrom, also known as Joe Hill, was arrested three days after the shooting on information given by a doctor near Murray, Utah. Hillstrom has always maintained his innocence, but has never told where he was the night of the murder or who shot him.

WILSON WIRES MISS KELLER.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 18.—Miss Helen Keller, who yesterday sent telegrams to President Wilson and Gov. Spry of Utah, asking a stay of execution for Hillstrom, received the following telegram from the president tonight:

"I was very much affected by your telegram and wish most sincerely it was in my power to do something, but unhappily there is nothing I can do. The matter lies entirely beyond my jurisdiction and power. I have been deeply interested in the case, but am balked of all opportunity."

MAYOR BALKS ON STRIKE ACTION

Refuses Miss Addams' Plea to Intercede Unless Violence Stops.

After listening to the appeals of Miss Jane Addams and a dozen other social workers that he head an arbitration board to bring about a settlement of the garment workers' strike, Mayor Thompson yesterday reiterated his refusal to act until violence ceases. Later he agreed to serve in any capacity possible to bring about an amicable settlement if his callers would prevail upon the strikers to forego violence, and prove it by a week's peace, so that the mayor could withdraw the 600 policemen detailed on strike duty.

The delegation that waited on the mayor in the morning included, besides Miss Addams, Miss Grace Abbott of Hull house, the Rev. John Timothy Stone of the Fourth Presbyterian church, the Rev. Myron E. Adams of the First Baptist church, E. O. Brown, former judge of the Appellate court, and W. O. Thompson, attorney for the United States industrial commission.

Union Rivals Cause Outbreak.

George W. Slater, secretary of the United Garment Workers, and Albert Admanski, general organizer for the union, which is the rival of the one on strike, also were present, and caused a heated argument when Attorney Thompson attempted to explain the trouble between the two organizations. In the midst of the argument a man, supposed to be of the garment union not on strike, walked into the room with both eyes blackened.

"But, Mr. Mayor," remarked Miss Addams, "we are not here to discuss sluggings or factions, we are here to prevent such things and seek your aid in stopping them."

"The mayor of Chicago will not go into this because there is violence," said Mr. Thompson, "and as the mayor he will stay out of it because there is violence."

Panichi Freed of Murder.

Judge John Mahoney discharged Tony Panichi, charged with murder, yesterday afternoon, declaring that the evidence was insufficient to support the charge. He was accused of killing Samuel Kapper, a striking garment worker, Oct. 12, after the latter and a number of strikers had attacked him and his wife at West Harrison and South Halsted streets.

HIGHWAY BOOSTERS DINE.

"Dixie" Road Might Have Averted Civil War, Said Former Secretary Dickinson.

Had there been a Dixie highway in 1860 there would have been no civil war, former Secretary of War Jacob M. Dickinson said in an address at a "Dixie highway" celebration of the Southern club of Chicago in the Great Northern hotel last night.

"Had the Dixie highway been in existence in 1860," he said, "there would have been an interchange of travel and of friendship which would have brought the people of north and south closer together with a better understanding."

CO-OPERATORS ARE TO MEET

Persons interested in the movement of the Industrial Club for Civic Coöperation, particularly those living south of North avenue and east of the river, have been invited to a meeting at the Plaza hotel at 8 o'clock tonight. Representatives of the city and of the club will explain the civic betterment aims.

BETTER EXPORT CALL REPORTED; WHEAT RALLIES

Foreign Governments Seek to Control Ocean Freights; Winter Grain Active.

More reassuring reports yesterday in regard to the export trade conditions effected a sharp change in wheat sentiment and prices rallied sharply. The latest construction placed on the action of the British admiralty in deciding to requisition boats is that it was due to the excessive ocean freights being charged and the injustice done buyers in Europe. As a result it is claimed that England and other foreign governments will try to keep ocean freights down to a reasonable basis, and if ship owners insist on exacting exorbitant rates their boats will be taken over.

A better demand was reported for hard winter wheat for export, as this wheat is now relatively cheaper than Canadian wheat, with foreigners now satisfied that the quality will be good for milling. Prices finished with gains of 1⅝@1¾c for the December and 1⅝c for the May.

Local Cash Sales Larger.

Local sales were 130,000 bu, including 110,000 bu hard wheat to exporters. The seaboard reported a good inquiry for gulf wheat. Liverpool reports were more bearish, the English market at last feeling the effect of the large shipments from this country and Canada. Australia is expected to need a good deal of this year's crop at home, and it is estimated shipments from that country between now and next July will not exceed 40,000,000 bu.

Weather conditions are favorable in most sections. Reports from the northwest differ greatly. Conditions are favorable for the movement, but some reports indicated a falling off in country notices, and it is a remarkable fact that Minneapolis cash wheat premiums continue to hold exceptionally strong. Both wheat and flour shipments from Minneapolis continue heavy. Minneapolis stocks have increased only 320,000 bu for five days.

Canadian Movement Unabated.

The movement in Canada does not show any signs of falling off, Winnipeg having 1,218 cars, compared to 309 cars a year ago, with 1,450 cars expected today. Western receipts were 2,260,000 bu, compared to 2,153,000 bu a year ago. Local receipts were 188 cars. Northwest receipts were 1,020 cars, against 1,344 cars a week ago and 751 cars a year ago. Liverpool cables were ½@1d lower.

Clearances for the day were heavy at 2,060,000 bu and, judging from reports from the seaboard, the ports and railroads are all working to keep the grain movement from becoming congested. It would seem foreign governments are buying the wheat as fast as it can be moved out.

Corn Shorts Cause Rally.

Strength in wheat and predictions for rain or snow over a good share of the corn belt started shorts to covering and prices advanced 1@1⅛c for the day. The cash demand was moderate, and country sales were fair, but there was no pressure on the futures. Armour and commission houses were credited with buying. Receipts here were 234 cars and primary receipts were 562,000 bu, against 751,000 bu a year ago.

Cables were ½@1d off, Africa and Argentina shipping freely. Cold weather causes active consumption of corn in Europe. Clearances for the day were 62,000 bu. Cash prices were about steady, and there were sales of 80,000 bu. Missouri points reported good sales to feeders in Iowa and Wisconsin.

Oats Trade Is Small.

Oats were in fair demand, but the trade was not particularly active. Offerings were not heavy and there was a little buying based mainly on the strength in other grains. Receipts were smaller than expected at 134 cars and primary arrivals were 844,000 bu, compared to 611,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were 30,00 bu. The shipping demand was fair with sales of 165,000 bu. Prices were a little higher.

Hog Products Firmer.

Hog products were a little firmer. There was a reaction in prices at the yards due to a better demand from shippers. Receipts were a little smaller than expected at 30,000, with 23,000 expected today. Prices were 10@15c higher. There was fair buying of lard by Press, Steever, Cross-Roy-Saunders, and Tietgens. Armour and other packers were credited with selling. Western receipts of hogs were 91,400 compared to 83,300 a year ago. Liverpool prices were 9d up for hams and 9d up for cash lard. The cash trade is fair.

Rye Prices Off Sharply.

Timothy seed was quiet, March closing $8.75, nominal, and cash lots quoted $5.00@8.00, nominal. Clover seed was easy, with cash lots $10.00@19.50, nominal.

Duluth flaxseed closed 3½@3¾c lower. Cash on track, $2.08@$2.08½; November, $2.06½; December, $2.04¼; May, 2.07¾. Receipts, 81 cars. Minneapolis was 3¾c lower, with cash on track, $2.03¼@2.07¼. Receipts were 30 cars. Winnipeg closed 1½@2½c lower. November, $1.86½; December, $1.84⅞, and May, $1.89. Receipts, 19 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

The British admiralty, it is understood, is not only watching the ocean freight situation closely but in many cases it is requisitioning vessels where it is found exorbitant freights are being demanded. It is claimed vessel owners have been exacting high ocean freights without just reason and the British government, it is claimed, is to put a stop to this …

Hog receipts of 28,000 head at Chicago yesterday cleared at an advance of 10@15c for the bulk and of 25c for some of the most desirable offerings. The trade was active, with shippers credited with purchases of 9,000 head, or more than on any previous day in many weeks. Packers followed the appreciation without reluctance and a good clearance of the offerings was made, with top sales at $6.85 and the bulk at $6.10@6.60.

Cattle trade was sluggish, and receipts of 7,000 head cleared slowly at a decline of 10@15c for the bulk. There were few shipping orders and local buyers did not appear to be in much need of supplies. Bulls sold lower with the other cattle, and calves suffered a loss of 25c and more, topping at $10.00 for prime vealers.

Muttons Generally Steady.

Sheep, yearlings, and lambs sold largely steady, although some sales of lambs late in the session showed a little loss. Receipts were 12,000 head. Lambs topped at $8.90 for natives and westerns. Good western yearlings sold at $7.60, and most of the choice native ewes made $5.50.

BANKRUPTCY IS STAVED OFF.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the creditors of the Phee Construction and Engineering company, held in Chicago, it was decided not to force the concern into bankruptcy, but instead a committee of creditors will take charge of the business and complete the present contracts. Attorney Lemuel Darrow of Laporte attended the meeting. It was stated that the company's liabilities are about $120,000 and the assets about $73,000. Thomas Phee of Chicago is president and George Homer Boyd of Chicago secretary and treasurer. The principal creditors are said to be two Chicago banks, Boyd's father-in-law, and a Laporte bank. The troubles of the concern were brought to a head when the Andrew bank of Laporte filed suit for $12,000 against the First National bank of Laporte because the latter refused to cash two certified checks issued by Boyd and certified by the First National.

STANDARD OIL ISSUES

THE OIL INDUSTRY, from all indications, is about to enjoy the most prosperous period in its history. Conditions assuring prosperity are based on the phenomenal demand for gasolene for consumption in automobiles, motor trucks and farm tractors, and a constantly growing need for lubricants, fuel oils and other products in response to our rising tide of industrial activity.

CRUDE OIL PRICES have recently had a very large advance. Oklahoma crude oil, since August 1, 1915, has moved up from 40c. to $1.00 a barrel, compared with its previous high record of $1.05; Pennsylvania crude has advanced from $1.35 to $1.90, compared with a high record of $2.50; and other grades have shown a corresponding increase.

REFINED PRICES, as a result of the higher quotations for the crude product and larger demand, have also advanced sharply. Gasolene within the last few months has advanced anywhere from 4c. to 7c. a gallon in various parts of the country, while prices for lubricating oils, kerosene and other products have also moved upward.

MOTOR STOCK BOOM: The automobile shares have shown tremendous appreciation in value as a result of the growing use of motor cars for commercial and pleasure purposes. Last year's output of automobiles and motor trucks raised our gasolene consumption to 1,500,000,000 gallons a year, and in the fiscal year 1915-1916 gasolene consumption should cross the 2,000,000,000 gallon mark. As this is in excess of the country's present refining capacity, Standard Oil refineries should run full throughout the winter to provide an adequate supply.

EARNINGS AND FINANCIAL POSITION: In 1913 earnings of many of the Standard Oil companies established high records and stockholders were liberally rewarded in the way of increased cash and stock dividends. Since that time most of the companies have made large expenditures in expanding and improving their facilities and it is understood that earnings generally are now running in excess of the 1913 records. Indications are that some very big surpluses will be shown in the 1915 reports, which should result in many extra cash dividends and stock distributions, and even larger earnings may be expected in 1916.

OUTLOOK: As a result of the present strong position of the Standard Oil companies and prospects for the oil industry we look for the biggest rise in these stocks, taken as a group, that has ever been enjoyed by any class of securities.

DESCRIPTIVE BOOKLET, giving detailed information regarding these securities, as well as a comprehensive study of the general oil situation, will be mailed free on request.

WEEKLY INFORMATION, relative to matters affecting the oil industry is published in our "Weekly Summary of Available Public Information," which contains timely topics, all financial statements as issued, dividend announcements, diary and markets for the week, and complete statistical and dividend tables. Sent free on application.

SERVICE: Since the dissolution of the Standard Oil Co. we have steadily enlarged and improved our facilities as dealers in these securities until today our service, throughout the country, is recognized as second to none. We are prepared at all times to make markets in any of these issues in small or large amounts at NET prices, and have markets that are of the best obtainable.

STOCK M… AGAIN … BUYING …

STOCK MARKETS AGAIN TONE UP; BUYING RENEWED

Chicago Sentiment Leans to Copper, Low Priced Rail and Oil Shares.

Market sentiment experienced a favorable turn at the close. For two days the foreign news had been of a character to disturb small speculators, and this led to a considerable volume of selling. But the undertone is still decidedly bullish, and when bear pressure failed to exert any influence of consequence the market turned upward.

Chicago leans more specially toward the copper shares and the low priced railroads. The Maxwell stocks have a considerable following, but the principal activity from the Chicago end is in the securities mentioned.

There is a fair volume of local speculation in the oil shares, and this has broadened within the last few days. It has not, however, reached the proportions that obtained in the last previous bull market in the oil issues.

Guggenheim Distribution.

The Guggenheim Exploration company, which is a holding company for some of the more important interests represented by the Guggenheims in their various copper mining operations, is to dissolve. That means a distribution of the assets, which is to be accomplished, it is announced, about as follows:

The new Kennecott corporation will take over the $4,045,050, par value, of Utah Copper, giving its own stock in exchange. [On what basis this exchange will be made is not announced. It is hardly to be presumed that it will be on a share for a share basis, since the Utah stock is selling around 78, and the Kennecott about 55.]

What Shareholders Will Get.

The following table, prepared by Babcock, Rushton & Co., shows approximately the amount each share of Guggenheim Exploration company stock will get of the company's holdings, as of Dec. 31, 1914:

	No. of shares.	Par value.	Quotation Nov. 18.	Value at present mkt.
American Smelting & Refining Co. common	.063	$ 8.33	98	$ 8.134
Chino Copper Co.	.105	0.526	55	5.775
Ray Consolidated Copper Co.	.185	1.85	26½	4.9025
Yukon Gold Co.	3.409	17.049	3½	11.9815
Total				$30.743

Each share also will get a pro rata share of the Kennecott stock received in trade for Utah.

Value of the Holdings.

The statement of Dec. 31, 1914, also showed 33,656 shares of American Smelters Securities company held at $3,020,040, cash and demand loans of $11,837,000, and miscellaneous items totaling $1,106,737. The American Smelters stock was sold about Aug. 1 for an amount estimated at $2,800,000. That would leave additional assets of over $15,000,000, to be divided among the stockholders.

It would appear that the book value of 853,732 shares, par value $25, of Guggenheim Exploration company stock outstanding would be, before any distribution, as follows:

Stock.	Shares.	Par value.	Price.	market value.
Am. Smelt. com.	69,500	$100	98	$ 6,811,000
Chino Copper	87,750	5	55	4,826,250
Ray Consol.	154,300	10	26	4,011,800
Yukon Gold	2,843,025	5	3½	9,950,587
Utah Copper Co.	404,504	10	78½	31,753,564
Total				$57,353,201
Utah, miscellaneous items, etc.				15,000,000
Grand total [about $86 per share]				$72,353,201

This would be a fair estimate of the present actual value, were it not for the uncertainty as to what the exchange of Utah stock for Kennecott will bring forth. The same doubt probably caused the discrepancy between an apparent book value of $86 and the market quotation of 78.

War Stocks May Disappoint.

New York is beginning to anticipate disappointment on the part of holders of the war stocks when the annual reports begin to appear. It is believed the volume of unfilled contracts will not be nearly so large as the public had been led to believe, though the showing of profits will be unprecedented. This latter will be easy for some of the concerns like Crucible Steel, for instance, which have earned nothing for several years.

The prudently managed companies are expected to charge off liberally out of this first year of good profits. The cleaning up process will absorb a large amount of earnings. Should the war continue another year or two the profits available for distribution should be relatively a great deal larger than those which will be shown at the end of the current fiscal year.

Copper Up—Domestic Consumers.

It was announced that one leading copper agency in New York put up the price from 19c to 19¼c and little copper was to be obtained under the figures quoted. Producers are said to be demanding quick decision on the part of consumers, and quotations are held open for only short periods.

Domestic consumers have begun to come into the market with large orders. While they have tarried, awaiting a general resumption of business activity, the copper market has been carried up by foreign orders. Domestic consumers have lost the opportunity to obtain cheap copper.

Stewart-Warner Starter.

Stewart-Warner Speedometer common was active and firm on the local exchange. The price advanced to 89⅛ and closed at 88⅛. The company has perfected an electric starter for automobiles. The price is moderate and the sale of the product is expected to add largely to the company's profit.

While the cost of the apparatus would appeal to owners of Ford machines, there is no reason to believe the Ford company will adopt the device. Henry Ford is credited with saying recently that he wanted nothing that would add to the cost of the Ford machine. He is endeavoring, he said, to reduce the cost, and in consequence, is not adding unnecessary refinements.

Dividends Declared.

The Brooklyn Union Gas company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent and regular semi-annual extra dividend of 1 per cent, payable Jan. 1 to stock of record Dec. 15.

Money and Exchange.

Money rates in Chicago steady at 4@4½ per cent on collateral, 3½@4 per cent on commercial paper, and 4@4½ per cent over the counter. New York exchange sold at 10c discount. Chicago bank clearings were $62,063,180.

Chicago Securities.

Prices were generally firm on the local exchange. Swift & Co. shares showed some improvement, as did Diamond Match. Pneumatic Tool was up at the opening, but fractionally lower at the close. Union Carbide stock sold off ½ and Booth Fisheries preferred was quoted below the last previous sale. There was some trading in Shipbuilding shares at steady quotations.

In the bond department the Chicago Gas Light 5s sold at 103. This is the price at which the bonds have held in ordinary markets. The refunding 5s sold at 102¼.

FINANCIAL NEWS NOTES.

According to La Salle street gossip, a majority of the stock of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company is pledged for transfer to the Bethlehem Steel corporation. Such a pledge could be easily made if the oft repeated story is correct that Mr. Schwab controls 50 per cent of the stock. Accompanying the assertion of pledged control is another story that the company will be shortly taken over by Bethlehem Steel.

An officer of the International Mercantile Marine company says that announcements concerning earnings in October and November have been extravagant and misleading. He says that the combined earnings of the International Mercantile Marine and the Leyland line for September were less than those for August, and amounted to about $3,400,000 before depreciation and war taxes.

At a special meeting of stockholders of Lord & Taylor, to be held on Nov. 30, the sale of the company's wholesale department is expected to be ratified. It is understood that a new company, to be headed by Joseph H. Emery, president of Lord & Taylor, will submit an offer to purchase the wholesale business outright and continue it as a separate enterprise.

Offerings of prime bank acceptances in New York were reported moderate. As soon as any new documents are available they are absorbed by the larger banks at 2 per cent for 60 days and 2¼ per cent for 90 days.

At the December meeting of the Nevada Consolidated it is expected that an extra dividend will be declared. Predictions are made that within a short time Nevada Consolidated will cost 25.

The Republic Iron and Steel company has authorized the construction of another large blast furnace at Hazelton.

RAILS MAINSTAY OF N. Y. MARKET

Total sales of stocks, 755,000 shares.

New York, Nov. 18.—Railway shares were almost the only redeeming feature of the day's irregular and professional market, those issues displaying general strength and a broader inquiry, after an early period of hesitancy. Erie was the most active stock in the list, and advanced ⅜ to 45⅝, its highest price in almost a decade. Union Pacific's steady rise of almost 3 points to 141½, the top quotation of the year, stimulated a demand for such stocks as St. Paul, Great Northern, Reading, Lehigh Valley, and New Haven, which were higher by 1 to 2 points.

There were sporadic gains in the war and semi-war descriptions, as well as automobile and sugar stocks and United Fruit, but pressure on these issues invariably was followed by reversals. Mercantile Marine preferred reacted 3 points to 67⅛.

Coppers Make Little Progress.

Coppers failed to make appreciable progress, in spite of another advance in the metal to 19¼ cents, the third upward revision in a week's time. United States Steel was the target of the short interest, and Bethlehem Steel ranged between 490 and 474, closing at 485, a gain of 5 points. In general, specialties of all kinds suggested an increasing lack of public interest.

Latest developments in the European situation contributed measurably toward the heavier tone of international issues in London. That center was again a seller here, some of its liquidation being ascribed to continental interests. Virtual completion of the new British commercial credits had a favorable effect on sterling exchange, which rose to its best rate of recent weeks.

Bonds Firm to Strong.

Bonds were firm to strong, with a fair request for convertible issues. United States registered 2s and 4s advanced ⅛ per cent on call.

Mercantile paper, 3@3½; sterling, 60 day bills, 4.6350; demand, 4.6865; cables, 4.6950. Francs, demand, 5.91; cables, 5.90. Marks, demand, 80⅝; cables, 80⅞. Guilders, demand, 41⅝; cables, 42. Lires, demand, 6.47; cables, 6.46. Rubles, demand, 32⅝; cables, 33. Bar silver, 51⅝c. Mexican dollars, 39½c. Government bonds firm. Railroad bonds strong. Time loans easy; 60 days, 2½ per cent; 90 days, 2½@2⅝ per cent; six months, 3 per cent. Call money easier; high, 2; low, 1½; ruling rate, 1⅞; last loan, 2; closing bid, 1⅞; offered at 2. The inquiry for London bills was unabated in the final dealings, demand rising to 4.6885 and cables to 4.6975.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Money was in quiet demand today. Discount rates were steady, owing to the poor bank return. American exchange was firmer, cable transfers ranging from 4.69¼ to 4.69⅝. The stock market was generally quiet in the absence of any special stimulating feature. The usual investment transactions were recorded, but Japanese bonds were easy and International Mercantile Marine reacted. Copper shares were firm on American advices and rubber stocks improved again following the rise in the raw material. Except for a moderate amount of business in the low priced issues, American securities were dull and inclined to droop on the rise in exchange. Bar silver, 24 13-16d per ounce. Money, 4¾ per cent. Discount rates, short bills, 5⅜ per cent; three months, 5⅜ per cent.

WOOL.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The wool auction sales closed today with offerings of 7,300 bales. The selection was in brisk demand and prices were firm. At the close merinos were 10@15 and occasionally 20 per cent dearer. Crossbreds had a similar rise, and in both cases medium growths showed the most improvement. Inferior merinos finished unchanged to 5 per cent dearer after recovering an opening loss of 10 per cent. During the sales the home trade bought 90,000 bales, America 12,000, and the continent 13,000, while 28,000 were held over. A sale of sheepskins was held today. There was a good demand for the 7,300 bales offered. Full wooled merinos and crossbreds advanced 10 per cent and clothing 5 per cent. Pelts were unchanged.

BIG DEAL IN SKYSCRAPERS.

Californian Trades 16 Story New York Building Under Construction for Postal Life Home.

New York, Nov. 18.—Big skyscrapers were "swapped" today in a $7,000,000 deal, one of the biggest single real estate transactions in the history of the country.

Clarence Payne, a young Californian traded to the Postal Life Insurance company the sixteen story Guaranty building, under construction at Forty-third street and Fifth avenue. In return he received the fifteen story building owned by the life insurance company at Nassau and Liberty streets, a six story apartment house, a ten story and a seven story loft building, and a five story building located at Savannah, Ga.

PHILADELPHIA NEW YORK SAN FRANCISCO

Anglo-French 5% External Loan

Due October 15, 1920

Government bonds have been justly regarded as the premier type of investment. Great Britain and France are each separately obligated to pay this loan. The security represented by the promise and the record of two nations of such great recognized wealth, combined with the return of nearly 5½%, offers an unprecedented opportunity to apply the sound principle of diversifying one's investments as to geographical location as well as to character.
